The other day we had the pleasure of a visit from Albert B. Hodges, who retired as undefeated chess champion of the United States many years ago. In the course of conversation, we mentioned the Max Judd collection of which we had forty-four complete years of the British Chess Magazine for disposal, and were rewarded with a most interesting anecdote.

Hodges got his early chess training in St. Louis, Mo. The first match he ever played was with Max Judd. At that time, Judd was St. Louis' outstanding player and one of the country's leading experts. Assuming the attitude of a man of experience, he suggested to Hodges that they play without clocks, giving as his reason that Hodges was young and inexperienced in the handling of a clock and it might affect his game. Hodges, little suspecting what he was in for, agreed that it was a good idea.

Picture to yourself the scene of the opening match game. Both players sit down to play. Judd has brought with him a paper bag full of lemons! He reaches into the bag, takes out a lemon, carefully slices it in half, frugally puts one half back into the bag, and begins to audibly suck on the other half. When nothing but the rind is left, he starts on the second half, and when that is gone, he cuts up a new lemon . . . . .

We can imagine how the process in time would affect even the most stolid opponent. Add to that, the fact that Judd had what the old-timers call "zitsfleish" and you get the perfect picture. Hodges stated that he once went out to eat, took his time about it, then spent half an hour in walking the meal off, and returned to find Judd still sucking on a lemon without having made a move!

P. S. Judd won the match.

In last month's issue, we noted the fact that Sammy Reshevsky had gone to Russia. That was all the news available at the time: a cablegram giving the bald fact without details. It seems that he didn't go alone. In fact, Keres, Flohr and Botwinnik went with him. And Botwinnik suggested to the powers that be in Russia that a chess tournament simply must be held to take advantage of the presence of such talent. The result is the current eighteen man tournament in which every leading Russian player, with the exception of Botwinnik, himself, is participating. The tournament is scheduled to be played partly in Leningrad and partly in Moscow. At the end of six rounds, Smislov, the young Junior Champion of the U. S. S. R., is leading the field. Reshevsky is tied for second with Rabinowitsch and Ragozin. Strange- enough Loewenfisch, the Russian champion, Flohr, and Keres are all near the bottom of the second division. However, the tournament is young yet. If there is one thing that may be accepted as an axiom in chess, it is the fact that "class will tell". We give an example of the skill of young Smislov from the finals of the recent Class A Championship Tournament in Russia, in which he finished first in his section, and gained the rating of "Master".

Reuben Fine came back from Holland full of enthusiasm over his father-in-law's idea for a new venture in chess journalism. The facts he gave us are really most interesting, and we pass them on to our readers.

Keesing's International Chess Archives will be the rather imposing title. It will appear approximately twice a month, contain 1,500 games in the course of a year, of which about 15% will be annotated. It will be under the supervision of the eight masters who competed in the A.V.R.O. Tournament and will also contain theoretical articles by these masters. The pages will be divided into four columns so that the articles will appear in four different languages. The notation used will be a combination of the figurine and algebraic notations. That is, a picture of the piece will be shown, and the square it moves to will be designated. It will
The annual Christmas Tournament of the Hastings and St. Leonard’s Chess Club was won by the young Hungarian master, L. Szabo. Szabo has been one of Hungary’s leading players for the past few years. He came to Hastings fresh from a triumph in the Budapest Tournament held in November. At that tournament, he tied for first with Barcza, winning twelve, losing one (to Lajos Steiner), and drawing two.

At Hastings, he was undefeated, winning six games and drawing three. Second place went to the former world champion, Dr. Max Euwe, who finished a point behind, having lost one game to S. Landau, his countryman.

We are not addicted to self-praise, but think we have some kind of a compliment coming for not being even later!
The A. V. R. O. Tournament

The games in the first half proved that the fighting spirit among the players was at a high pitch. A great many draws had been predicted, due to their seeming equality. Yet of the twenty-eight games played, only sixteen were of a type that could be called real tournament draws. As the rounds progressed, the battle became fiercer. The sixth round had only one draw, and the seventh round none at all.

The youngsters were leading the tournament. Predictions before the start had placed Alekhine at the top and Fine near the bottom. Which just goes to show what predictions are worth, after all. A score of 3½ out of 7 for the cautious Capablanca is understandable, but finding Alekhine with a minus score is certainly a surprise. Perhaps Dr. Alekhine's article in the Manchester Guardian gives the best possible answer. We quote:

"The important contest just concluded raises a certain number of questions on the adequate solution of which, the development of the chess movement may largely depend, at all events on its sporting side. The first question is this: Can a tournament, carried on under absolutely new and abnormal conditions, be considered a sufficiently solid basis for the exact determination of the comparative strength of the participants? Stated in this way, the question can ... only be answered in the negative. Chess masters, some of them getting on in years, were forced, without sufficient warning, to play a tournament of exceptional difficulty, continuing for three weeks without a single day's rest, and to play, day after day, in a new town. This was absurd, and cannot be agreed to in the future.

"When we have said this, and have added that the tournament revealed no player who outclassed the rest (the first two prizes were tied for), there still remains a salient fact of which the chess world will have to take account—the victory of youth. We may try to explain or excuse the ill-success of one player or another by special circumstances, such as fatigue or ill-health; we may throw doubt on the superiority of a tournament winner since success is almost always partly a matter of luck; but in all fairness, we cannot get away from the fact that three representatives of the younger generation beat the world champion and his two predecessors.

THE NEXT TITLE MATCH

"The logical and inescapable conclusion is that the next match for the world title must be fought against a representative of the younger generation. Which one? In my opinion, this is a matter of minor importance; no one can claim an exclusive moral right to be the first challenger. The thing that matters to the chess world is to determine whether the holder of the title is at all times the best player in the world; and only a match, not a tournament, however strong the players, can settle this.

"Which of the four matches, against Keres, Fine, Botwinnik or Reshevsky would be the most interesting from a sporting and from a purely chess point of view? In my opinion, it is just as difficult to say before the event as it would have been, for example, to say in advance what would be the result of the tournament just concluded. Each of these young masters has his own style and his own conception of chess; each has a pronounced individuality. Each, therefore, represents a complex and an exceedingly interesting problem for anyone who, like the writer of these lines, has always considered the psychological element to be one of the most important factors of the struggle in chess. It is therefore, with the greatest satisfaction, that I envisage the probable coming fight—or, I hope, fights!

"The present situation is this: after the tournament was over, Keres challenged me to a match, adding that he would prefer not to play before the end of 1940. Accepting in principle, I communicated to him my financial conditions, which are virtually the same as those of the first match against Dr. Euwe and of the projected match against Flohr; I also conveyed my decision in future to defend my title in one place only. Practical experience of the last matches, and especially of the AVRO Tournament, has shown me the impossibility of playing my best if there are journeys to be made during the contest. It is now for the challenger and those who may support him to reply; in any case, there remains the possibility of another match for the title in 1939.

FORM AT THE TOURNAMENT

"Returning to the sporting results of the tournament, we find, to begin with, that the participants are neatly divided into three groups—the two winners (Keres and Fine); the semi-winners, with 50% of the maximum points or a little over (Botwinnik, Euwe, Reshevsky and myself); and finally, the two losers (Capablanca and Flohr). Figures can be inexorably hard, but they are inexorably fair: as candidates for the world title, the winners have plainly deserved the attention of the chess community; the results achieved by the champion and his immediate predecessor are not those which might ordinarily have been expected from them; but the failure of the two who have come last, virtually eliminates them for some time to come from the contests for the world title.

"We thus find that, in spite of all the defects of its organization, the AVRO Tournament has been beyond question, of lasting sporting value; its purely chess value also, without being transcended, is not to be despised.
From the point of view of the theory of openings, we find that the stock of the Grunfeld Defense has risen a little; that of the Nimzowitsch Defense and, especially, of the French Defense has perceptibly fallen. From the artistic point of view almost all the masters produced characteristic specimens of their chess style and temperament. Keres showed his extraordinary tactical ability in his wins against Fine and Capablanca; Fine as White exploited with equal energy and accuracy the superficial opening play of Flohr and of the writer; Botwinnik in his three victories was equally brilliant in his attacking play (against Capablanca and Reshevsky), and in his endgame technique (against me); Euwe beat Capablanca and Flohr with the precision of style of his best days; Reshevsky played a game of a high order against Euwe; as for myself, I do not think I am capable of playing better than in my wins against Euwe and Capablanca."

ROUND 5—NOVEMBER 13th

R. Fine 1  S. Flohr 0
A. Alekhine ½ P. Keres ½
M. Botwinnik ½ M. Euwe ½
S. Reshevsky ½ J. R. Capablanca ½

The round was played at Zwolle, a prosperous little provincial town in the eastern part of Holland. Among the spectators, seats were reserved for the wives of the six married players. Mrs. Euwe, Mrs. Flohr and Mrs. Capablanca, spent most of their time reading books. Mrs. Botwinnik gazed straight ahead all the time, apparently unperturbed. Mrs. Fine kept herself busy, writing notes. Mrs. Alekhine, at a table somewhat apart, just knitted.

Dr. Tartakower, reporting this round in "De Telegraaf" compared the masters with gladiators entering the arena, and carries out the comparison in terms of the prize ring. By physical posture, he places Alekhine, Euwe and Botwinnik in the heavy-weight class, Flohr and Keres in the light-weight class, and Fine in the middle-weight class. Then digressing, he remarks that one cannot detach Reshevsky from the child-prodigy stage of the past and gossips that there is a rumor that Capablanca is toying with the idea of winning at least one game before his 50th birthday (Nov. 19th)! Touching on the silence required while the round is in progress, he admits the necessity for it, yet at the same time deplores the requirement, and wishes he could loudly cheer the masters. He hopes the time may come when chess players will be carried off on the shoulders of a wildly enthusiastic public.

Alekhave presses hard but Keres saves the day by masterly end-game technique.

For after 69 R-K7, P-Kt6; 70 R-Kt1, P-B7; 71 R-PxP, P-B3(Q) there is no saving miracle left in the position. This was the most sensational result of the first half of the tournament. (Translated from “De Telegraaf” by J.B.S.)

The last round of the first half of the tournament was played in Amsterdam, the capital of Holland. The center of interest is of course, the Fine-Keres game. Both players are young and hot-headed. All the players are tired and look the part. And small wonder, the going has been pretty rough. Particularly the old guard (Alekhine, Capablanca and Euwe) have been troubled by the physical and mental strain of this "Panorama Tournament" (Tartakower). Fine was plainly nervous under the strain of his impressive record up to that time. Tartakower thinks that this accounts for his move 12 QxP, which experiment turned out disastrously and resulted in his getting a bad pawn structure. However, it required "black-magic" on Keres' part to demonstrate this convincingly.
In addition to the regular 7th Round games, a number of adjourned games had to be concluded before the second-half of the tournament could commence. The Flohr-Botwinnik game was quickly settled without play by Mrs. Flohr and Mrs. Botwinnik and resulted in what Tartakower calls a "Hotel-Draw". The players themselves never showed up for play, merely telephoning their decision. The Keres-Reshevsky game was settled equally fast. Reshevsky was a piece down, but did not want to resign without seeing the sealed move first. "Plain human curiosity, pure and simple", says Tartakower.

Alekhine fails to get a good queen side development and is forced into an unfavorable Rook, Kt, and P ending. He battles sturdily, but to no avail.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ACTIVITIES

The Christmas Holidays annually witness the gathering of the collegiate clans in a struggle for chessic honors. The past few years have witnessed stirring conflicts among the members of the H-Y-P-D League composed of Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Dartmouth; and the Intercollegiate Chess League composed of the College of the City of New York, New York University, Brooklyn College and Yeshiva College. This year there was a third group! The Triangular Chess League composed of Columbia, Pennsylvania and Cornell who in previous years were members of the Intercollegiate Chess League.

In the H-Y-P-D League, Harvard made a clean sweep, winning possession of the Belden-Stephens Trophy for the fourth consecutive year. The boys from Cambridge triumphed over their rivals defeating Dartmouth 4-0, Princeton 3-1, and Yale 2½-1½. The final standings were: Harvard 9½-2½, Yale 7-5, Princeton 5-7, Dartmouth 2½-9½.
In the Intercollegiate Chess League the contest was exceptionally close, with City College clinching the honors on the very last day. As a result, they obtained possession of the Harold M. Phillips Trophy for one year. The final standings were:

BOURNO CITY CHAMPIONSHIP

Weaver W. Adams won the 1938 City of Boston title with a clean score of 12-0. This gives him two legs on the George Sturgis Cup. His previous victory was in 1935. The Cup has been in competition for five years, Harlow B. Daly having won it in 1934 and 1937, and Sydney S. Coggan in 1936. The first player winning it three times gains permanent possession.
ROOK VS. BISHOP

By Jose Maestre

(This little studied phase of the game will be discussed in a series of monthly articles. The subject is one of great practical value and should prove helpful to all players—masters as well as amateurs. It is a special contribution to THE CHESS REVIEW. We are happy to present it, for the first time, to the chess world, and urge our readers not to miss a single installment. The Editor.)

For the purpose of these studies, the following facts will always be assumed:
1. The stronger force (King and Rook) will always be called White.
2. White will always play UP the board.
3. The Black Bishop will always be the Queen's Bishop (traveling on white squares).
4. That corner of the board which may be controlled by the Bishop (Black's QR1 and KR8, White's KR1 and QR8) will be called the Positive or "P" Corner and is generally the corner where the Bishop is least effective—hence is favorable for White.
5. The other two corners (Black's QR8 and KR1—White's KR8 and QR1) will be called the Negative or "N" Corners—generally favorable for Black.

It is a well-known fact that when the Bishop and his King, especially the latter, are near the center of the board, the game is in theory and practice a draw—unless the Bishop is subject to capture. The reason is that it is impossible by force to restrict the Black King to the Positive Corner.

White can, however, force the Black King to the edge of the board. His method will be similar to the elementary King and Rook vs. King ending. He will gain the opposition with his King and then check Black with his Rook, thus forcing him back. Should the Bishop interpose on a check, the Rook will tempo on the same rank—achieving the desired result.

When White has succeeded in driving Black to the edge of the board, he will attempt to win by mating Black or threatening mate in such a manner as to win the Bishop—after which mate generally follows in a few moves. To do so, his King must gain the opposition. Since there are eight squares on any side of the board, the rival Kings can be in opposition in eight different ways. Four of these oppositions favor White and four of them favor Black. In order to make a study of all of them we must devise a method of identifying each. The following diagram will help to clarify this point.

![Opposition Diagram]

Proposition I

When the Kings are in Opposition 4 the Rook will always win (with two exceptions which we give herewith—diagrams A and B).

Diagram A

This diagram is intended to illustrate that if Black's Bishop is on either his KB2 or KR2 he can draw.

White attempts to win:
1. R-KKt3
Best as it confines the Black King and threatens 2 R-Kt7!
Heading for the Negative Corner. When the King is able to reach the Negative Corner, and the Bishop controls the long diagonal leading to either side of that corner (in this case KKt1 or KR2), and can be interposed in the event of a check by the Rook, then the game is a draw.

2 R-Kt5ch K-R3
Not 2 ... K-R5; 3 R-Kt7 wins.
3 K-B5 B-R7
Drawn

(2) When the Bishop is at KR2:
The same procedure is followed. Black heads for the negative corner.

This diagram illustrates the second exception to the rule that with the Kings in Opposition 4 the Rook wins. Here, it is a draw, because no matter where White moves his Rook, Black plays K-R6 and White cannot gain the opposition.

Having presented the exceptions to the rule, we shall now proceed to prove the rule itself. Let us examine Diagram A placing the Black Bishop on his King's third square.

According to the Rule, White must win:

1 R-K3
Any other move by the R would permit Black to play K-R4 and gain the Negative Corner; e.g. 1 R-QR3, K-R4; 2 R-R5ch, K-Kt3; 3 R-R6, K-B2; Drawn.

1 ... B-B2
2 R-K7 B-Kt3
3 R-K5 ...
3 R-K1 would also win. But 3 R-K5 would be a blunder permitting Black to draw by 3 ... K-R4; 4 R-K5ch, K-R3 and Black reaches the "N" corner.

3 ... B-B2
If instead 3 ... K-R6; 4 R-KKt5, B-Kt1; 5 R-Kt5ch, K-R7 ( ... K-R5?; 6 R-Kt8!) 6 K-B3, B-B3ch; 7 K-B2 and wins.

The Horowitz-Kashdan Match

The final result of this match was a 5-5 draw. The last game was completed on the very last day of the old year, permitting Horowitz just sufficient time to grab his traveling bags and bid farewell to New York for a period of approximately three months.

Looking back at the match, it appears as though the final result is just about right. The two contestants were so evenly matched that the slightest bit of luck would have tipped the scales one way or the other. This does not mean to imply that they played perfect chess. But as a rule, in the course of a ten-game match, the element of chance is pretty well done away with.

There will be no further play-off and the title of Champion of the American Chess Federation for 1938 will be shared jointly by both players.

1 P-Q4 P-Q4 5 P-K3 B-K2
2 P-QB4 P-K3 6 Kt-B3 O-O
3 Kt-QB3 Kt-KB3 7 R-B1 P-KR3
4 B-Kt5 QKt-Q2

This looks wrong at this point. It creates a weakness and allows White to take a stronger diagonal with the Bishop. 7 ... P-B3 or 7 ... P-QR3 are more usual.

8 B-B4 P-QR4

If now 8 ... P-B3; 9 P-B5, since Black no longer can play the equalizing move 9 ... P-Kt4. The text is risky, but the only way to gain any freedom.

9 PxQP KPxP

This leaves the QP weak with no compensation. Better was 9 ... KtxP. If then 10 KtxKt, PxKt; 11 B-Q3, Q-Kt4ch; or 11 ... P-B5 followed by ... B-B5ch, with good chances. White's best might be 10 B-K3, KtxBt; 11 PxKt, with about an even game.

10 B-Q3 P-Kt4
11 O-O Kt-K2
12 Kt-K5 ...

From this point White aims directly for the K side, where he has definitely greater mobility.

13 PxKt Kt-K5
14 Q-R5 ...

Stronger than 14 BxKt, PxB; 15 Q-B2, Q-Q6; 16 Q-R4, when ... Q-R3! would save the threatened KP.
14 ... KtxKt

The exchange only accentuates White's advantage on the King's wing. Better was 14 ... P-B4, to be followed by ... Q-K1.

15 PxKt B-Kt4

The threat was 16 BxP, PxP; 17 QxRP with a winning attack.

16 B-Kt3 P-QR4
17 P-KB4 B-K2
18 Q-B5!

The most forceful, as it creates further weaknesses. 18 P-B5, P-B3! would lead to nothing for White.

18 ... P-Kt3
19 Q-R3 K-R2
20 P-B5

Now this move is the prelude to a quick breakthrough. The immediate threat is 21 B-KB4, P-KR4; 22 PxPch, PxP; 23 QxPch.

20 ... B-Kt4
21 B-KB4 BxQ
22 RxB

23 QR-KB1

White could win material by 23 PxPch, PxP; 24 BxPch!, KxB; 25 Q-Kt3ch, K-R2; 26 R-B7ch, RxR; 27 QxQ but Black could still put up a prolonged resistance in the ensuing endgame. The text, threatening both PxPch and R-R4, is even more effective.

23 ... K-Kt1

A sorry retreat, but there is nothing better. If 23 ... B-B1; 24 PxPch, PxP; 25 R-R4!, BxQ; 26 R(1)-B7ch wins. 23 ... R-KKt1 would allow a sparkling finish: 24PxPch, PxP; 25 R-R4, Q-Kt4; 26 R-B7ch, R-Kt2; 27 RxPch!, QxR; 28 BxPch!! , KxB; 29 Q-B5 mate.

24 PxP PxP
25 QxP QxPch?

This loses quickly. Best was 25 ... Q-Kt2; when 26 QxQch, KxQ; 27 RxR, RxR; 28 RxB, KxR; 29 BxP would be a won ending. Or 26 Q-Kt5 would maintain the attack.

26 K-R1 RxR

If 26 ... R-B3; 27 BxP, RxR; 28 B-R7ch!, K-R1 (or ... K-B2; 29 RxRch wins); 29 B-B5ch, K-Kt1; 30 B-K6ch.

27 QxPch K-B1
28 Q-Q6ch K-Kt1

29 RxR Q-K8ch

If 29 ... QxB; it is mate in five beginning with 30 Q-K6ch. The text only delays matters a bit.

30 B-B1 R-K1
31 Q-Kt6ch K-R1
32 Q-R6ch K-Kt1
33 R-Kt4ch Resigns

White had to play the ending well to draw. Had he given up all the K side Ps, in return for Black's Q side Ps, he would have lost.

The Psychology of Chess

By H. Rogosin

A short time ago a Viennese Professor of Psychology investigated 500 different games and pastimes in order to determine which one was best for taking jaded minds away from the stress of modern life.

He found it in chess.

Such a finding helps to explain the great popularity of the Sport of Kings. Dr. Lasker has estimated indeed, that at least 100,000,000 people understand the moves of the different pieces.

At the same time, however, the American Newsweek of May 2, 1938 said that the game fairly well.

For the average man what is best for taking jaded minds away from the events of the board was accuracy. Patience or the ability to wait was important, as of course was accuracy.

In 1907, A. F. Cleveland, writing for the American Journal of Psychology, decided that chess was popular because people had an "instinct" for combat (Psychology today would not agree with such an analysis); it was direct and had no anti-social aspects; it was a competitive game of skill; the desire to win and the ability to plan ahead made it acquire interest. He said: "Master players combine to a marked degree an accurate and persistent chess memory, quickness of perception, strong constructive imagination, power of accurate analysis and a far seeing power of combination".

Blackburne, the famous Englishman, in 1899 quoted as recalling any number of games played in 1862. In the present day, Alekhine, world's champion, is supposed to be able to recall every game of note of the last 30 years, with all their moves!

Cleveland concluded, however, "that chess skill is not an index of general intelligence, that the reasoning involved in chess playing is reasoning in very narrow limits, and that a considerable degree of chess skill is possible to one who is mentally deficient in almost every other line."

This conclusion is backed up by the first psycho-technical experiments with chess at the Moscow International Tournament of 1925, reported by Gonzalo R. Lafora. This tourney was won by Bogoljubow, and practically all the foremost players of the time participated: Capablanca, Marshall, Lasker, Reti, Grunfeld, Rubinstein, Yates, Samisch, Spielmann, Tartakower, Torre, Dus-Chotimirski, and Lowenfisch.

Professors Diakov, Rudik, and Petrovski of the Psychotechnic Laboratory of Moscow University conducted these experiments on "memory reflexes", attentive memory, imagination, powers of observation, association abilities, and affective tendencies; the development of each "faculty" was studied and then an intellectual portrait obtained. These professors decided that the great chess players had no better memory than the average man; that their masterly playing was due to professional habit and knowledge like the memory of the musician; that they had no greater capacity for concentration than the average man. But their dynamic attention was greater; they had developed their grasping and understanding of new situations and changes. No special talent was needed for chess, in their opinion, but they did say that "A tendency to abstract, formal and objective thought in which the general predominates over the particular is essential to success in chess". Synthesis predominated over analysis.

Reti, one of the contestants, believed that "Chess is a purely spiritual struggle", while Lasker, the professional philosopher, thought the game an outlet for the biological urge to fight or survive which "demanded a game requiring great mental strength". It is in line with this idea that William James suggested chess as a moral equivalent to war. Then too, it must be remembered that the Buddhists or ancient Hindus are said to have invented the game as a substitute for battle. According to Van der Linde, they believed that "war and the slaying of one's fellowmen, for any purposes whatever, is criminal, and the punishment of the warrior in the next world will be much worse than that of the simple murderer, hence chess was invented as a substitute for war".

Up-to-date psychology would largely if not wholly discount these ideas of spiritual struggle and outlets for biological urges. Just how, the psychologists would ask, can a biological urge demand anything?

Psychology today would agree in placing the main emphasis on the building up of habit patterns by individuals of average ability. Chess is not a difficult game to learn, though the individual who wishes to play well, must be prepared to spend some time studying. However, one can learn the elements of play in a few hours, and it is a well-known fact that one does not have to be a very good player to enjoy playing chess.

Modern psychology would not countenance the suggestion of mental qualities in which men were superior to women: "... the study of differences in intelligence seems completely to have destroyed the old prejudice that women are intellectually inferior to men" (Coleman R. Griffith). "There is no evidence whatsoever for the theory that women are below men in mental calibre, while it is an indispensable part of every psychologist's stock in trade that there are no sex differences in intelligence. There is no reason on the basis of intelligence that militates against women being as great as men in fields of intellectual endeavor, which of course includes chess.

In spite of the fact that women have the requisite capacity to play, why is it that they have so few really fine players? For one thing there haven't been enough numbers participating in the sport. It must be remembered that millions of men are engaged in this recreational activity, and therefore by the laws of probability alone, one would expect to find a large number of excellent players. In the second place, interest in the past among women, has not been widespread nor has it been very great.

But the future for them in chess is very bright. There are ever-increasing numbers of women participating in this delightful game. All over the world there is at the present time, a surge of feminine activity and interest in this sport, which for centuries has been almost completely dominated by men. Today, we find one woman competing on even terms with the best men players of the globe: Miss Vera Menchik formerly of Czechoslovakia, and now a resident of England.

Now for the final question: is chess an art or a science? From my particular viewpoint, science means a methodology, a way of reasoning with regard to the material at hand. That is the outstanding characteristic of science down through the ages: a method of determining facts in different fields. So it is that I hold that we reason in those sections of human endeavor called the arts as well as in specific sciences. We may not be able to reason so well about painting as about physics, but that is due to the difficulty of the material we are dealing with. The same fundamental dependence on facts is present in both. We cannot reason so adequately in sociology or history as in the so-called physical sciences. In chess, due to the difficulty of the material we are dealing with, the vast numbers of possible moves and combinations, exactness is not to be achieved except in a limited way. That does not bar the use of reasoning, of scientific reasoning. Chess then does not need to be regarded as an art or a science: it needs to be regarded as a way of dealing with certain problems. That way involves the use of as good reasoning as possible, and the empirical check or verification is in the carrying out into practice on the chessboard, the reasoning used.

Hearty congratulations to H. Medler who wins the Ladder Prize and best wishes for a rapid second climb.

Sincere felicitations to F. Gamage whose No. 1168 receives the Honor Prize.

It is with real regret that the Problem Editor states that we must relinquish the editorship of the Problem Department due to the press of other duties.

It has been a great pleasure to edit the department, but unfortunately makes too serious inroads upon our time.

To all our readers, solvers and composers, a reluctant farewell, and to the succeeding Problem Editor, the best of luck!

WASHINGTON SQUARE PHILADELPHIA
Chess and Checker Catalogue Sent on Request
We omitted mention last month of the reception tendered by Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Phillips on December 25th, to Dr. Emmanuel Lasker in honor of his seventieth birthday. A few hundred chess enthusiasts gathered to pay homage to the former World Champion. The taste of the birthday cake, which was made in the form of a chessboard with squares of chocolate and white icing, still lingers pleasantly!

Our Holland correspondent advises that a twenty game match between M. Botwinnik and Dr. Euwe is in the air. If consummated, half the games will be played in Holland and half in Russia.

Uncle Sam’s postal sleuths generally get their man. Or so it would seem to this observer. Recently an enthusiastic autograph hunter from Holland addressed a letter as follows:

R. FINE, Esq.
Knotted chess-player
U. S. A.

The post office, not to be daunted by such a trifling matter, scribbled on the envelope, “Try The Chess Review” and Reuben got his mail!

Commencing with the March issue we shall run a series under the title “Famous Last Round Tourney Thrills” by Paul Hugo Little.

Our amiable Dutch translator, Mr. John B. Snetblage, advises that the Dutch newspapers of November 17th, carried the report of the death of Paul Johner, the concert cellist, and the greatest chessplayer Switzerland has ever produced. Paul Johner’s principal victories were:

* Gothenburg, 1920—B Tourney—First prize ahead of Euwe and Marchand.
* Scheveningen, 1923—Tied for first with Spielmann ahead of Colle, Maroczy and Reti.
* Trieste, 1924—First ahead of Canal, Yates, Dr. Tarrasch.
* Debrecen, 1923—Tied for second with Dr. Tarrakower, ahead of Knoch.
* Berlin, 1925—First prize in a four cornered match with Rubinstein, Teichman and Mieses.

Paul’s cello concerts enabled him to go abroad and participate in international tournaments. He leaves a brother, Hans Johner, who follows him closely in chess ability, but has confined his activities to Swiss tournaments.

SPOT NEWS!

Sammy Reshevsky is due home on the Queen Mary, Thursday, February 23rd. Albert C. Simonson will not play at Margate! He plans to marry Miss Jane Wessel on March 2nd and take a honeymoon cruise to the West Indies. Good Luck, “SP”!

Jack Landau informs us that his brother had a high fever while playing his game against Euwe published on page 46. The game speaks for itself!
Last month we carried a little story about Albert B. Hodges and Max Judd. We have since learned that it was Judd who made it possible for Hodges to come to New York. Old-timers may remember the Eden Musee and the chess-playing Automaton that was one of its attractions. Judd received an invitation to play in the Automaton, but did not care to leave St. Louis, and turned the job over to Hodges.

Hodges received minute instructions for meeting Mr. Hooper (the owner of the Automaton). On his arrival in New York, he was to check in at a hotel and refrain from making any acquaintances. The next day, he was to contact Mr. Hooper at 11 A. M., by waiting on the northwest corner of 23rd Street and Broadway until a gentleman, (Mr. Hooper, of course), spoke to him. For identification he was to wear a white carnation in his lapel. Hodges carried out his instructions faithfully, and Mr. Hooper, after passing him a couple of times and inspecting him carefully, spoke to him and led him into the Eden Musee by the back entrance on 24th Street.

Hodges informed him that to hold his job he must lose his identity. Hodges was not permitted to visit any of the local chess clubs though he longed to do so. He was not permitted to fraternize with any chessplayers, nor advise his out-of-town friends that he was conducting the Automaton.

One evening a group in formal clothes entered the Musee. One of the members passed a remark that he was going to take the Automaton over the hurdles. He didn't realize that the player in the Automaton could hear everything spoken. Hodges disliked his assurance and made up his mind that he would beat him. And he did.

Of course the loser felt rather chagrined, especially after his previous boasting. He felt obliged to explain away his defeat and remarked, "I can't play good chess standing up! If I could play that thing sitting down, I'd give it Pawn and Move!" He little realized how much harder it was for the player inside the Automaton. It was necessary to remain for hours, bent over in a cramped position. Also, it was only possible for the player in the Automaton to see out of one eye. For Hodges, who wore glasses, this was a special hardship.

Realizing all this, Hodges waxed rather indignant at his opponent's idle boasting and vowed that some day he would get even. From a remark passed, he knew the player belonged to the Manhattan Chess Club. Some time later, when he was no longer operating the Automaton, Hodges stepped into the Manhattan Chess Club and had the pleasure of squaring accounts. He made arrangements for an introduction to Mr. X, and derived a great deal of personal satisfaction in beating him—Hodges giving the odds of Pawn and Move.

At the conclusion of the A.V.R.O. tournament Botwinnik returned to Russia. On his arrival in Leningrad, he was enthusiastically greeted by a welcoming committee and presented with an exquisite set of Chinese hand-carved chessmen.

14 Q-Kt6 Resigns
The outstanding feature of the tournament recently completed in Russia is, of course, Salo Flohr's remarkable come-back. After his disappointing performance in the A.V.R.O. Tournament, Alekhine, who had previously championed Flohr's right to a title match, stated "the failure of the two who have come last, (Capablanca and Flohr—Ed.), virtually eliminates them for some time to come from the contests for the world title." Not only Alekhine, but all the critics as well, appeared to be of one mind: Flohr was through. Yet the ink in which these statements were printed was hardly dry, before Flohr disproved them by finishing first in a hard tournament—and ahead of Reshevsky and Keres, who outranked him in the A.V.R.O. event. What can account for this reversal of form?

There are a number of reasons. He played in the A.V.R.O. tournament under the double strain of having to live up to his position as the recognized contender for the World Championship and the feeling of insecurity which faced many other Czecho-slovakians as a result of the Munich agreement. We understand that he has made arrangements to live in Russia and the relief thus afforded him on this pressing question, might well be reflected in his games.

In the tournament just concluded he was the Flohr of old. The Flohr who tied for first at Kemer (in 1937) with Reshevsky and Petrov. The Flohr who tied for first in Moscow (in 1935) with Botwinnik and ahead of Dr. Lasker and Capablanca. The Flohr who always ran up one of the best scores (on a percentage basis) in the International Team Tournaments. His record of eight wins, one loss, and eight draws, is convincing proof that he is back to normal.

Reshevsky finished in second place, 1 1/2 points behind. He played some good chess but was troubled with a cold that prevented his playing for a while, and caused the tournament committee to postpone a number of his games.

The struggle for third place resulted in a quadruple tie among A. Lilienthal (the former Hungarian master who has been living in Russia for a number of years), G. Loewenfisch (the present Russian Champion), V. Makaganov and V. Ragosin.

The fact that Paul Keres, hero of the A.V.R. O. Tournament, finished with a minus score, must be attributed to the let-down after his tremendous effort in Holland.

The tournament was run in two sections: first half at Leningrad, second half at Moscow.

Of the eighteen contestants, fourteen were Russians, (Lilienthal is not considered a Russian). The Soviet press spoke of the event as a training tournament. They considered it a preliminary to the regular Russian Championship Tournament!

Flohr's only loss occurs in the first round. A game of the type known as "moral victories". After the opening moves, Flohr does all the forcing, obtains a superior position, and loses the point into Belavenetz' capacious lap.

The position is now similar to the Keres-Flohr, 10th round, A.V.R.O. game, the one difference being that Keres had developed his KKt at B3 instead of his KB at QB4.

7 Q-K2ch B-K2

For his seventh move Keres played B-K2, and then both sides castled. Belavenetz adopts a more violent continuation. Flohr's reply shows that he is intent, right from the beginning, on scoring the point. He wants to keep all the pieces, otherwise 7 ... Q-K2 would have been more logical than retracting his sixth move. The continuation might be 8 QxQch, KxKt; 9 Kt-B2, R-K1; 10 0-0, K-B1.

8 Kt-B3 O-O 11 Q-Q3 Kt-Q2
9 O-O B-KKt5 12 P-KR3
10 R-K1 B-Q3

Instead 12 Kt-R4 followed by Kt-B5 seems more logical. Whenever Black plays ... R-K1; White answers B-Q2.

12 ... B-R4
13 B-Kt3 P-R4
14 P-B3...

The last few moves were made to gain time on the clock. Flohr now decides to make a decisive break.

33 PxBP BxQP 35 Q-QB3! PxR
34 BxB P-B4 36 RxR R-Q2

This is the crucial stage of the game. In making his last move Flohr of course realized that White must reply 37 P-B5 and is counting on giving up his KBP for White's QRP and eventually pushing his QRP through. The flaw in his reasoning is that the White QBP suddenly comes to life and decides matters.

37 P-B5 BxP 39 QxP R-QB1
38 RxR R-Kt3 40 Kt-B3! P-R6

The capture of the QBP would lose: 40 RxP; 41 Q-Q4!; R-R4 (comparatively best); 42 QxQch followed by ... R-B7ch, etc.

The Manhattan Chess Club Championship

First prize went to Jacob Moskowitz. He led the tournament from the very first round, played sterling chess, and deserved to win. His style resembles greatly that of Kashdan and Flohr, and like them, he excels in the middle game and ending. In the opening it is still possible to outmaneuver him, but he fights back gamely and is dangerous to the last. His record in this tournament, (seven victories and three draws), tells its own story.

A tie for second place occurred between W. W. Adams of Boston and H. Avram, with scores of 7-5. Both played good chess, though Avram was lucky in drawing his last round game against Moskowitz. The latter was three pawns up and stopped to swallow a fourth, only to have it give him a bad case of indigestion! His capture left Avram's King in a stalemated position and he was able to sacrifice two rooks and draw.

Fourth place went to George Shainswit, score 6%-3%. He played steady chess throughout.

I finished fifth with 6-4, just outside the prize money, and the only other player to record a plus score. Strange to say, entering the final week of the tournament, I was the only player with a chance to catch Moskowitz, my score being 6-2. Losses on successive evenings to Adams and Halpern dissipated all alarm.

The annotations and comments to all the games are mine. It has seemed to some of my own games, it is only because they happened to be the most interesting games.

Played in the first round, this game plagued me for six weeks, as it seemed during that period of time, to have been the deciding game of the tournament. A typical example of Moskowitz' ability to stage a comeback if given the slightest opportunity.

22 QxP

I have managed to win a P and in addition attain the superior position (his advanced KBP is weak). Ordinarily I would expect to win for White from this position.

23 Q-K2 .

Here I start to go astray. The natural move is 23 Q-B5. I looked at it, of course. I thought his best reply would be 23 ... P-KKt3 and I would have to continue 24 Q-Q4 or 24 Q-Q3 in either case losing the KP. I overlooked that I could answer 23 ... P-KKt3 with 24 Kt-KB3!

J. R. Capablanca .. 1  S. Flohr ............ 0
S. Reshevsky ....... 1/2  A. Alekhine ....... 1/2
M. Botвинник ....... 1/2  R. Fine ............ 1/2
P. Keres ............ 1/2  M. Euwe ............ 1/2

This round was played in Utrecht, a large city in the center of Holland. Of the four games played, only the Botвинник-Fine game had a quiet character. Flohr played very sharply, again choosing the Grunfeld Defense, and sacrificing a pawn on his sixth move. The same sacrifice was first made in a game Loewenstein-Botвинник. Botвинник, with the black pieces, lost and this led to the belief that Flohr had worked up an improved line of play. He later offered the sacrifice of a piece which Capablanca wisely refused. Then Capablanca offered to give up the exchange, and this time Flohr refused. Flohr missed his way, got into time trouble, (having to make fourteen moves in two minutes), and, in a lost position, overstepped the time limit.

The game Keres-Euve was an ultra-modern Zukertort-Рeti opening. Tartakower, writing about it in "De Telegraaf" calls the game "fresh" and "elegant". He states that Keres "tacked" in the waters of ultra-modern chess by posting both bishops on the long diagonals, but that when he discovered Euve's destructive K-side plans, he quickly executed two elegant dancing steps: first "Changez les tours", and then "Changez les dames", and signed the peace treaty of Utrecht!

An interesting game up to Black's 24th move when it becomes marred by time pressure.

Anheim, a medium sized town picturesquely located on the right bank of the Rhine, was the site of this round. The games started a little later than usual to allow a celebration in honor of Capablanca's fiftieth birthday. With appropriate and complimentary speeches, a four-colored automatic pencil was presented to him, had it not been for the adjourned game of Fine and Reshevsky.

Fine, who was present both for the opening moves and for the adjourned game, reported that he and Reshevsky had the upper hand at adjournment. When the play-off was scheduled a few days later, Fine refused to play, basing his objection on his interpretation of the tournament rules. When the tournament committee disregarded his protest and threatened to start his clock, he came around and played. Dr. Tartakover, commenting on this, remarked, "It seems that Fine already has all the temperamental earmarks of a world champion."

A typical Fine-Reshevsky struggle. Sammy gets an advantage and squeezes hard. Reuben gets into time trouble and this time fails to get out safely.

Black's pieces are very awkwardly placed. The text has in mind ... B-Kt4 and/or ... P-QR4 but White's simple reply prevents both plans.

14 Kt-B3!  P-QR4?

This is a positional error. It permits White to blockade the Q side and thus leaves him a free hand on the K side.

J. R. Capablanca

A. Alekhine

15 Kt-QR4  Q-R2  18 Kt-Kt2  Kt-B2
16 P-Kt5  P-KQKt3  19 Q-Q2  P-R3
17 P-KKt3  P-B4  20 P-R4  Kt-KR2

The normal move would be 20 ... P-KKt3 to answer 21 P-R5 with ... P-Kt4. But Capa's pieces are so badly placed that he needs the square Kt1 for a piece, and therefore the text move which permits Alekhine to control Kt-Kt6.

21 P-R5  Kt(B)-Kt4  24 P-B3  Kt(5)-Kt4
22 Kt-R4  Kt-K5  25 P-Kt4  P-R4

On 27 ... Kt-Kt5 follows 28 BxKt, PxB; 29 Kt-Kt6! Also if 27 ... Kt-B2; 28 BxKt(R2)ch, RxR ( ... KxB; 29 Q-B2ch, etc.); 29 Kt-Kt6!

28 BxBch  RxB  32 KxP  Kt-R5

30 Q-RB1  B-K1  34 Kt-Kt3  Q-B2
31 K-Kt5!  Kt-Kt6  35 Kt-B3  P-R4

At this point Capablanca overstepped the time limit, but his position was hopeless.

A drawn game that is check full of interest.

White: Black
1 P-Q4  Kt-KB3
2 P-QB4  P-K3
3 Kt-QB3  B-Kt5
4 P-QR3 ...

It is significant that Botwinnik selects the sharpest continuation, one which affects the pawn structure rather unfavorably—but secures a free hand in the center. 4 P-B3 is also a very interesting continuation.

4 ...  BxBch
5 PxB  P-R4

More often played is 5 ... P-Q4; 6 P-B3 and then 6 ... P-B4. Too slow would be 5 ... P-Q3 whereupon 6 P-B3, O-O; 7 P-K4 would give White superiority in the center.

6 P-K3 ...

White seeks complete development of his pieces. Otherwise 6 Q-B2 deserves consideration in order to prepare for P-K4.

6 ...  O-O
7 B-Q3  Kt-B3
8 Kt-K2 ...

More flexible than 8 Kt-B3.

Here, the Bishop, obstructed by Pawns, is only a potentiality.

11 P-K4 ...

Establishes clearly the White center.

11 ...  R-B1

In order to threaten 12 ... Kt-QR4 followed by ... PxP.

12 R-QB1 ...

Prevention. After 12 Q-R4 would follow 12 ... Kt-QR4.

12 ...  PxP

Black wants to clear up the situation in the center. True, he dissolves White's doubled Pawn, but White's QB4 becomes rather weak.

13 P×P
14 Q-R4 Kt-QR4
15 O-O

Purposeless would be 15 P×P, P×P because White would have to defend the KB.

SOLUTION TO PROBLEM NO. 1
1 R·R1 B·Kt7
2 R·R5!

Preventing the King's escape. 2 R·R8 which would win is not possible because the B controls that square.

2 . . . . B·B8

If instead 2 . . . B·R8; 3 R·R3 (R·KKt5 would also win), B·Kt7; 4 R·KKt8! etc.

3 R·KKt5 K·R6
4 R·Kt3ch K·R7

Obviously not 4 . . . K·R5; 5 R·Kt1!

5 K·B3 B·K7ch
6 K·B2 and wins

PROPOSITION II
When the Kings are in Opposition 6 the Rook will always win (with one exception as shown in Diagram C).

DIAGRAM C

This diagram is intended to illustrate that if Black's Bishop is on either his KB6, KB8, or KR6, he can draw.

White attempts to win:
(1) When the Bishop is at KB6:

1 R·KKt7

The best position for the R. It confines the Black K to the last file and threatens R·Kt3, etc.

1 . . . . K·R4

2 . . . K·B5

If instead 2 R·Kt5ch, K·R5; 3 K·B5, B·Kt2 and draws. When the Black K heads for the Positive corner, it is essential that the Bishop control his KB6 square in order to draw.

2 . . . K·R3

Forced. 2 . . . K·R5?; 3 K·B4! turning the position into Opposition 4, covered last month.

3 R·Kt3 B·Q8

Drawn

(2) When the Bishop is at KB8 or KR6 the procedure is the same. This is not so, however, if the B were at KR8 because of 1 R·KKt7, K·R4 (1 . . . B moves; 2 R attacks B with a simultaneous threat of mate); 2 R·KR7ch and wins the B.

Now to prove the rule. Let us examine Diagram C placing the Black Bishop at his K7.

According to the rule, White must win:

1 R·K7 B·B6!
2 R·K3 B·Kt5
3 R·Kt1!

Not 3 R·K4 or 3 R·KKt3 because of the answer 3 . . . K·R4! and draws. Note that 3 R·K2 is not possible.

3 . . . . B·B6!
4 R·KB1!

Changing the attack on the B to a file where the R can get to the second rank if the B goes back to Kt5.

4 . . . . B·B3!
5 R·QB1 B·B6

If 5 . . . B·Kt2; 6 R·B7, B·R3; 7 R·B6, B·Kt4; 8 R·KT6, B·Q2 (3 anywhere else the R attacks with mating threat); 9 K·K7 dis. ch. and wins.

6 R·B3 B·K7ch
7 R·B2 and wins

Another example involving the use of Opposition 6.

DIAGRAM D

This diagram is intended to illustrate that if Black's Bishop is on either his KB6, KB8, or KR6, he can draw.

White attempts to win:
(1) When the Bishop is at KB6:

1 K·B5

Threatens 2 R·R7 mate. Since the B cannot check nor command his KR2 square, Black's reply is forced.

1 . . . . K·R3

Not . . . K·R5; 2 R·B4ch wins the B.

2 K·B6

And now we have Opposition 6 again. White threats 3 R·B4 attacking the B and threatening mate.

2 . . . K·R4

Wherever the B moved, the R would be able to attack it and simultaneously threaten mate.
FEBRUARY, 1939

3 R-Bech K-R3
4 R-B4 and wins.

Please note that the foregoing exercise is not a clue to the solution of Problem No. 2.

PROBLEM NO. 2

White to Play and Win

Cross Country

The annual championship of the Marshall Chess Club resulted in a tie between Sidney Bernstein and Milton Hanauer, both finishing with final scores of 6½-3½. A full account of the tournament with some of the outstanding games will appear in the March issue.

Jacob Kahn died on December 15th, 1938. He served as Secretary of the Isaac L. Rice Progressive Chess Club from 1909 to the day of his death. He was sixty-seven years old and chess is indebted to him for the promotion of the Chajes-Janowsk Match and the Duurs-Kuchesh Match.

Twelve players qualified for participation in the Championship Tournament of the West Side "Y" (Manhattan) now in progress. They are S. Almgren (known to our readers for some interesting end-game studies we published last year), M. Bullard, S. S. Coggan (former Harvard star), C. Dowling, C. Forster, O. D. Freedman, S. Gustafson, M. W. Herrick, S. Karandy, H. Macormac, M. Neckerman, and L. Tolins.

The New York State Chess Association, now in its 60th year, is issuing a ten page quarterly paper called The Bulletin. It will be sent to all members of the Association and is intended to keep the chess players of New York State informed on current activities. The Editor is Robert F. Brand of Cazenovia. Cooperating with him will be Walter L. Murdock, Jr., also of Cazenovia, and C. Harold King of Hamilton.

MASSACHUSETTS NOTES

The Old Colony Chess League finished its Winter Tournament with Attleboro in first place by a match score of 10-2. Woonsocket was second 9-3 and New Bedford, third, 8-4. Other teams included Weymouth, Stoughton, Quincy and Foxboro.

A new chess club has been formed in Newton under the leadership of C. S. Crummett. It will be known as "The Newton Chessmen". In its first match the new club defeated the Weymouth C. C. by 7-3.

ILLINOIS CHESS

The Illinois State Championship is scheduled to start February 18th. Fisch, Habibohn and Ellison have been seeded and will meet the winners of three preliminary sections.

We regret to report the death of Samuel W. Addleman, a Director of the National Chess Federation, a subscriber to The Chess Review from its very first issue, and a staunch supporter of the game. He died at the age of sixty-six.

WISCONSIN CHESS LETTER

We have received the first issue of the Wisconsin Chess Letter intended to serve as a medium through which Wisconsin chess players can maintain contact with one another. It will be published quarterly by Fritz Rathmann, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and each issue will contain a simple chess lesson by Arpad Elo, former President of the American Chess Federation.

One of the decisive games of the tournament and a great combinative effort. Landau acted as Tournament Director of the A.V.R.O. Tournament and played a keen game. We shall run some of his theoretical comments in future issues.

Euwe falls a prey to the methodical precision characteristic of his style. 17 QxBP is of course bad because of 17 ... R-R1. But in positions of this type where one side has sacrificed material, and is intent on sacrificing more to open up the game, formal, abstract principles such as "Capture towards the center", "Avoid doubled Pawns", etc., must at times be disregarded. Normally 17 PxBP would be a bad move. In this case the opposite is true. The advanced passed QRP would turn the game in a very few moves in White's favor. It is already on the fifth. The threats of P-R6 and Kt7 in conjunction with B-B6 are extremely strong.

Chessplayers desiring to turn their libraries into cash are requested to get in touch with us. We will be glad to appraise any library and make a cash offer for it in whole or in part. Address: THE CHESS REVIEW, 25 W. 43rd St., New York, N. Y.
Whoever coined that pretty phrase about "the Editor's easy chair" obviously was not thinking about a Problem Editor's, which is sometimes like a wheel chair, sometimes slightly electric. I am gradually getting adjusted to it, with the kind help of Mr. Cheney, who has made the transition as painless as possible. To all who have sent in congratulations and suggestions, go my heartiest thanks.

Let me explain at the outset that this will be a very democratic Department. Like most of what is published on this side of the Atlantic, a problem section is designed to reflect the preferences of its readers, and must rest on their voluntary support. I should like, therefore, to conduct an informal poll of Public Opinion among you, to discover just what you want in the way of problems and articles. So please write in your views on how you think the Department should be conducted: whether you want more two-movers or three-movers, self-mates or Fairies; whether you would like more discussion by the Editor or none at all (which would be quite understandable); whether you wish articles on solving or composing, or both. In fact, criticize everything connected with the Department—everything, that is, except the Editor's private life.

There will be one change, effective immediately. Henceforth solutions will be received until the 25th of the month following publication of all problems. This applies retroactively, and answers to the January offerings which are submitted up to February 25th, will be credited on the March Ladder. This will normally allow from four to six weeks for solving.

Which brings us to the matter of this month's Ladder Prize, won for the fourth time by Mr. P. L. Rothenberg. Congratulations! The Honor Prize goes to E. M. H. Guttmann for his splendid strategic five-mover, No. 1212.

The last nine diagrams this month review the work of our retiring Problem Editor, Mr. Richard Cheney. Mr. Cheney, who is a teacher of English at Rochester High School, was born May 17, 1908 and received an A. B. degree from Allegheny College in 1931. He began to play chess some eight years ago, and became interested almost immediately to problems. His first composition, a miniature, appeared in the Boston Transcript in Nov., 1931, and foreshadowed his later success in that genre.

Next to Wurzburg and Dobbs, Mr. Cheney is America's finest contemporary composer of miniatures. He has published about 150 problems, of which only three have been two-movers and a majority have had seven pieces or less. Nos. 1267-73 are specimens of his work in this field. We need not discuss his rationale for miniatures, which he has explained in an article in THE CHESS REVIEW, Nov., 1927. It is sufficient to say that his single-handed sponsorship of the International Miniature Tourneys during the past five years has done much to revive interest and experiment in a field which many had regarded as exhausted.

Lately, Mr. Cheney has developed a taste for the thematic type of problem, in which restrictions of form and purity of mate are subordinated to emphasis on idea and construction of theme. "Theme in problems", he writes, "is like plot in drama; without it the art may be brilliant, but finally grows meaningless. I found this true even in miniatures. There must be a 'point' or I am no longer entertained." With this new viewpoint, Mr. Cheney has recently been experimenting with thematic ideas. One of his technical innovations has been a type of White halfpin in which one White piece simplifies another, with both captured alternately, as illustrated in No. 1274. He has not yet perfected this technique in the thematic type of problem, but he has had some success in international tournament composition.

Those interested in Mr. Cheney's work may consult a further selection of his best problems, published last Autumn in the Christian Science Monitor.

Various newspapers and chess periodicals published a story about Reshevsky having difficulty in obtaining “kosher” food while participating in the Russian Masters’ Training Tournament last month. Sammy has asked us to announce that he had no difficulty in securing food, and that there is not an iota of truth in the story.

Latvia was the center of European chess interest during the month of March. Flohr, winner last month of the Leningrad-Moscow event, came through again to take premier honors with a score of 12-3. Tied for second place with 11-4, were Gideon Stahlberg of Sweden and Lazlo Szabo of Hungary, who won the last Hastings Christmas Congress in England. Fourth place went to a native Latvian, V. Mikenas, familiarly known as “Mickey Mouse”, with a score of 10½-4½.

Next month we will run some of the outstanding games from this tournament. Now we must content ourselves with giving the final standings.

The Marshall Chess Club won the championship of the New York Metropolitan Chess League by defeating the Manhattan Chess Club 10½—5½ with two adjourned games.

Alekhine won a small tournament in Caracas, Venezuela. Subscriber Julio Garcia sent us some of the best games and photographs—but they arrived too late for use in this issue. Alekhine is going from Venezuela to Panama, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Argentina.

George Emile Roosevelt, President of the Marshall C. C., has been asked to head a committee which will select a team to represent the United States in the International Team Tournament in Buenos Aires this July.

Frank J. Marshall writes from Miami, Florida, where he is recuperating, extending best wishes, and expressing the hope that he will feel well enough to participate in the annual Marshall-Manhattan match.

From time to time, we receive contributions from readers, who desire to express themselves about the game, in prose or poetry. If it seems good, we publish it and send the contributor a complimentary copy of the issue containing his effusion. Recently, we received a poem which we thought interesting. Its author, however, is apparently a member of the "Poet's Union." On learning that we were willing to publish his poem, but unable to part with any cash for it, he wrote us the following card:

You have a verse,
That you would print,
If I agree to waive my fee.
I'll not be terse,
But may I hint,
I have a wife, and children three.

We received quite a "kick" out of his card. In fact, we enjoyed it so much, that we sent him the following reply:

Alas, m'lad, 'tis too bad, While children have I none, The income from THE CHESS REVIEW, Can barely feed but one.

Erich Eliskases has increased his chess ranking by defeating E. D. Bogolubow, former challenger for the world title, in a match. After 19 games, Eliskases led 11½-7½ (8 wins, 4 losses, 7 draws). The 15th game had an interesting conclusion:

On Tour

By I. A. Horowitz

When one leaves for an extended trip of ten weeks, it is generally to be expected that much time and effort is spent in preparation. Not so with a chessplayer. I had been busy with the last game of my match with Kashdan, which gave me many anxious moments. After an adjournment, I found myself with a pawn minus, and concerned myself with obtaining the draw. Nothing else mattered. Until I discerned the basic elemental draw in the position, I did not permit my mind to wander to far-away and greener pastures.

After the game, there was comparatively little time left. I hastily packed my belongings, and madly rushed to bid farewell to some of my friends. Then still somewhat in a daze, I headed for the depot. As the pleasant chant "a-b-o-a-r-d" was heard, I relaxed.

Then my thoughts wandered to home and friends and kin. I thought of the New Year's party at the Marshall Chess Club, of music, balloons, chicken sandwiches and punch. I bid goodbye to New York.

In a little over two hours, I was in Germantown, Pennsylvania. I made for the home of Barrister Ash. There at the annual party, gathered the clan of the elite of Philadelphia chessplayers. There were Ruth and Regen and Williams and Driver and Witt and Winderman and Morris, and a host of others. Far into the night we chatted, and played rapid transit and solved problems, and partook of beer and skittles.

On Monday, Germantown turned out en masse, for the first exhibition of the tour. I was faced by 39 men, good and true, to do battle. After several hours had elapsed and the smoke cleared, I took toll. The final count was 34 wins, 4 losses, and 1 draw in my favor.

I was quickly ushered to the home of a friend. There by the glimmer of candlelight, we dined. A delicious repast. The tension and strain of the earlier laborious hours magically vanished. We then indulged in a few rubbers of bridge and swapped tales. The evening passed pleasantly.

Wednesday, January 4th, I embarked for West Chester. There I met my friend Fred Arnold. I am city born and bred, and a touch of country is always a welcome change. For the first time in my life, I fondled a chick, and got an inkling of what goes on behind the scenes of my everyday breakfast. I was impressed by the flock—there were White Leghorns, New Hampshire Reds, Barred Rocks—about a thousand of them.

Permit me to digress for a moment. But recently while recounting my experiences, a friend intersected, "Do the chickens play chess?" I hope was equal to the occasion, for I couldn't help reply, "Naturally, they are eggers on eggspension." Fortunately I had not egged him on sufficiently to buck a barrage of doublings.

That night I played again. The gathering was not large, but nevertheless keen and eager. The score is of no account. What does it matter if I play 40 and lose 5 or win all? Am I really putting my skill against these adversaries? No. Definitely not. The purpose of these meetings is to crystallize interest. If that is accomplished, then the event is successful.
Next on my itinerary was York. My host, young Bill Hart, has achieved an enviable record in arousing enthusiasm for the royal game there.

A novel method of recording positions on a diagram was presented by Dr. Roland Jessup of York. In the diagram, one square is marked X—Rook, V—Bishop, Kt—Knight, O—Queen, Q—King. Note that the cross indicates the movement and direction of the rook, horizontally and vertically. The same holds true for the bishop, king and queen, while the symbol for the knight seems to be arbitrary. I failed to inquire for the pawn symbol, and how to distinguish between the White's and Black's. Nevertheless, I believe the thought has some merit.

La Fountain of Upper Darby deserves his share of honorable mention. At first he was rather skeptical about being able to obtain a turnout for the exhibition. But figures don't lie. And my notebook records 42 players and a goodly number of spectators.

After that, I played at Baltimore. I was welcomed by Mr. Clune and Dr. DiPaula. The doctor must have forgotten the proximity of Baltimore to the trundown, for he went gunning for me (over the board, of course), and I knew that he already had one important notch in his gun—very inhospitable, I call it.

Strange, the things one remembers of a visit. Outstanding in my mind's eye is the mural of the wily walrus and crafty carpenter licking their chops and brushing away crocodile tears, as they devour the last vestige of oysters—after Robert Louis Stevenson's nonsensical rhymes.

Next followed a series of exhibitions. First came Charleston, then Indianapolis, then St. Louis, then Kansas City, then Tulsa, then Oklahoma City, then Ft. Worth, then Houston and Tucson. The routine of exhibitions is naturally alike. But I particularly enjoyed meeting old friends and making new ones. I was glad to greet Foy and the Honorable Herbert Spencer, and Lips, and Avis, and Roesch, and Campbell, and Cole, and Ryan. And the younger element at Tulsa: Mayfield and Roddy and Garver. And later Judge Blakeney and Moore, and J. C. Thompson and Stepp, and Gordon Webb and Dr. Weinberg, and Ben Milam and Naman, and Manny and Irvins.

"Well, more, more! You're going to lose your rook anyway. You've been forty minutes puzzling over that move now, young man! And don't say, 'Chess, sir' or I'll crown you with the board. Merry!"

"Trouble with me is I let that jungle sticker talk me out of my game. Now if I move my bishop and he takes it, and then I move pawn to queen's side, he'll think it's a clumsy play on my part, and I've a deep laid that the hairy ape will fall into with his eyes open. Try and make a monkey out of me, will he?"

"Why that spit-burned gorilla matched my queen! He's been reading a book, it's a fact of science. But I turn him, he'll walk into trouble on the next move. He always was a joker for a king's gambit. Look at the silly grin on his face. You wait, big boy, you wait."

"Checkmate again, checkmate! Kick in with four bits."

"All right, all right! That makes two and half I owe you. 'Til pay you Saturday night. (Wonder if he plays pinball, there's too much monkey business in his chess.)"

(Courtesy of San Francisco Daily News)
Last year I had the pleasure of witnessing Judge Spencer in the role of prosecutor try to pin a conviction on a woman for murder. It was a blood-curdling episode. Time was too short this year to see him perform in court.

At long last, I arrived in Los Angeles. Los Angeles was a breathing spell for me, for I stayed a week and played only twice. And the weather was favorable.

I believe Los Angeles has the largest chess club in point of membership, in the world. The roster, I am told, records the names of over 400. And at the opening gong at nine, forty to fifty men assemble for combat and sociability. It is no particular miracle that the club is successful. For E. P. Elliot, champion of the American Chess Federation in the early 1900s, has devoted his full time and effort to building the club.

I played at the L. A. Club and also at the home of Gottfried Reinhardt. We topped off the evening at the latter’s home with a brand of New York rapid transit. It was fun.

My old teammate, Herman Steiner, did most of the honors at L. A. We visited Hollywood, and watched Fred Astaire rehearse, and saw them shoot a few scenes. We met actors and artists. Incidentally, Steiner is forming a new club to cater to these people. It was the particular delight of Mrs. Steiner to see that I regained the weight lost by the arduous labors of a tour. And I did. I must have gained six or seven pounds gorging at the Steiner household.

Simultaneous performance at the home of Gottfried Reinhardt.

Then I made the trek up the West Coast. From L. A. to Seattle, taking in Carmel, Frisco, Portland, I rode and played. Again I met many friends. There were Work and Whitman, and Clarke and Smith and Bagby and Boyette and Fink, and Chapman and Pelouse, and another of my old teammates, Arthur Dake. All made it a point to ease the tension of the grind. Then in Seattle there were Bounie Smith and Barr Bowen, and a host of others.

Occasionally I’d find time to meander. And at Santa Cruz, with Reynolds and Miller as guides, I visited the “Big Trees”. Gigantic Redwoods towering into the sky, and broad.

A group of Sanborn (Iowa) youngsters obviously enjoying themselves. Now I was headed eastward. The touch of nostalgia was eased by the thought that each exhibition brought me one step closer to home.

Next in succession came Great Falls, and then Denver and Omaha, and Sanborn and Milwaukee. Zigzagging back and forth, but nevertheless closer to home.

And again I met friends and devotees of the royal game, whose missionary spirit buoyed up chess interest. There were the Van Teylingens, and Fetzer, and Pick, and Dr. Scott and Pester, and Rev. Ohmans, and Rev. Meyer, and Barker, and Barnes, and Olde and Eio, and Glen Random.

I actually missed an engagement at Salt Lake City. I failed to make connections at Butte, as our train, nicknamed the Galloping Goose, was three hours and twenty-five minutes late. I had more than twenty-four hours to spare upon arriving in Butte and anxiously inquired whether there were any means of conveyance which would get me to Salt Lake in time. In a short while, I was informed that it was impossible for me to attend the funeral. Bewildered, I asked, "what funeral?" "Why all the rush then?" was the retort.

Next came Chicago, then Ann Arbor, then Toledo, then Pittsburgh, then Buffalo, then Montreal, Canada, and then Hamilton, N. Y. I was happy to meet Factor and Isaacs and Little and Dr. Karpinski, and Thrall and Dushnik, and Winzenced, and Malone, and Bizer, and Fox, and Bisebons, and Robillard and Dr. King. Incidentally, the exhibition at Pittsburg drew the largest crowd. Over two hundred spectators attended.

Then came New York, and home.

WEST VIRGINIA NEWS

The annual tournament for the championship of the city of Charleston is under way with 40 contestants entered. Chess is being taught in the Charleston High Schools, about 100 students having already received their first lessons.
The annual tournament for the championship of the Marshall Chess Club witnessed a tie for first place between Sidney Bernstein and Milton Hanauer—both recognized as among the country's leading players. They intend to play a match to decide the titleholder. Third place went to Matthew Green.

Frank J. Marshall, former United States Champion, and Marshall C. C. titleholder in 1937 and 1938, was troubled with ill-health during the duration of the tournament and could not do better than share in a five-man tie for fourth place. The others, who tied with him, are S. Bruzza, A. E. Santasiere (former club and New York State Champion), Dr. P. T. Schlesinger and Herbert Seidman. Seidman was the sensation of the tournament, defeating Santasiere and Marshall in well-played games. He is a younger, still attending college, and shows great promise.

This does not seem the logical continuation. Instead 13 P-Q4!, P-K5 ( . . . PxP; 14 KtxP); 14 Kt-K5! is what one normally expects from Marshall. Black may sacrifice the exchange by 14 . . . Famous Last Round Tourney Thrills

By PAUL HUGO LITTLE

The last round of a chess tournament is generally the climax of the competition. For weeks, the various masters have striven for the laurel wreath and the purse of gold—chiefly the latter!—and when the last round begins, their destinies are being weighed in the balance. Some must console themselves with honor; some, new to the battlefield of a great tourney, have made auspicious debuts; and some are brought together to battle for the foremost place.

It is this battle that we regard with greatest interest. For two men, tense with the nerve-wracking strain of past combat, have as the theme of their single encounter the ultimate fate of the tournament.

Such a condition makes it impossible to predict with certainty what will happen. A classic example is the famous game between Rubinstein and Nimzowitsch at San Sebastian, 1912, where, with first prize and some thousands of francs depending on success or failure, Rubinstein overlooked a simple mate in two moves, and had to work hard before he finally won. Another is Schottlander's refusal of an offered draw that would have given him first place; some, new to the battlefield of chess, are brought together to battle for the foremost place.

One of the finest last-round games on record, is the Saemisch-Nimzowitsch game in the 1930 Frankfurt Tournament.

Picture the setting for this dramatic game: Isaac Kashdan has just blazed his sensational way through his first European tour. In the Frankfurt Tournament, he has played ten rounds without defeat. His score is 8-2—a magnificent showing. Only Nimzowitsch, the grandmaster, the high priest of "Mein System" and "Die Praxis" stands better. He has scored 8½-1½, despite a second round loss to Przepiorka, the veteran problem-composer and master. The two leaders have already drawn their personal encounter: in the fifth round. In the all-important eleventh round, Kashdan has black against Przepiorka, and manages to win in the end-game. Nimzowitsch has to play Saemisch, ever dangerous, with an even score in his ten previous rounds. Nimzowitsch must win to secure first prize—and win he does in this typical Nimzowitsch game.

Letters to The Editor

Just why should we feel chagrined at coming out second best in a game of chess? It is only an indication that our opponent was the better man. We go to a baseball game and cheer wildly to see Gehrig or Hartnett do something we can't. We enjoy reading a splendid poem or editorial written by someone far more capable than we are. We hear inspiring sermons or lectures by someone our superior in I, Q. We admire the ability of a statesman to see clearly the solution to some complex situation. We are thrilled by music rendered by artists way beyond our amateurish efforts, nor could we even approach the genius of the composer of the symphony. Some of us even get a kick out of Charley McCarthy.

For myself, now nearing the half century mark, and with about the same number of white, as black pieces remaining on the chessboard of my scalp, (although, I hasten to add, neither forces are noticeably depleted), I do not much mind seeing how my opponent outsmarted me. And, (another confession), I have ample opportunity to admire his ability. So, in my amateurish way of playing, I derive some pleasure the hard way: in defeat. If we play as many believe the game should be played, for the enjoyment to be obtained, we should appreciate our opponent's strength; otherwise we might not have much fun—for it is often a long time between victories.

—Ford W. Miles

In our December issue, page 279, we ran a letter from a reader in the Buckeye State. Subscriber W. B. Bentley writes:

"Another question from the Buckeye State. Does the American chess master, Fine, pronounce his name as we pronounce the adjective of the same spelling, or does he call it Feen or Feney? Is Keres pronounced Keretz or Kereez, or some other way?

"I found myself wondering why you located your mythical chess dumb-bell in Ohio. Of course it does not make any difference, Ohio has broad shoulders, and it was really funny, and the author may well congratulate himself."

We will answer these queries in reverse order! We do not invent correspondence, The story, "When in doubt... Move a Knight!" was taken from an actual letter received from a resident of Ohio. Keres' name is pronounced Keretz (first "e" as in effort, second "e" as in ease, "s" as though it was "z"). Fine's name is pronounced exactly like the adjective of the same spelling.

"A printed standing of the players in a chess tournament still in progress should, above all, give a true idea, or, rather, an idea of what averages to be true, of who is ahead of whom. More than that, however, such a printed standing cannot be expected to do. Nor does the reader look for more than a fair and square idea of the relative standings of the players, because the reader's common sense tells him the results of adjourned games may effect the standings.

"In view of these considerations, the newspaper way of showing such standings is wholly unsatisfactory and goes to the extreme of assuming that a player will lose all his unfinished games, (as if it were feared that readers might bring suit against the newspapers for libel, or other cause, in case the unfinished games should not be lost!)."

"Hence, this conservative newspaper way often indicates what, according to the law of probabilities, turns out to be a false standing of the players. In fact, the newspaper "system" (?) averages to be unreliable. (If A and B have an unfinished game against each other, they cannot both lose it.)

"The chances of a player with a score of 5-2 with 3 unfinished games are better than those of a player who has finished his schedule with a score of 6-6. You and I know this is so, and so does every newspaper reporter. Yet the newspaper would place the 5-2 player below the 6-6 player, simply because the former might lose all five unfinished games.

"One remedy, satisfactory from the standpoint of showing standings as they are is to use the percentage-of-games-won-system—the same as that employed by every newspaper in the country to show the baseball standings of the teams in the major leagues."
The scene of action was Breda, a small town in southern Holland and the home of the military academy: Holland's West Point.

The Euwe-Alekhine game was a center of interest, the spectators realizing that Euwe would not get another opportunity to pit his knowledge and strategy against Alekhine's chess genius for some time to come, (due to Alekhine's projected trip to South America). Alekhine tried to get out of the books as quickly as possible (4 ... B-R3), and at times the game had a wild character.

The struggle between Capablanca and Fine developed along lines to Capablanca's liking. Fine tried to upset the Cuban's plans by sacrificing a piece, but Capablanca returned it and brought the game into a difficult Rook and Pawn ending, in which he had a slight advantage. On the train, homeward bound, Capablanca looked over the position and found the winning chances so tenuous, that he agreed then and there to call it a draw. "A Pullman-Draw," says Tartakower.

An exciting game in which both players miss winning lines.

A. Alekhine __ 1 S. Flohr __ 0
M. Botwinnik __ 1 J. R. Capablanca __ 0
S. Reshevsky __ ½ P. Keres __ ½

This round was played at Rotterdam, one of the largest and busiest towns in Holland. Euwe played the black side of a queen's gambit and chose the Vienna Variation—a variation he had extensively analyzed a year ago against his opponent—Fine! Both masters played the opening moves as though it were a lightning skittles game. At his 12th move, Euwe sprang a new one on Fine, one which, according to Botwinnik, had been extensively analyzed in Russia. Euwe took only 20 minutes in this game.

According to many, the Botwinnik-Capablanca game was the most brilliant of the tournament. It is remarkable that Capa's famous sense of safety seemed to have deserted him during this game. At the most critical stage, he went pawn hunting with his queen and knight. Botwinnik punished him in excellent style.

An interesting game from both the theoretical and practical points of view.

ROOK VS. BISHOP
By Jose Maestre
(Third Installment)

SOLUTION TO PROBLEM No. 2
1 R-B3 B-Q2
2 R-Kt3! K-R2
Forced. If 2 ... B-B4; 3 R-Kt8ch, K-R2; 4 R-Kt5, etc.
3 R-Kt5! K-R3
4 K-B6 and wins
Black cannot leave Opposition 6. 4 ... K-R2? 5 R-Kt7ch, etc.

The next King formation to be treated is Opposition 2, which is by far the most advantageous for White. Here, the Black King cannot escape the danger of the opposition by going to the corner square, because the threat of mate still continues. Interposing the Bishop on a check by the Rook will not help, because stalemate can never occur in the Positive Corner.

PROPOSITION III
When the Kings are in Opposition 2 the Rook will always win (with one exception as shown in Diagram E).

DIAGRAM E

This diagram is intended to illustrate that if Black's Bishop is on either his KB2 or KR4, he can draw.

White attempts to win:
(1) When the Bishop is at KR4: 1 R-KKt1 (best) K-R6
As long as the Bishop controls his KB6 square it will be impossible for White to force Opposition 3, therefore the game is drawn.
(2) When the Bishop is at KB2 the procedure is the same: he plays to control his KB6 square.

Now to prove the rule. Let us examine Diagram E placing the Black Bishop at his KB4 square.

According to the rule, White must win:
1 R-KKt1 K-R6
Not 1 ... B-K5 (an attempt to control his KB6); 2 R-Kt4! wins.
2 K-B3
White threatens mate.
3 ... K-R7
If instead 2 ... K-R5; 3 K-B4! forces Black to remain in Opposition 4 (due to the attack on the Bishop) and White wins.
3 R-Kt3!
The key move in the study of Opposition 2. If White can succeed in getting his Rook to K Kt3 confining the Black King to the squares R7 and R8, he must win.
3 ... B-K5ch
4 K-B2 and wins
Black is reduced to Bishop moves. White will maneuver his Rook so that he wins the Bishop or mates. The student should work out the possible variations.

Another example in which all the variations are related to the study of Opposition 2.

DIAGRAM F
Black

White has just played 1 P-R7. This is an error and now Black can draw. How?
1 ... B-Kt4ch!
This is the only drawing move. The following false tries are possible:
(a) 1 ... K-Kt2?; 2 R-QKt8ch! (not 2 R-QB8, B-Kt4ch; 3 K-Q6, KxP; 4 K-B7, B-R5!! and draws — see exceptions — Diagram E), KxP; 3 K-B7, K-R3; 4 K-B6 and wins as demonstrated previously.
(b) 1 ... B-Q4?; 2 R-Q8! KxP (if 2 ... B-B3ch; 3 K-Q6; 3 K-B7 and since the Bishop is attacked Black cannot move out of Opposition 2 and therefore is lost.
(c) 1 ... B-Q6, or K7, or R7; 2 K-Q6! (to avoid checks by the bishop), K-Kt2 (best); 3 R-Q8 (or to a square attacking the Bishop if possible), KxP; 4 K-B7 and wins.
2 K any B-R5!!
And draws. After Black captures the P he cannot be forced to remain in Opposition 2 and White cannot gain Opposition 3 because the Bishop controls the vital square QB3. The best try for White is 2 K-B8, B-R5; 3 R-QKt8

MASSACHUSETTS NOTES

The high light of the Massachusetts State Association tourney, which began February 22 at the Boston City Club, was the final play in the schoolboy section. The winner was William G ennet of New Bedford High School. He is 15 years old and the son of Dr. Gennett of New Bedford, a well-known patron of the game. Second place went to Thomas Burke of Cambridge High, representing Greater Boston. Philip Cole of Lawrence High was third, and David Hoffman of Worcester High, fourth. This interscholastic tournament originally included more than 800 students, nearly double the number entered a year ago, and indicates a highly gratifying increase in chess interest.

The State Association, at its annual meeting elected George Demars of Lawrence, as Secretary, to fill a vacancy, and re-elected the other officers under the leadership of George Sturgis, as President.

Georges Koltanowski gave a blindfold exhibition at the Boston City Club on February 3. He played twelve boards. On eleven boards, teams of two consulted against him, and on the twelfth, he was opposed by Godfrey L. Cabot, who drew his game. His final score was five wins, six draws and one loss. The winning team was composed of R. Charnes of Boston College and R. Dawson of Harvard. The rapidity with which Koltanowski made his moves made a deep impression on his audience.
Pennsylvania Notes

The Central Pennsylvania Chess Association has been reorganized and strengthened so that its authority will cover the entire state. Its new name is the Pennsylvania State Chess Association and the officers are William Zeigler, President (Allentown); Ralph Knerrbaum, Vice-President (Reading); William M. Hart, Jr., Secretary and Treasurer (York). The following chapters have become affiliated with the Association: Lehigh Valley Chess Ass'n, York County Chess Ass'n, Erie County Chess Ass'n, Cumberland Valley Chess Ass'n, Germantown Chess Club. The first state championship tournament will be sponsored by the Association. It will be held in York over the Labor Day weekend.

Miniature Games

Our selections this month will also serve as illustrations of the skill of two rising young Soviet stars. The 17 year old Smislov is Russia's youngest master. In the last Moscow Championship Tournament, he tied for first with Belavenetz, both having scores of 12½-4½. This was quite an achievement since it meant finishing ahead of Lilienthal, Panov, Judowitsch, Chistiakov, etc.

THE CHESS REVIEW @ 25 W. 43rd Street, New York, N.Y.
This month's offerings begin with a study in Black underpromotion by Bill Beers (No. 1278), in which two Black Pawns provide four mating situations. This idea is flexible enough to allow several settings with the Pawns in a different relation to the Black King, such as the following:

By V. L. E., Games Digest, 1938:
8, 8, 8, 8, Q1B5, 7K, 3p1pR1, 4K3.
Mate in two (1 Qc3).

Nos. 1278 and 1279 are half-pin studies in Dr. Dobbs' perennially youthful style, and No. 1280, by another skilful veteran, presents a complex study in pins and unpins. No. 1281, by a composer who recently made his debut in The Chess Review, shows a familiar set of unpins by Black King in an unusual setting. No. 1284 is a light version of an idea discussed by the Editor in the Review of April and May, 1938. C. S. Kipping, curator of the A. C. White problem collection, is trying to develop ideas which have not been illustrated in problem literature. In No. 1287 he presents an open passant-device at the maximum distance from Black King.

No. 1288 was sent to us several years ago and has not, so far as we know, been published. M. Marcellis Problem Editor of the great Belgian magazine Echiquier and of several French periodicals.

Nos. 1282, 1283 and 1290 are mating studies by our former Problem Editor, and No. 1291 is by a comparative newcomer, whose technique is rapidly maturing.

THE CHESS OLYMPICS

During the month of July, Argentina will play host to teams of more than forty nations coming from all parts of the world. The colorful pageant is made possible through the efforts of the Argentine Chess Federation and the generosity of the Argentine government. The entire cost of the gigantic event has been estimated at 3,599,000 francs, of which the government has appropriated approximately one-third.

The enthusiasm aroused may be gleaned from the following, which in a measure, reflects an interest that by far surpasses any previously evinced in chess circles:

"One hundred and three works were presented by artists for the poster competition in connection with propaganda for the tournament of nations. The prizes granted were as follows: First prize, for the poster 'Dama', $500.00 to Juan Dell'Acqua; Second prize $250.00 for 'Monarca', to Ernesto M. Scotti; Third prize $150.00 for 'Sombra', to Alfredo Pranzetti, and other prizes ranging from $100.00 to $50.00 for the posters 'Peon', 'Camp-Peon', and 'A.P.P.C.' ."

Once again the task of sending an American team devolves upon the National Chess Federation. Already invitations have been sent out to Frank Marshall, United States Champion Emeritus, who has captured four victorious world championship teams, Samuel Reshevsky, present title holder, Reuben Fine, Isaac Kasdan, I. A. Horowitz and Arthur W. Dake.

The ocean voyage to Argentina from the United States lasts eighteen days. This coupled with at least twenty-three days of play, plus the return trip and time allowed for making connections, will bring the total time of the trip to approximately ten weeks. It is to be hoped that five of the six players invited will see their way clear to participate.

George Emlen Roosevelt, president of the Marshall Chess Club has accepted the chairmanship of the committee which will arrange the details of the participation of the United States Team.

While no treasurer has been appointed as we go to press, contributions to defray the team's expenses may be sent to George E. Roosevelt, 30 Pine Street, New York City.

SPOT NEWS!

With a score of 7½-1½, Paul Keres of Estonia annexed premier honors at the Margate tournament. Capablanca and Flohr tied for second and third positions with 6½ points and Sir George Thomas was fourth with 5 points.

Negotiations for the 1939 Congress of the American Chess Federation indicate that Los Angeles will be the scene of action.
STREAMLINED CHESS!

What next?

A friendly wrangle last month over an exchange of "free" verse is concluded by the receipt of a new missive, part of which we are taking the liberty of quoting.

I sent a gallant knight to sea
To find himself a throne.
He foundered unexpectedly
Upon the S. S. Cohen.

This is my move, although I shun it
(My wife has weakened my resistance)
You have the verse, go on and run it;
And call me when you need assistance.

Thank you Mr. Payne. Here's the verse.

CHECK MATE

Kings and pawns can move one square.
Queens can wander anywhere.
Kings are limited in gait
Over-cautious and sedate;
But when action gets too hot
Kings retreat; the pawns cannot.

Pawns must leap into the fray
Two steps forward; Hip, Hooray;
Then untill the war is done
They advance, one step by one
Moving only left and right
When the enemy's in sight.

Bishops, hampered by their creed,
Follow where diagonals lead;
Whether black or red they be,
There they cling religiously.
From the palace to the grave
Bishops never misbehave.

Mounted knights are different, though.
No one follows where they go.
One diagonal; one ahead;
Red to black and back to red;
Changing left or right they ride
To attack from any side.

So in triumph or defeat
Pawns advance and kings retreat.
War is fun and so is Chess.
Peace is dull and effortless.
What if pawns and bishops die?
More will follow bye and bye.

—Peter B. Payne

A tale yet untold!

Park Row, at its intersection with Broadway, forty-five years ago, was as crowded as the Times Square section is today. On a bright summer's day in 1894, a young man in his early thirties, stood near the curb, surveying his sartorial elegance. He was attired in a neat-fitting cutaway, brown suit with brown top hat, patent leather shoes, kid gloves in hand, a walking cane crooked over his arm, and smoking a cigar, evidently at peace with all the world. At that moment, a tall, spry, elderly gentleman detached himself from the crowd, throwing his right arm over the shoulder of our hero, and grasping the lapel of his coat with his left hand, gave him a friendly hug, exclaiming, "So glad to see you! Congratulations! Here you are the champion of the Manhattan Chess Club, champion of New York State, champion of the United States, three in one, and all at the same time! You must go on and win the world's championship."

Our hero, with no suspicion of flattery, mildly protested that he had no such ambition, as it would mean a sacrifice of his business interests. With a parting friendly pat on the back, said he, "Good luck, my boy, I have some copy for the Sun and must make haste while the sun shines."

Our hero started off in the opposite direction, but could make no progress. He had been lassoed. A magic knot had been made in the button-hole of his coat, the cord slipped under his armpit, and as he looked backward, there, several feet away, stood Sam Loyd, laughing heartily, as he questioned, "Hodges, how do you like that trick?"

Many years have passed since then, and I have enjoyed many pleasant hours solving the beautiful gems of this great chess genius and puzzle maker. But also, I have ever been grateful to this genial, kindly soul for having taken in so friendly a fashion, and in such a public place, a chunk of conceit out of, at that time, a very vain young man.

Under the caption "Chess Comes to the Kitchen" an article was submitted to us, purporting to relate the progress of two women, newly converted to Caissa's noble pastime. With it was sent their embryonic effort over the checkered board. The original opening "Housewife's Defense" caught our attention and we waded through the fifty odd moves to see what we could see. Such a maze, jumble and conglomeration, we have yet to spy. At the end, both players resign, and spectators, kibitzers, et al follow suit.
WHY SUPPORT
THE AMERICAN CHESS FEDERATION?

When you invest in chess, do you seek your money's worth? Do you compare values? Do you get a dollar's return for every dollar spent?

Consider this.

For every dollar spent with the American Chess Federation, you get, first of all, a membership in the A.C.F. In addition you receive a series of interesting bulletins on various phases of the game. Add to this, the current yearly tournament book, which is sent to every member, and at once your chess dollar yields dividends.

But that is not all. In joining the American Chess Federation, you are sponsoring a nationwide organization, that has consistently promoted yearly tournaments since its inception in the year 1900, as the Western Chess Association. You are sponsoring an organization that has brought chess to public recreational agencies in more than fifty cities in the United States. You are sponsoring the program of the A.C.F., to promote chess in the recreational centers of more than one thousand cities of the United States. Is this not a worthwhile cause?

The current yearbook is now ready for distribution. It is a beautiful, practical souvenir of the masters' tournament of Boston, 1938. It contains a selection of the best games of that memorable event, annotated in the breezy style of Fred Reinfeld.

Send for it today!
Mail $1.00 to Ernest Olfe, Secretary-Treasurer, A. C. F., 1111 North 10th St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

You can't go wrong!

If you are becoming indolent or lackadaisical in your correspondence play, pep it up at once with Colonel J. S. Upham's "enliveners" and "grief savers". A half dozen odd grimaces wittily express your thoughts in less time than you can say "Jack Robinson". Get hold of Colonel Upham's playing chart today and improve your game. Write to Col. J. S. Upham, 4736 Oakwood Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

Unique and picturesque aptly describes this hand-ground glass chessboard. The work of a master craftsman, it was designed by William H. Showalter, and first came to light in the year 1861. The white squares and border decorations are ground in the glass on one side, and the other side is plain smooth glass.

General U. S. Grant is reputed to have played on it during the Civil War. Later it was exhibited at the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago in 1893.

As a collector's item, it would indeed be invaluable. Inquiries are respectfully solicited.

"If you know the technique, the rest is easy", writes W. B. Rice. And he goes on to prove his point by relating the following incident.

"Many years ago, at a Good Companion banquet, a few boards and men, used at a Philadelphia school for the blind, were passed around to the assembled problem experts. These boards were of peculiar construction, enabling the blind to 'see' the position with their fingers. Some one suggested that a problem be set up on the boards, and a few of the experts try their 'hands' at solving with the boards beneath the table! The solvers were compelled to 'feel' the men and visualize the position. The problem was of such a simple nature, that any one could have knocked it over in less than a minute from a printed diagram. However, it was solved in less than two minutes by a totally blind composer, while the experts were still fumbling around beneath the table after fifteen minutes!"
Metropolitan Chess League

Once again locking horns, in a final round wrangle, The Marshall Chess Club convincingly defeated the powerful Manhattan C. C. aggregation by the score of 11-6 to capture the league championship. Neck and neck until the concluding round, a deadlock, reaching back to last year, when two no decision contests were fought, was broken. The imposing array of talent discloses the calibre of the match.

If 13 O-O, then Kt-Kt3 (preventing Kt-K5), and Black's threat of . . . B-Kt5 would best be met by P-KR3.

Except that Black's Kt was on KB1, the game is identical to the one played by myself against the young Russian, Smislov. The slight difference is of no account. White's plan is a pawn assault on the Queen's wing, against which Black has little counterplay.

The alternative 17...Kt-Kt4; 18 KtxKt, QxKt; 19 P-KB4 is not very promising for the second player. And 17...Kt-R5; 18 KKtxKt, QxKt; 19 KttxKt, PxKt; 20 BxKt favors White.

White should have challenged the file by R-K1. The resultant end-game, after the exchanges is enough in White's favor to produce a win.

26...

27 Q-Kt6 Q-R5?

27...Q-Q1 would still offer Black chances. If 28 QxQ, RxQ; 29 KtxB, PxKt; 30 Rxp, R-R5! and White's winning chances are almost nil.

To retain a slight pull White would play. In this variation, 29 P-B3, Kt-Q3; 30 R-Q1.

28 BxKt QPxKt?

An oversight. But on 28...BPxP; 29 KtxB, PxKt; 30 QxP, QxBP; 31 QxPch, K-B1 (not...K-R1; QxR); 32 Q-K6 and wins easily.

Compiled by

M. A. SUTHERLAND AND H. M. LOMMER

It seems too good to be true, but at last this long-awaited collection of endings is here.
Devoted as it is to the artistic in chess, it should appeal to the problemist as well as the practical player. Both can revel in the marvelous combinations, the fantastic ideas, the "impossible" conditions so beautifully fulilished in the solutions. Here are to be found the cream of the output of Rinck, Troitzky, Kubbel, Rei, Mattison and Platov. To these classic composers are now added names which sound strange and hard to remember, but whose beautiful creations will render them immortal.

The master of fantasy, Korolikov, the prolific Herbstmann, the artistic in chess, it should appeal to the problemist as well as th e is pref erable.

The Alekhine-Chatard Attack

A discussion of the concluding variation of a reckless attempt to bankrupt the French Defense, begun several months ago.

After 1 P-K4, P-K3; 2 P-Q4, P-Q4; 3 Kt-QB3, Kt-KB3; 4 B-K5, B-K2; 5 P-K5, Kt-Q2; 6 P-KR4.

This move received its international baptism in the game Yates-Maroczy, New York, 1924. In the notes to the game Alekhine indicated a dangerous combinational attack for White which appears to place Black in a critical position.

Alekhine, instead of the exchange of Pawns on B6, which eases Black's defense, proposes a brilliant move 7 B-Q3. The acceptance of the sacrifice of the Bishop is very dangerous for Black.

7 B-Q3 PxB
8 Q-R5ch P-KT3
9 BxPch PxB
10 QxRch Kt-B1
11 B-B1 loses by 11 P-R5 since the KP decides the game in favor of White.

There is approximate material equality but the positional advantage of White who has penetrated into Black's camp, is obvious. However the move 6 . . . P-KB3, which is predicated on a deep and correct strategic idea of breaking the White center, is well able to withstand this combinational attempt. The continuation as proposed and investigated by Yudowitsch and Belavenetz is 7 . . . P-QB4, and it leads to an excellent game for Black.

TWO BASIC CONTINUATIONS:

On 15 B-B3, will follow Kt-K15.

15 . . . P-B5
16 O-O-O R-Q1

With the unpleasant threat of . . . Kt-Kt5, and also eventual advance of the Q side Pawns. This latter variation is more enterprising than the quiet 15 . . . PxP.

and Black wins (Panoff-Yudovitsch, Tbilici, 1937).

OR . . . .

Instead of 11 Kt-B4, in the above variation, White may attempt to develop the attack on the Kt line by means of:
In this case Black, however, has too great a material advantage and can easily parry the attack, e.g.:

12 ... P-KKt3
13 BxP Kt-KB3!
14 Q-B4 ...

No better is 14 Q-Kt5, PxP; 15 QxP, R-Kt1.

And Black is a R and a Piece plus.

Or instead of 15 RxP, 15 PxKt, BxR and Black wins.

Besides 13 BxP, it is possible to play 13 P-R5, but also in this case Black defends successfully as follows: 13 ... KtxP, 14 Q-B4ch, Kt-B2; 15 PxKtP, PxKtP; 16 BxP, B-K3; 17 R-KB3, Q-K1 and the White attack does not appear to have any continuation.

An interesting position is also obtained after 12 ... PxR in variation II by 13 O-O-O, which continuation was believed by some players to refute 9 ... PxB. However, Black can refute this apparently horrible possibility as follows:

Diagram III

Diagram IV

Diagram V

This last move is the winning move, since it defends the threat, Kt-K7ch and Q-R5ch. As it becomes apparent White can win two pieces but remains without a Rook.

Besides 14 ... Kt-QB3, 14 ... P-QB5? is playable. See Diagram 5.

The moves Kt-B3 or P-B5 are also plausible in response to 14 Kt-B8 instead of 14 Kt-R3, e.g.
In the above variations the advanced RP played an important part in the Black defense. It would be natural therefore to eliminate the potential Q by 13 KtxP instead of 13 O.O.O.

Diagram VI

White

13 KtxP K-Kt1 16 Q-Kt4 Kt-B3
14 O-O-O Q-B1 17 KtxP KtxP
15 B-B4 Q-B2

Or White can make a somewhat stronger attack by foregoing castling, which however, gives Black an important tempo for defense. The play may be as follows:

13 KtxP K-Kt1
14 B-B4 P-KKt3
15 Q-Kt4

After 15 KtxKtP, PxBt; 16 QxPch, K-B1, White will not have enough material to conduct a successful attack.

15 . . .
16 KtxKtP Q-R4ch
17 P-B3 Q-R4ch
16 BxPch BxB
17 QxBch K-B1
18 R-Q1 Q-R4ch
19 P-B3 KR-Q1

Diagram VII

Black

However, continuing quietly by 8 . . . K-B1 or by 8 . . . B-B1 Black can defend himself from the unjustified aggression.

The consequences after 8 B-R6, O-O are not clear, e.g.

8 B-R6
9 Q-Kt4 R-B2
10 KtxP PxBP

with wild complications.

There remains to be considered the continuation after 6 . . . P-KB3, 7 PxP, which occurred in two games: Yates vs. Maroczy, N. Y. 1924, and Panov vs. Belavenetz, Tbilici, 1937. This move however, must be considered as a capitulation of the White idea, and it does not cause Black any difficulties. The play may continue:

7 . . .
8 B-Q3 P-B4
9 PxP

White cannot hold the center.

9 . . .
10 Kt-R3 Q-R4

And Black has not the worst of it. Even less convincing is the exchange on White's KB6 after 6 . . .

7 B-Q3 P-QB4
8 Q-R5ch K-B1
9 PxP

Because Black, by playing KtxP gains a valuable tempo, since the White Q is attacked.

Sad as it may be for chess romanticists, the Chatard attack, together with its brilliant refutation, stand seriously and fundamentally battered by the above system of defense. It may be true that the move 6 . . . P-B3 is replete with dangers and there may be many submerged reefs on the way to Black's victory, but the player who seeks a struggle and a chance for creativeness cannot be stopped by these dangers.

(Translated from Schachmati)

[There is still hope for the romanticists! For a new line has been introduced, in the A.C attack, which most likely will stand up. After 6 . . . P-KB3; 7 Q-R5ch, K-B1 (7 . . . P-Kt5; 8 PxP); 8 PxP, KtxP; 9 Q-K2/]

[14 Kt-B3 P-B5 17 K-K2 Kt-B3
15 BxBP QxRch 18 BxP BxB
16 KxQ P-R8(Q)ch 19 KtxBch K-Kt1]

and the attack of White is over.

Many variations in this complicated position may be added but the conclusion is clear. The move 7 B-Q3 after 6 . . . P-KB3 leads to many complications, but in Black's favor. Although White has a great variety of attacking possibilities, a brave and precise defense by Black must liquidate all the attempts of White.

After 7 B-Q3, P-QB4, V. Chekov proposed 8 B-R6??, which once more shows the combinational possibilities of the position.

ROUND 12—NOVEMBER 24

S. Flohr ————½  R. Fine ————½
P. Keres ————½  A. Alekhine ————½
M. Euwe ——— 1  M. Botwinnik —— 0
J. R. Capablanca ———½  S. Reshevsky ———½

This round was played at The Hague, one of the largest towns in the western part of the Netherlands.

As usual, the platform for play was decorated with the seven flags of the seven nationalities of the masters.

Of principal interest and of great importance for the score was the game Keres-Alekhine. Alekhine still had a mathematical chance for first place, which was not to be underestimated, for he still had to play Keres, Fine and Botwinnik. And only these three stood between him and first. If he were to win all three games . . . . . ?

Alekhine treated the opening well but obtained no advantage. He indicated that a draw by repetition of moves would be satisfactory to him. But Keres was not content. A wild position ensued, with chances even. Then Alekhine got into time trouble, blundered, and at adjournment was faced with a clear loss. Two days later Keres continued haphazardly, and Alekhine, the wizard of the end-game was able to chalk up a draw.

Once again Capablanca attempted to find a satisfactory reply to the Grunfeld, this time set up by Reshevsky. Reshevsky took a full hour for the first five moves, the Cuban just two minutes. At adjournment, Reshevsky was in apparent time trouble, five minutes, with sixteen moves to go. Capablanca provided a laugh for the spectators by permitting "triplets". However, at adjournment his position was regarded to be slightly superior. Nevertheless, at play-off time he offered a draw, which was accepted.

Flohr and Fine had a very short encounter. After nineteen moves, the former offered a draw, which the latter wisely accepted.

The game Euwe-Botwinnik was also short. In an even position Botwinnik blundered at his sixteenth turn. The rest was simple.

This round was played in the town of Leiden, known for its ancient university and its cheese.

Most sensational was Fine's win over Alekhine. The champion, who confessed that he had spent the wee hours of morning analyzing his adjourned game with Keres, gave that impression by playing without a plan, and carelessly. Dr. Tartakower in "De Telegraaf" sums up the situation as follows: "Alekhine's style is changing; he is careful in the opening, overconfident of his resourcefulness in the balance of the game, which, truth to tell, has often saved him. This strategy permits him to dominate the older masters, but the younger ones cannot be bluffed that way." Alekhine was the only one in this round to suffer time trouble; fourteen moves in four minutes, and later, six moves in fifteen seconds. This cost him three pawns.

Capablanca got off to a bad start. While thinking over his fourth move, the hind legs of his chair slipped between the boards of the rickety platform, and down he went. Keres gallantly came to the rescue. The comic scene caused hilarity. No damage was done.

At the end of the round, first place was still uncertain, but there was no doubt that it would go to either Keres or Fine.

Sharp incisive play till the 13th turn, then a short respite enables the Czechoslovakian to draw.

ROOK VS. BISHOP

By JOSE MAESTRE

(Fourth Installment)

SOLUTION TO PROBLEM NO. 3

1 R-Kt3

Best. It restricts the Bishop's movements and prevents ... K-R3.

1 K-Kt1

If instead 1 ... B-K7; 2 R-QKt8+ followed by 3 R-QKt6 and 4 K-Kt7, etc., c.f. March issue, page 69. And if 1 ... B-QB5; 2 R-QR8ch, K-Kt1; 2 K-Kt6 and wins. The K cannot move to B1 because of R-QB3 winning the Bishop. And wherever the B moves, the R can attack it and simultaneously threaten mate.

2 R-Kt7!

Confining the Black King to the last rank.

2 R-QB7 and wins

White cannot be prevented from playing 4 K-Kt6 after which Black is reduced to Bishop moves.

Very little need be said about Opposition 1. It is almost 100% fatal for Black. If the Bishop checks the White King it goes to B2 and the situation is similar to Opposition 2. Or if the Bishop attacks the Rook (the possibility of the Rook being pinned to its King does not enter into our calculations), it will always have time to threaten mate or play to its second or third rank and confine the Black King to Opposition 2, which wins. The only possible exception occurs as a result of the awkward placement of the White Rook.

PROPOSITION IV

When the Kings are in Opposition 1 the Rook will always win (with one exception as shown in Diagram G).

DIAGRAM G

Black

White

This diagram is intended to illustrate that if White's Rook is on its KE2, and if the While King is in check by a Black Bishop posted on either its QR3, QKt4, QB5, or KR6, Black can draw.

White attempts to win:
1. When the Bishop is at KR6:
   1. K-K1 K-Kt8 (best)
   Not ... B-Kt7; 2 R-B8, K-Kt8 ( ... K-R7; 3 K-B2); 3 R-KKt7! K-Kt7; 4 K-B2, etc. Also not 1 ... B-Kt5; 2 R-B4!, K-B3; 3 K-B2!

2. When the Bishop is at KR6:
   2. R-B3 (best) K-Kt7
   Drawn

White attempts to win:
1. When the Bishop is at QB5:
   1. K-K1 K-Kt8 (best)
   2. R-B4 B-Q4
   Black plays to control the vital square KB6.
   3. R-KKt7ch K-R7
   The position is drawn because White cannot force Opposition 3. The same is true of the other Bishop situations.

Now to prove the rule. Let us examine Diagram G, placing the Black Bishop on his Q6 square. White is still in check, but wins.
1. K-K1 K-Kt8 (best)
2. R-B3 B-K3
3. R-KKt7ch B-Kt7
If ... K-R7; 4 K-B2 and wins.
4. R-Kt5 B-Kt3
5. K-B2 and wins

The next King formation to be discussed is Opposition 3. The situation now is more difficult for White, due to the fact that the White King can be checked out of the position by the Bishop, should it be attacked by the Rook or should mate be threatened. There can be no set rule here because the procedure used varies according to each Bishop location. For this reason, in the studies that follow, the Rook will always move first, but this first move will never be a capture of the Bishop or a checkmate.

Diagram H

This diagram is intended to illustrate that if the Black Bishop is on either his QB1, QB7, Q2, K1, K3, KB2, or KKt3, Black can draw because the Rook will find no method of forcing the position. Note that no Rook is shown on the diagram. The R can be placed anywhere provided it does not threaten to capture the B or mate on the move.

White attempts to win:
1. When the Bishop is at its Q2:
   Assume that the R is on the 4th rank. White will endeavor to prevent Black from checking the White King out of Opposition 3.
   1. R-QB4 B-K3
   2. R-Q4 B-B1
   Drawn

2. When the Bishop is at its QB7:
   Assume again that the R is on the 4th rank. White tries to win.
   1. R-Q4 B-Kt3!
   See Diagram H.
   2. R-Q5
   If the White King moves, 2 ... B-R4 would draw.
   2. ... B-K1 5 R-KKt7 B-B2
   3. R-QB5 B-B2 6 K-B4!
   4. R-K5 B-Kt3
   White lays a little trap for Black.
   6. ... B-R1!
   The black King moves, 7 R-KtSch forcing Black either into Opposition 4 or to the square R7, after which White would continue with 8 K-B3 followed by 9 K-B2, etc.
   7. K-B3
   If instead 7 R-K5, K-Kt7 draws. Or if 7 R-Kt7 or Kt3, B-Q4 draws.
   7. ... B-Kt3!
   Drawn

3. The same procedure is followed with the other Bishop situations shown in Diagram H.

The foregoing does not mean, however, that if the Bishop is on any other square that White can force a win. White's chances are better, but with the Kings in Opposition 3 it is a difficult matter for the Rook to triumph.

Another illustrative example is shown in Diagram I.
The White King is in check and moves to confine Black to the corner.

1 K-B3 B-B7!

The only move. It attempts to control the square KB6. If ... B-Kt1 or Kt2; 2 R-R4ch followed by 3 R-Kt4ch wins the Bishop. If ...

B-Kt8; 2 R-R4ch, K-Kt8; 3 K-Kt6 wins as Black cannot prevent 4 R-Kt4ch followed by 5 R-KB2, etc. On 1 ... B-Q6 follows 2 K-B2, etc. And finally if 1 ... K-R6; 2 R-Kt6 wins.

2 R-Q4 ........

This is White's best, preventing ... B-Q8ch. If instead 2 K-B2, K-R6; 3 R-Q4, B-Kt3 and draws.

2 ....

K-R6!!

The Black King voluntarily steps into the opposition, but it is his only move. (See Diagram H).

If instead 2 ... K-Kt5; 3 R-Q2, B moves; 3 R-KB2 wins. Or if 2 ... B-Kt6; 2 K-B3, etc. Or 2 ... B-Kt8; 3 R-Q2ch, K-R5; 4 R-Q1, etc. And finally if 2 ... B-B4; 3 R-R4ch, K-Kt5; 4 K-Kt3, etc.

3 R-Q6 ........

To prevent ... B-Kt5.

3 ....

K-R5 (forced)

4 R-Q5 B-Kt6!

Again forced. Bad would be 4 ... B-Kt8; 5 R-QR5, B-B7; 6 K-B1, K-R8; 7 R-R3ch, etc. Or 4 ... B-Kt3; 5 K-B4, K-R8; 6 R-Kt5, B moves; 7 R-R3ch, etc.

5 R-Q3 ........

White cannot abandon the Q-file due to Black's threat of ... B-Q8ch.

WISCONSIN NOTES

William Banerd, Jack Fashingbauer, Dr. O. M. Wohley, Steve Kreznar, and Erwin Teplinsky were the winners of their respective sections, in the qualifying rounds of the Milwaukee Municipal Chess Association. Twenty-four players participated in this event. A round robin playoff to determine the Milwaukee representatives resulted in a five-way tie, each player winning and losing two games. A further playoff ended with Kreznar and Teplinsky in first and second positions.

IOWA STATE CHESS ASSOCIATION

The Iowa State Chess Tournament will take place during April 24th and 25th at Cherokee, Iowa, under the management of Walter James.

Harry Jensen has been chosen as president of the state association to fill the vacancy left by Chris Bang's removal from the state.
The Pennsylvania State Title went to Jacob Levin, who defeated John J. Leuty in the final, the latter taking second position. B. F. Winkelman was third and Isaac Ash, fourth.

The Berks County Championship was won by Dr. P. Nowatorski. After the completion of the County Tournament, the Reading players staged an Informal Tournament, open to all comers upon payment of a $1.00 entry fee, to be used for prizes. We give an excellent positional game from the Informal Tourney.

THE CHESS REVIEW • 25 W. 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.
The response to my request for opinions on what the content of this Department should be has been very gratifying—somewhat overwhelming, in fact—and I am very grateful to you for expressing your minds so freely and fully. No two readers are entirely in agreement (which makes things very pleasant) but there are some points on which all were generally in accord, and these may be adopted as a working policy for the Department. They will be discussed in the May Review.

This month's problems are selected to conform with the general view that at least two-thirds of the twenty-seven diagrams should be devoted to two-and-three-movers, and that more attention be given to two-ers in particular. This is entirely reasonable, but to continue along these lines I shall have to ask the composers to help out a bit. My files are plentifully stocked with originals in four and more moves, but shorter problems are surprisingly absent. All contributions will be gratefully received.

Nos. 1227 to 1239 in this month's Quoted Section are three little studies in Queen-Bishop opposition play by three great American composers. Solvers may be interested in comparing their styles. As a small footnote to the trio, the following attempt to compress Loyd's famous No. 1237 in miniature form may be quoted:

6Bk, 5Kpp, 1Q6, 4B3, 8, 8, 8, 8. Mate in three (1 Qb6).

Heartly congratulations to Frederick Gamage, who again wins the two-move Honor Prize with No. 1185, and to H. Stenzel, who takes the Solving Ladder award.

A NARROW ESCAPE

"Even now I tremble. My opponent — The Master of Evil. The Stake, I dare not mention. The Position — as here set down: 'Doctor', he exultingly exclaimed, 'Mate in seven!' Ominous number. 'Then, will I claim mine own!' Pale I grew, as my own White Men. In dread silence the play proceeded."

SPOT NEWS:

A last minute change of plans indicates that New York may be the scene of the 1939 A. C. F. Tournament and not California as heretofore reported.

"Mate" he cried, but the seventh move was never completed! My opponent could not or would not make the fatal move. With a shriek of rage that rent the board in twain, he disappeared!

Friend! Set the men in order as above, make the moves recorded, and discover for thyself the wherefore of my Narrow Escape.
Margate Easter Congress

Once again displaying the rare form that has earned for him the adoration of the chess playing multitudes, Paul Keres annexed premier honors at Margate, England, the scene of many of Caisa’s memorable events. With a score of 6 wins, 3 draws and no losses, the young Estonian topped his nearest rivals by a full point.

Jose R. Capablanca and Salo Flohr divided second and third prizes. While none of the participants was able to account for an outright win against him, the invincible Cuban handicapped himself by turning in 3 draws. Salo Flohr bowed once, to Sir George Thomas.

CHICAGO CITY CHAMPIONSHIP

The strongest city championship in Chicago since 1926, in session from March 4th to April 27th, ended with the not unexpected victory of Samuel D. Factor, whose consistently steady form enabled him to score 9 out of a possible 10 points. Charles Elison with 8 points finished second, Herman Hahlbohm with 7 points, third, Burton Dahlstrom with 6½, fourth, and Nels Engholm with 6, fifth.

The tournament unfortunately was marred by several withdrawals and forfeits. Elias Gordon as a consequence of a dispute withdrew after the first round, and Lewis J. Isaacs, who was unwell, retired after the sixth round.

COLORADO NOTES

A greater interest in chess has been evinced in Denver since the first of the year than at any other time. The Denver Athletic Club has played matches with several groups, and for the first time in team competition, were tied by a select group of players under the banner of the Y. M. C. A. On April 21st at Boulder the D. A. C. vanquished a team composed of students and faculty of the University of Colorado. At the conclusion of the match, Professor William Wallace played host to the visiting and local team by entertaining them at his home. A return engagement between the D. A. C. and the Y. M. C. A. resulted in a victory for the former by the score of 12½ to 9½.

The chessplayers of Colorado are desirous of perfecting arrangements for a match over an amateur short wave radio station. Teams interested should contact Frank L. Fetzer, Denver Athletic Club, Denver, Colorado.

MASSACHUSETTS CHESS

Oscar Shapiro is the 1939 winner of the annual tournament of the Massachusetts State Chess Association with a score of 12½-1½. Fliegel, Ward and Daly were tied for second, third and fourth places with scores of 10½-3½ each. Fifth place went to Keller with 10-4, sixth to Sharp with 8-6, seventh to Taylor, 7-7. Other contestants included Mitchell, Chauvenet, Sturgis, Hersey, Lewis, Gring, Dore and Mulloney.

Harold Morton of Providence and Weaver W. Adams, now residing in New York, were missing from the entry list. The schedule was promptly completed under the able direction of Frank K. Perkins.

Shapiro, this year's winner, has been playing chess in various Boston events for the past fifteen years, and on two previous occasions finished in second place in the Massachusetts State tournaments.

Raymond Thomas of the Boylston Chess Club made a clean score, 10-0 in the minor section of the state tourney, repeating his 9-0 success in the City of Boston championship, which finished a few weeks earlier. He is captain of the Boylston Club's "B" team in the Metropolitan League.

CONNECTICUT CHESS

The Connecticut Chess League has just completed the season's activities, having conducted during the past year both team and individual championship tournaments.

Eleven entries participated in the A division of the inter-city team tournament and five in the B division. The team representing the Yale Club of New Haven won the A title, defeating all other teams in the league, except one, which contest resulted in a tie. A deadlock between Deep River and the Hartford teams, was finally won by the former in the play-off to determine the championship of the B division.

In the individual championship tournament there were twenty entries in the A division, and preliminary play pitted the best four to be Merril Clareus of Hartford, Robert Mitchell of Hartford, Robert Ryder of Yale and Nicholas Bellone of Waterbury. A round robin in which all four participated was won by Clareus, who is declared Connecticut Chess Champion.

The B division tournament resulted in a tie between Joseph Hazuka of Deep River, and W. P. Burroughs of Bristol. The representative of Deep River was victorious in the play-off.

George Eastman, Michigan State Champion, with a perfect score of 11-0 annexed the city of Detroit championship. Marvin Palmer, former state champion, with 9 ½ points, finished second and Robert Coveyou, 1938 Detroit champion with 7 ½ points, finished third. A four way tie for fourth place resulted between Arthur Weiss, Joseph Moore, 16-year-old schoolboy, who has been playing chess but a year, Robert Eoff, and Charles Klinglesmith, all with scores of 5 wins, 4 losses, and 2 draws.

The tournament was played in three groups of 10 each, with the four leaders in each group qualifying. Abram Croll, Klinglesmith and Eastman were the winners of their respective sections. By winning every game in the qualifying rounds, the new title-holder set the pace which he maintained until the conclusion of the finals.

The Michigan Junior Tournament, held at Detroit April 2nd, was won by Jos. Moore with a perfect score of 6—0.

THE SOCIAL ASPECT

"Boy, am I going to take up chess," remarked a young lady as she entered the parlors of the Los Angeles Chess Club. "The place is full of men, and not a woman in sight."
The Kemeri Tournament

Recording twelve points out of a possible fifteen, composed of nine outright wins and six draws, without even a single loss, Salo Flohr of Prague added another victory to the triumphant array already in his possession. This, coming directly on the heels of his conquest at Moscow, once and for all dispelled the dismal thought that the Czechoslovakian has been relegated to the limbo of obscurity, and the shattered idol, restored and brilliant, again takes his place in the golden sun.

In a three-cornered duel for premier honors, Gideon Stahlberg of Sweden and Laszlo Szabo of Hungary deadlocked with 11 points at second and third position, the latter bowing in his individual encounter to the indomitable Flohr. The performance of the Hungarian is noteworthy in that he did not draw even one game, winning eleven and losing four.

The scene of action was Kemeri and Riga, Latvia, where the tournament was begun on March 4th and completed on March 20th. Ten Latvians and six foreign masters comprised the list of entries.

Of late the textmove is becoming popular. It avoids stereotyped play and is basically sound in that it does not immobilize White's QBP, and also in that the Kt enjoys a promising future; it may wind up at Q4 via QKt3, in the event of ..., P-QB4.

3 ... PxB

But this steers the game into channels that have long been exploited to White's advantage. An attempt at refutation would be 3 ... P-QB4, when White may continue with 4 P-QP, BxP; 5 Kt-Kt3, B-Kt3; 6 PxP, PxP; Black remaining with an isolated QP in return for his complete freedom.

3 ... Kt-Kt3; 4 P-K5, Kt-Kt3; 5 B-Q3, P-QB4! (threatening ..., B-K3, ridding White of his commanding KB) is also meritorious.

The next King position to be discussed is Opposition 5. It is similar to the one presented last month.

DIAGRAM J

NEW CORRESPONDENCE CLEARING HOUSE

Economy is the keynote of the newly formed International Correspondence Chess Clearinghouse of 1901 Browning Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. For 25¢ annually, an entrant receives names and addresses of prospective opponents, a registered rating of his ability, an annual multigraphed directory of correspondence players, and helpful suggestions.
We have now arrived at the King positions on the N corner to which opposition 7 and 8 belong, together with others when the Black King is not in lateral opposition. These are mostly all in Black’s favor, and with but a few exceptions the Bishop manages to draw.

Besides opposition 7 and 8 there are three other King positions that should be analyzed.

(a) When the White King is at KB6 and Black at his KRz (or KKt1).
(b) When the White King is at KB6 and Black diagonally opposed at KR1.
(c) When the White King is at KB7 (or KKt6) and Black at KR1.

We have no space to treat each one in great detail, but as they are akin one to the other, we will present enough examples to give a clear idea of the process involved in all of them.

DIAGRAM K N

Black Corner

White

Observe that the Bishop is already posted on one of the long diagonals coming out of the N corner.

This situation and its subsequent play is well known and has appeared in numerous chess treatises. The play is for the Black King to remain in that corner and cover any checks with the Bishop, whereby nothing but Stalemate may result.

Care must be taken, however, not to fall into any traps:

1 \( R \cdot Kt7 \)ch   K-R1
2 R-Q7   \( B \cdot B5 \)
Or . . . . B-Kt1, R7, etc.
3 K-Kt6
A trap!
3 . . . . B-R7
If 8 . . . . B-Kt3? 4 R-Q7ch, K-Kt1; 5 R-K7 wins.
4 R-Q8ch \( B \cdot Kt1 \)
5 K-B6 \( K \cdot R2 \)
6 R-Q7ch \( K \cdot R1 \)
Drawn

Not 8 . . . K-R3? (Op. 6): because of 7 R-Q8, K-R4; 8 R-R2ch, etc.

From the diagrammed position, the drawing situation arises after 1 R-Kt7ch, K-R1, unless of course the Bishop is subject to immediate capture. If the Bishop be placed on any other White square on the board, Black gets a draw. For example, if the Bishop were on KB6, the play would proceed 2 K-B7, B-Q4 ch; 3 K-B8, B-B5; 4 R-Kt4 or 4 R-Kt5, B-Q6 or K-R2, respectively, drawn. The Bishop cannot be prevented from getting on one of the two Central diagonals.

Let us examine the diagrammed position with Black’s Bishop at KR6. The play proceeds:

1 R-Kt7ch   K-R1
2 R-Kt1
Best. If K-B7 or Kt6, the B checks and draws.
2 . . . . \( B \cdot Q2 \)
3 K-B7 \( B \cdot B5 \)!
Not 3 . . . . B-B4: 4 R-Kt8ch followed by 5 R-Kt5!
3 K-Kt6
\( K \cdot R2 \)
5 . . . . \( B \cdot B6 \)
Drawn

Let us examine the position referred to earlier as (b), with the Rook at Q4. Black may now draw only if his Bishop is situated in one of the squares indicated on the diagram.

DIAGRAM L

Black

For example let us place the Bishop on QB3 (QB3 or QKt4), and White wins with K-B7. The situation is identical if the Bishop is on KB8 (Kt8 or K7). Then Kt-Kt6 wins.

It is to be observed in the diagrammed position that the Rook and King combined, control eight squares of the two Central Diagonals. When the Kings are in opposition 7 and 8 the same procedure is followed by both White and Black. In these positions there are times when the Rook must remain stationary and a King move wins the game for White.

DIAGRAM M

Black

White

This is opposition 7. With the Bishop as shown, not considering immediate captures or mates, there are two squares for the Rook which would ultimately lead to a win. One is Q2 (to which he is unable to move in the diagrammed position) and the other is KB5, which controls Black’s KB6 and prevents a check, e.g.:

1. R-KB5
2. K-B6
3. R-Q5
4. R-Q2! wins

In the same diagrammed position, if the Rook were at K7 and White tried to win by:

1. R-K5, Black would draw with 1.. B-B6.
Or if 1. K-B6 dis. ch, K-R1; 2. K-Kt6, B-Q4, etc. draws.

If in the diagrammed position the Kings were at B8 and R1 (Op. 8), White wins with Rook to the 4th rank or with R-K2, and in no other way.

PROBLEM NO. 5

Black

White

White to Play and Win

By placing the Rook at QKt8 and the Bishop at QR5 (Kings in Op. 8) a situation arises where the Rook has no adequate winning square. R-QB4 is not possible. But White wins by first playing 1. K-B7 dis. ch, K-R2; 2. R-Kt4!

One last example, with another variation. It is to be observed in these positions (Kings in N corner) that White is able to win only because of the bad situation of the Bishop.

DIAGRAM N

Black

White

The Bishop’s means of escape toward the central diagonals is via Q2 or B8. Out of the various ways in which White might win this position, the present situation of the Rook permits only two:

II. 1. R-K8ch
2. R-Kt6
3. R-K7ch
4. R-K3ch

Or better yet, R-K5!

5. K-B6
6. R-Kt6ch

Or R-Kt6ch.
7. K-B7

And wins as was shown in solution to Problem 2.

Black finally wins the Knight, but loses his King!

This round was played at Amsterdam, busy capital of the Netherlands. As expected, neither Fine nor Keres took any undue chances, and a draw was recorded in nineteen moves.

Capablanca lost to Euwe, which was important for the latter, as it was the first time the invincible Cuban bowed to the Dutch Grandmaster.

The end of this round came early. An enthusiastic public cheered long and heartily, and acclaimed both winners, Fine and Keres.

Appropriate speeches by AVRO officials, the tournament director, officials of the Netherlands Chess Association, and the two happy winners, closed the tournament.

ONE HUNDRED REMARKABLE ENDINGS
By P. J. Wenman $ .75

The title is rather deceptive for the term 'ending' as here used refers to the conclusion of the game. Nevertheless, that does not detract from the keen selection of combinational motifs culled from ancient and modern practice. Each of the 100 positions is terminated in the most unexpected and abrupt fashion by concealed strategy.

The above position is a little known example of Anderson's play and actually occurred over the board.

If ever a game appeared hopeless, this would seem to be the one. Black threatens mate in two places and White appears to be barren of defense. If 1 R-Kt8ch, KxR; 2 Q-Kt4ch, K-B1; 3 Q-Kt7ch, K-Q1; 4 Q-Kt8ch and Black is able to defend with Q-B1. Yet there is a win for White in the original position.

1 Q-K6ch!! QxQ
2 Kt-Q7!! QxKt (forced)
3 R-Kt8ch!! KxR
4 PxQ and mates next move.

White has nothing but Pawns left. Truly a remarkable finish.

CHESS MASTERY BY QUESTION AND ANSWER
By F. Reinfeild $2.00

A new, novel, instructive and entertaining method of presenting features and problems arising in the various departments of the game. Sixteen exemplary games are chosen from master play covering almost every known tactical, strategical, positional and combinative device. But these are not to be swallowed as a pill, effecting an immediate cure-all for deficient knowledge in the opening, middle game or endgame. Instead, they are offered as roughage to prove and digest, and absorb. After every few moves, pointed questions are propounded, the answers to which are discussed at length in another section of the book. 173 pages, with an index to players, motifs and openings. Cloth cover.

INSTRUCTIVE POSITIONS FROM MASTER CHESS
By J. Mieses $1.00

An addition to the lighter and brighter side of chess literature, it aims to serve rare delicacies to those who play chess for the fun of it. One hundred twenty-five diagrammed positions, covering every phase of the game, are discussed. Seventy-five pages, clear, readable type.

QUEEN'S Gambit Declined
(Notes by S. N. Bernstein)
D. L. Morgan I. W. Taylor

White
Black
1 P-Q4 P-Q4
2 P-QB4 Kt-KB3
3 Kt-KB3

White is intent on playing a regular Q.G.D.-otherwise he would seize the chance to obtain a fine free game by 3 PxP, KtxP; 4 P-K4 etc.

3 P-K3
4 B-K5
5 Kt-B3
6 PxP
7 BxB

Safer was 7 ... QxB; 8 P-K4, KtxKt; 9 PxKt, B-K2; and Black's Q prevents Kt-Kt5 (the key-move of White's subsequent combination).

8 P-K4 O-O
9 B-Q3 B-K2

To be considered was 9 ... B-R3; 10 B-B2 (or 10 BxB, KtxB; 11 Q-R4, Q-B1; 12 P-QKt4, P-QB4; 13 P-Kt5, PxP!), Kt-Kt1! 11 Q-Q2, Q-B3! with a satisfactory game (12 P-K5, Q-B6!)

10 P-K5 QKt-B3
11 BxPchl KxB
12 Kt-Kt5ch K-R3

Of course not 12 ... K-Kt1? 13 Q-R5, R-K1; 14 QxPch, K-R1; 15 KtxP.

13 Q-Q2?

Here White misses a very pretty win by 13 Q-Kt4! He then threatens a forced mate by 14 Q-R4ch, K-Kt8; 15 Q-R7ch, KxKt; 16 P-B4ch, KxKt (if 16 ... K-Kt5; 17 Q-R5ch, KxKt leads to the same position); 17 Q-R4ch, K-B4 (if 17 ... K-R6; 18 Q-K4 mate); 18 Q-R5ch, K-B5; 19 Kt-Kt5ch followed by 20 B-B3 mate.

How is Black to prevent the above mate? He cannot play ... R-K1 for then KtxPch wins the Q. Other possibilities are:

13 ... Kt-Kt8 (or -B4); 14 QKt-K4 followed by 15 Q-B5ch and mate next move.
13 ... QxP; 14 QKt-K4, R-R1; 15 KtxPch, K-Kt2; 16 Kt-(7)-Kt5ch, K-R3; 17 Q-R3ch! (stronger than QxPch at once), K-Kt3; 18 QxPch, K-R4; 19 P-Kt4ch, K-R5; 20 Kt-B5ch, K-R6; 21 Kt-(4)-Kt5ch, K-Kt7; 22 R-Kt1 mate.
13 ... QxP; 14 QKt-K4, Q-Kt5ch; 15 Kt-B1, Q-B5ch (to protect the KtP); 16 Kt-Kt1, R-Kt1; 17 KtxPch, K-R2; 18 Kt-(4)-Kt5ch, winning the Q.
14 ... KtxKt; 14 PtxKt, P-KB4. Now White cannot force mate as in the main variation because after 15 Q-R4ch, K-Kt3; 16 Q-R7ch, KxKt; 17 P-B4ch, KxP and White's KP is unprotected! Therefore White must content himself with obtaining a winning game by 15 Q-R4ch, K-Kt2; 16 KtxP, Q-Q3 (if 16 ... Q-Kt6; 17 KtxRch, R-Kt1; 18 QxKt); 17 KtxRch with the exchange and a P ahead.

V 13 ... QtxKP; 14 PtxKt, KtxPch.

Allowing White to reinforce the Kt at Kt5. Stronger was 14 ... Q-Q6 with the unpleasant threat of 15 ... Q-Kt5 (or -Q5). 15 B-B2 is not to be feared because of 15 ... Kt-Kt3!

Black could also obtain an advantageous ending here with 14 ... KtxP! 15 KtxKtPch (if 15 Q-KKt5! wins), K-R2; 16 KtxQ, Kt-Q5ch; 17 B-K1, KtxQ; 18 RxKt, Kt-Q4 etc. However, the text move would have proved sufficient if Black had not gone astray on his next move.

15 QKt-K4 K-Kt3?

Here 15 ... Q-R4ch was essential and after 16 K-Kt1, Q-Q5! the threat of ... B-R3ch or ... Q-Kt4ch leaves White hopelessly lost, e.g. 17 KtxPch, P-Kt4! 18 KtxKt (or 18 QxPch, Q-Q9; 19 Kt-(6)xQ, B-R3ch and wins), BxKt; 19 P-KR4, K-Kt2 etc.

Or 17 Q-K3, B-R3ch; 18 Kt-Kt1, Kt-Kt1; 19 K-B1, Kt-B5ch; 20 K-Kt1, Kt-Kt4!! winning.

16 P-KR4 R-Kt1

17 P-KKt4!

Vigorously seizing the opportunity to resume the attack.

17 ...

R-Kt1

18 RxP

K-Kt5!

19 P-B4

Q-R4ch

20 K-B2

Q-Kt4

The onslaught appears most formidable, but Black could have played here 20 ... P-KB3! 21 Q-KKt1 (if 21 Kt-KB3, KtxKt; 22 KxKt, P-KB4; 23 PxPch, PxP etc. Or 21 KtxKt, KtxKt; 22 P-B5ch, KtxP etc.), PxKt; 22 KtxPch (not 22 Kt-Q5ch, Kt(2)-B4; 23 PtxKtch, PxP with a winning counter-attack), K-B3; 23 Kt-R7ch, K-B2; 24 Kt-Kt5ch, K-Kt1; 25 Q-Q3, Q-Q4 etc.

It must be remembered, however, that in such positions it is almost impossible to avoid going wrong somewhere!
Black finds himself "in the soup" again! But the last word has not been said yet!

Moves which create a weakness in one's own Pawn position are called anti-positional moves. The experienced player, acquires a natural dislike for such moves, which occasionally redounds to his discredit.

The following game from the eighth round of the Noordwijk tournament illustrates this.

White must prepare to cope with... Kt-Kt5.

At first sight the text appears strong, but a closer examination proves its deception. Indeed, Black still threatens... Kt-Kt5, and White cannot parry this by 13 P-QKt4, e.g.: 13... P-Kt5; 14 Kt-Kt5, Kt-Kt5; 15 B-K3, QR-B1, with an overwhelming position. The following completely anti-positional move is however an adequate reply. In view of this 13... B-Kt2 would be better.

13 P-QKt4!

Sir G. A. Thomas

This unexpected move creates grave and difficult problems for Black. The point is 13... Kt-B5 is now refuted by 14 Kt (Q4)xKt, P-KxKt; 15 KtxP followed by 16 QxKt. Also 13... Kt-Kt3 is met by 14 KtxKt, QxKt, 15 P-K5!, Q-K4 (forced, 15... Kt-K4 loses: 16 B-B3, P-Q4; 17 KtxQP, P-Kt4; 18

BxP and 19 BxR; 16 KtxKt, PxKt (or 16... QxKt; 17 Q-B3) and White wins at least the QP; 17 B-B5. True, Black's position is still not without hope, for after 17... Kt-K12 the capture of the Black QP is no advantage: 18 BxP, QxB; 19 QxQ, BxQ; 20 RxB, PxP with recapture of the Pawn.

13... Kt-K12
14 P-QR3 B-Q2

Again inaccurate, after which Black gets into very serious difficulties. Indicated was 14... Kt-Q2, possibly followed by... Kt-Kt3 and... Kt-B5.

15 P-K5!

Very strongly played. After 15... PxP; 16 PxP, QxP? White would win the Queen with 17 B-B4.

15...

Kt-K1

Necessary was 15... Kt-Q4, to preclude the possibility of losing a Pawn after 16 KtxKt.

16 Kt-K4

White misses the best continuation 16 B-B3!
The point is that White would obtain an irresistible attack after 16... P-Q4; 17 BxP!, PxB; 18 KtxP, Q-Q1; 19 Kt-B5, BxKt; 20 QxB. Also 16... R-B1 (instead of 16... P-Q4) would have proved insufficient after 17 Kt-B6!, B-Q1 (17... PxKt; 18 Kt-Q5 recapturing the piece); 18 BxKt, BxQ; 19 KtxQ, etc.

After the text move the dire consequences of the anti-positional move become apparent.

In the February, 1938 issue we reported that Harold Morton of Providence, R. I. retained the New England title by defeating Weaver W. Adams of Dedham, Mass. Two of the games from this match follow. They have been in our files for some time and some of our readers may ask why they have been resurrected at this late date. We feel that Harold Morton's refreshing annotations must not be lost to the chess world.

ALEKHINE'S DEFENSE
(Notes by Harold Morton)

W. W. Adams               H. Morton
White                    Black
1 P-K4                    KKt-B3

4 P-Qt4                   P-KQ3
5 P-B4                    ...

A pawn advance at wholesale. Is it a bargain? Opinions extant are well assorted. Hecklers and adherents both find reinforcement for their argument. e. g. Tarrasch, "Too much of a good thing. White allows himself to be enticed into advancing all four center pawns." But Alekhine comments it, "The most dangerous procedure for Black. Refutation of Black's strategy, if possible, can be found only through this advance." Snosko-Borovsky writes, "... this fortress erected imprudently too close to the enemy lines." Tartakower analyzes it to show a powerful attack for White. Some pot pourri!

9 ...  Kt-Kt5

To avoid a highly dangerous sacrificial possibility which might come after 9 ... Q-K2 with the under-rated 10 P-Q5 followed 10 ... Kt-Kt5; 11 Kt-Q4, PxP; 12 PxP. Black may not continue with KtxP as he will lose a piece after KtxB.

10 R-B1  P-B4
11 P-QR3  PxP
12 KtxP  ...

Snosko-Borovsky vs. Alekhine adopted 12 B-Kt5 after which Alekhine sacrificed his queen by PxKt. The game was subsequently drawn but later analysis indicates Black had much more favorable play, perhaps sufficient to force a win. The idea is 12 B-Kt5, PxKt; 13 BxKt, PxP; 14 BxKt, PxR(Q); 15 QxQ, Kt-B7ch; 16 K-any, PxP. Black has R & B & P plus an attack commencing B-QB4 for the Q.

12 ...  Kt-B3
13 KtxB  ...

A fine move. I had expected an even game after 13 KtxKt which has been accepted as correct by analysts. Adams' accurate appraisal here assures him of the superior game.

13 ...  PxKt

After 13 ... QxQ Black would have no defense against Kt-Kt5.

CARO-KANN DEFENSE

(Notes by Dr. Max Euwe)

J. L. Stolk F. J. Voorwinde

White Black
1 P-K4 P-QB3
2 P-Q4 P-Q4
3 Kt-QB3 P-QB4
4 KtxP P-K3
5 B-Q3 ....

One of the many gambit variations of this particular opening. White offers a Pawn in return for a few tempi. It is, however, a moot question whether the gain in time is worth the loss of material.

5 .... QxP

Fearlessly, Black accepts the gambit.

6 Kt-KB3 P-Q4

Best. The threat is now ... BxKt followed by the exchange of Queens.

7 Q-K2 ....

White must of course avoid the exchange of Queens in order to retain the initiative.

7 .... BxKt

And Black must of course guard against smothered mate: 7 ... Kt-Q2; 8 Kt-Q6 mate.

This last exchange will now enable Black to develop his KtKt with the gain of a tempo.

8 BxB Kt-KB3
9 B-Q3 Kt-K3
10 O-O QKt-Q2
11 B-KKt6 B-K2
12 QR-Q1! ....

In the nick of time to upset the peaceful development of Black! Were Black now to continue with 12 ... O-O, then would follow: 13 BxKt, KtxB; 14 BxPch, and White wins the Queen for a Rook and Bishop. Should Black recapture 13 ... BxB (or 13 ... PxR), then White recovers his Pawn by 14 BxPch, KxB; 15 Q-Q5ch, K-Kt1; 16 QxKt. This latter continuation would lead to about an even game: 16 ... QxQ; 17 RxQ, BxP; 18 RxKtP, KR-QKt1.

12 .... Q-R4

Removing the Queen from the danger zone to facilitate castling.

13 KR-K1 ....

Simple, but powerful! White's entire army is now mobilized; Black's Rooks are out of play.

13 .... P-KR3

Was ... O-O impossible? Let us consider: 13 ... O-O; 14 BxPch, KtxB; 15 BxP or 14 ... KxB; 15 RxBt, KtxR; 16 BxB and White must win the exchange, for he has a double threat of RxR, and Q-Q5ch followed by QxKt. Then after 13 ... O-O White at least regains his Pawn and obtains equality.

But Black does have better, 13 ... O-O-O apparently leaves the first player without tangible compensation for his gambit Pawn. On this ground the opening sacrifice is to be condemned.

14 B-Kt6!

Opening the Q file and immediately threatening BxBPch and QxPch.

14 .... Q-Q2

O-O

The only move to safeguard the King. The threats on Black's K2 and K3 could not be adequately met otherwise: 14 ... BPxB; 15 QxP, Q-Q1; 16 BxKt, PxB; 17 Kt-R4 and White wins.

15 RxKt! ....

A remarkable move in a remarkable position. Many pieces are en prise.

15 .... KtxR

After other moves White obtains decisive advantage: 15 ... RPxB; 16 RxP, PxB; 17 QxPch, etc.

16 BxB PxR

There was nothing else: 16 ... KR-Kt1 falls because of 17 BxPch, KxB; 18 QxPmate.

17 QxPch

Apparently White has achieved a winning position. Black's Knight must fall, and White has two pieces for a Rook.

17 .... K-R2
18 QxKt

The tables are turning! Now White's Rook is threatened and it appears that Black will remain with material advantage.

19 P-QKt4

Interposes on the diagonal, and attacks the Queen. Does not White win a piece?

19 .... Q-KB4

20 QxKtP

Now two rooks are loose.

20 .... RxB

Black acquiesces ....

21 QxR

White captures the rook. But now comes the surprise!

A thrilling battle — a credit to both players.

Translated from Kikokiki by J.B.S.
"By popular demand", as the saying goes, we are inaugurating in this month's issue a change of policy with regard to the solving rules. When I called for suggestions recently, you pointed out the difficulty of solving all the problems in each month's issue for full credit on the Ladder; and I quite agree that mastering twenty-seven offerings of all types and of varying degrees of difficulty every four weeks is a formidable task, even for the expert. Hence we shall hereafter hold you responsible only for the eighteen original problems, the majority of which will be in two and three moves. Solving of the nine quoted works will be optional, but will not score points on the Ladder.

As for the actual scoring, credit will ordinarily be allowed on the basis of two points for each two-mover, three for each three-mover, and longer problems pro rata; but this scale will be made flexible enough to allow extra points for more than moderately difficult problems of each type. Correct claims of cooks and no solution will also bring dividends. The number of points awarded will appear with the solution of each problem, which will give you a month-by-month check on your scores, and an opportunity to prove yourselves better mathematicians than the Editor. The solving prize will continue to be awarded each month to the lucky fellow at the top of the Ladder, but inactive climbers will be dropped if they are silent for more than six months. In case they subsequently awake from their slumbers, they will be allowed to resume their ascent with their back points restored and the Editor's blessing.

I have also decided to change the system of awarding the Honor Prizes for our original contributions. Until now the best two-mover and the best longer problem over a period of several months have received prizes; but it seems to me that three-movers deserve a separate place in the sun, and that they must be judged by somewhat different standards than those applied to long-range compositions. A good three-er may suffer in the popular banquet by comparison with an equally good four- or five-mover or self-mate; tot homines, tot sentientes, or, as someone has said, “What’s one man’s fish is another man’s poison.” Hereafter, therefore, please vote for the best two-er, the best three-er, and the best long-range problem or self-mate in each issue. The Problem Editor will then constitute himself judge of the best problem of each type selected by ballot over a period of three months, and these problems will appear in rotation on the cover. Thus the June Honor Prize will be awarded to the best long-range problem published during the period Feb. to April; the July Prize to the best two-er from the March-May issues; the August Prize to the best three-er during April-June; and so on. This amounts, in effect, to holding informal quarterly tournaments for each type of problem.

Now that these matters are off my chest, I hope soon to be able to give a series of brief articles on problem terms and themes, the technique of composing, hints on solving, and other matters which may be of some general interest. You might help by writing in and suggesting points which you should like to have explained in these pages. I shall also try to answer questions about problems except your personal ones) if they are accompanied by return postage.

The amusing pseudonym above No. 1336 masks a once-active composer who has come back to the chessboard after nearly twenty years of abstinence. No. 1343 is also by a newly-returned veteran. No. 1356 is an interesting revision of an unsound Shinkman solution, with added variety. Though Nos. 1348-1356 need not be solved for Ladder credits, they are recommended as being of exceptional merit.

Congratulations to Andre Marcell on his popular Honor Prize Lightweight, No. 1288, and to Dr. Gilbert Dobbs, who has acquired the habit of winning the Ladder award (this being his fourth ascent).

A sacrifice key to a wonderful piece of work—Keyser. The Royal upturns are splendid. Splendid mate after 1. Ke6. Problem speaks well for young Mr. Thorne—Rothenberg. By moving the White Rook to h3, robbing the Black Pawn from f2, and moving the rest of the position two squares to the right, the dual after 1...ExQ is eliminated—Rosado.

Easy mate but very cute double echo—Rosado. The symmetrical play is most pleasing. Am happy to see M. Bukofzer using pleasing—Rosado than Bishop and Knight—Rothenberg. Very pretty echo models—Spranger. My vote—Weyhege.

THE CHESS REVIEW

25 W. 43rd STREET

NEW YORK, N. Y.
1939 Russian Championship

Mikhail Botwinnik regained the championship of the U. S. S. R. in a remarkable display of skill and stamina, surmounting the rigors of an arduous schedule against seventeen of the Soviet Union's strongest masters to emerge undefeated in the 11th tournament for the U. S. S. R. championship which has just been concluded at Leningrad.

More surprising than the triumph of Botwinnik, who has come to be recognized as the Soviet's ne plus ultra contribution to the grandmasters of the world whether he participates in the national championship or not, was the feat of Konstantin Kotov. Kotov was accorded recognition as a master amongst the Russians only one year ago, but proved to be the sensation of the event, winning one more game outright than Botwinnik and maneuvering himself into second place only one point behind the leader. A highly creditable achievement.

The limelight fell away from G. Levenfish who won the Russian championship in 1937 from a field lacking Botwinnik, and who retained his title in a subsequent match against Botwinnik when their challenge encounter resulted in an evenly split verdict, 5 - 5 with 3 games drawn. Levenfish's failure to post better than an even score in this year's championship event relegated him to a tie for 8th, 9th and 10th places, and must be noted as one of the upsets of the tournament.

P. Romanovsky, who was runner-up to Botwinnik in last year's preliminaries at Leningrad, defaulted some games after an insidious beginning and finished last.

As usual the Russian press gave enthusiastic support to the event, and paid glowing tribute to its winner, going so far as to predict that Botwinnik "must become world's champion and undoubtedly will." Continuing, we learn that "as proven in the Russian Masters' Train-

SPOT NEWS!

NEW YORK CITY GETS 1939 A. C. F. TOURNAMENT

Ring out the news—now it can be told! One more sheet to add, and the calendar year of the American Chess Federation would be up. The scene of the North American Championship Tournament for 1940 was decided. For 1939, it was not.

The officials, guided by Milton Hanauer, N. Y. regional director of the A. C. F., have efficiently solved the problem. The tournament will be held in New York City.

Entries will be accepted on or before Monday, July 17th. Play commences Tuesday, July 18th and continues until Sunday, July 30th. Final choice of playing arena will be made from three pending hotel offers in New York City.

It will be a tournament of champions. Reshevsky, Fine, Kasydan and Horowitz will play.

Contributions to the prize fund or specific donations for brilliancy and best played game prizes are welcomed.

Entry fee is $10.00.

All remittances should be sent to Milton Hanauer, 150 West 80th Street, New York City.

It is not generally known, but efforts to negotiate a team match between the United States, four-time winner of the Hamilton Russell trophy, emblematic of the team championship of the chess world, and the U. S. S. R., have been under way for some time. Will the rumblings of rumor suddenly erupt into the realization of such a chess match?

RUY LOPEZ
(Notes by N. Rulmin)

I. Pogrebsky  G. Levenfish
White  Black
1 P-K4  P-K4
2 Kt-KB3  Kt-QB3
3 B-Kt5  P-QR3
4 B-R4  Kt-B3
5 O-O  B-K2
6 R-K1  P-Q3

Permitting 7 BxKtP, PxB; 8 P-Q4, PxP; 9 KtxP, B-Q3; 10 QKt-B3 with a good game for White. It is usual as a preliminary to play 6 P-QKt4, and only then 7 P-Q3.

7 P-B3  O-O
8 P-Q3  P-QKt4
9 B-Kt3  ...

In the game between Smyslov and Flohr in the training tournament in Moscow at the beginning of this year White preferred 9 B-B2, which was followed by 9 ... B-K3; 10 QKt-Q2, P-Q4 with approximate equality, although Black's king pawn is somewhat weak. After the text move the game resolves itself into a version of the main variation of the Lopez opening that is hardly favorable to White.

9 ...  Kt-QR4
10 B-B2  P-B4
11 QKt-Q2  Kt-B3
12 Kt-B1  Kt-KR4

Needlessly weakening Black's Q4. Black had at his disposal the following good and tried continuations: 12 ... Q-B2; 13 Kt-K3, R-K1; 14 P-KR3, P-Kt3; 15 Kt-R2, B-K3 with a good game (Rulmin vs. Botwinnik, Moscow, 1936), or 12 ... Kt-K1 with a view to subsequently playing ... P-B4.

13 P-Q4!  ...

Impossible, of course, would have been 13 KtxP because of 13 ... KtxKt! 14 QxKt, B-K5, when White would have lost his Queen.

13 ...  P-Kt5

Forestalling the threat of 14 P-Q5 and 15 KtxP, when White wins a Pawn. The text move, nevertheless, leads to a serious weakening of Black's king's side and, at the same time, gives White an opportunity to finish his development rapidly. More logical for Black would have been 13 ... Kt-Kt5! 14 QxKt, B-K5, when White would have had two alternative replies at his disposal: to play to capture a Pawn by means of 14 PxKP, PxP; 15 QxQ, RxQ; 16 KtxP, Kt-R6cch; 17 PxKt, KtxKt; 18 K-Kt2, or what would have been considerably stronger, to have simply played 14 Kt-K3!, threatening 15 Kt-Q5 or Kt-B5.

14 B-R6  R-K1

Or 14 ... Kt-Kt5; 15 Kt-K8!, in which case White permanently controls his Q5 square.

15 PxBP  PxP
16 Kt-K3  B-B1
17 BxKtP  RxR7

A serious mistake, leading to defeat. It was imperative to have played 17 ... KxB, after which White, continuing 18 Kt-Q5 and then Q-Q2 and QR-Q1, would have retained the better game. Incidentally, Black could not have played for further simplification by means of 17 ... QxQ; 18 QRxQ, KxB in view of 19 P-Q5, P-B5; 20 R-B6, B-Kt2; 21 P-QR4; and wins.

18 Q-Q5!  QxQ

Black can't escape serious loss. Nevertheless, the preservation of the Queen would have given a better chance for defense.

19 PxQ  Kt-K2
20 P-Q6  Kt-B3
21 B-K4  B-Kt2
22 BxKt  BxB
23 KtxP  QR-B1

Winning the piece, since it is impossible for Black to play 27 ... Kt-B3 because of 28 KtxKt, RxKt; 29 QR-Q1 and then R-K8.

27 ...
28 QR-Q1  R-Q1
29 PxKt  Resigns

Master Pogrebsky made good use of Black's inaccurate play.

So far, as in the game between Capablanca and Reshevsky during the Amsterdam tournament, last year. Capablanca proposed an exchange of Queens here by means of 9 Q-R4. The text move, in connection with the next presupposes, apparently, a strengthening of the whole system of play for White.

White  Black
1 P×Q 1 P×Q
2 Kt×KB3 Kt×KB3
3 P×B 3 P×B
4 B×Kt5 B×Kt5ch
5 Kt×B3 P×P
6 P×K4 P×B4

White purposely chose the well studied Vienna Variation in order to try out a new sharp continuation.

7 B×P
8 KtxP
9 B×Kt

9 B×Q2, Q×B4 is generally recommended. The text move is an interesting innovation proposed by a Moscow first class player, which places a doubtful value on the main line.

9 . . . . B×Ktch
10 P×B

Apparently best. 10 . . . . Q×Pch, 11 K×B1, Q×Bch; 12 K×Kt1, threatening 13 R×Q1 favors White.

An effective variation is attained by 12 . . . O×O; 13 Q×Kt4, P×Kt8; 14 Q×B4, K×Q1; 15 P×K5, KtxB; 16 P×Kt, K×R1; 17 R×Q1, Q×Q4; 18 Q×R6, R×Kt1; 19 Kt×KB3, Q×KR4; 20 Kt×Kt5 and wins.
Now the King is committed to the center and is subject to attack. But 14 ... Q-K4 is no better because of 15 Q-K3, with P-KB4 to follow. 14 ... Q-KKt4 would offer the greatest resistance.

A loss of time. Doubling the Rooks on the QB file was indicated.

Another loss of a tempo, which leads to a complete downfall. The only counter chance was offered by 26 ... Q-QR3 to distract or divert White by attacking the Pawn at B4.

Opening a line for the final attack.

An important move which cuts off the Q file as a retreat for the Black King.

The threat was Q-R4ch. The text move leads to an effective mating combination.

By the sacrifice of the Rook, White wins the Queen or forces mate.

If 25 ... Q-B2 then 26 Q-Kt5 with a quick win.

KtxPch K-B3
27 R-Q6ch KxKt
27 ... QxR; KtxQ. White is left with the advantage of an exchange.

28 B-Q3ch R-B5
28 ... K-Kt4; 29 Q-B6ch, K-R4; 30 B-Q1ch, R-Kt5; 31 Q-R6 mate.

Mate in two is unavoidable.
No better alternative suggests itself: e.g. 19 R-K1, B-R6; 20 Q-KB1, R-R5; 21 P-B4, Q-Q4; 22 Kt-Q4, BxP! Or in this variation if 21 Kt-R1, Kt-Kt6; 22 PxB, KtxPch; 23 QxKt, Q-Qch; 24 P-K4, RxP and wins. Or again if 21 P-B3, R-KKt6; 22 R-K3, BxP; 25 RxB, QxPch; 24 K-R1, RxR; 2 QxR, Kt-B7ch, 26 K-K1, Kt-R6ch; 27 K-R1, K-Q8ch.

Or 19 KR-Q1, B-B3 (threatening ... KtxP or ... Kt-Q7); 20 QxKt, B-B3!; 21 Q-B4, KtxP!; 22 Kt-K4, QxPch; 23 QxQ, KtxQ; 24 R(B)xB; 25 QxQch, Kt-B7ch, 26 R-K1, BxP; 27 QxP, QxKt; 28 B-K3, Q-K8ch. White may not continue 29 P-QR3 as 29 ... B-Kt4 would win a piece. After 22 ... BxP, K-Q1 with possibilities.

Failure to take the Pawn deprives White of counterplay and eases the pressure on Black.

20 ... Kt-Q3

Interesting is 20 ... B-B3, and if 21 Kt-Q4 then 21 ... Kt-B7. On 20 ... B-B3 White must reply with 21 Q-B2.

21 Q-Q3

21 QxP will not do on account of 21 ... B-B3; 22 R-Q2, Kt-B4. If 21 Q-B3, then 21 ... B-K3.

21 ... B-B4

The only move. 22 Q-Q2 is met by ... B-B7.

22 ... B-K5

Better was 22 ... B-R6, forcing 23 P-Kt3, as 23 R-Q2 would be met by ... Kt-K5. White would not have at his disposal in this variation 23 QxPch, QxQ; 24 BxQ, as 24 ... B-K3 would win a piece. After 22 ... R-B6; 23 P-Kt3, P-KR4 should win rapidly.

23 R-Q2 B-B3

24 Q-Q3 Kt-B4

25 B-K5

No better is 25 R-K1 in view of 25 ... B-K5; 26 Q-B1, Kt-R5; 27 K-R1, QR-Q1 with a crushing attack. White may not continue with 28 Kt-Q4 because of ... P-B4 or 28 R(K)-Q1 as his KtQt2 square is vulnerable.

The text move aims to divert Black's attention away from the K side assault, by focusing it on a Pawn.

25 ... P-B3

26 BxQBP RxKPt

27 Q-B4ch KR-K1

28 B-Kt6 KR-K1

29 Q-KB1 Kt-B7ch

... Kt-K5 was threatened.

29 ... P-R4

30 Kt-Q4 KtxKt

31 BxBt

In this instance, the opposite colored Bishops favor Black, as White is unable to oppose Black's B.

31 ... QxPch

32 QxQ RxR

33 QxP RxP

34 K-R1

It was better to stall with R-K2 or B-K12 as the text move should result in the loss of a second Pawn.

34 ... R-R1

Failing to utilize the tactical possibility to win another Pawn with 34 ... R-KB6! is comparatively best. Were Black permitted to double his Rooks on the K file, White would be committed to a plan of marking time.

35 R-K2 K-R2

36 P-R3 R-K1

37 Q-B2?

A gross oversight due to time pressure. 37 Q-Q2 would have held out for some time. 37 Q-KB1 falls on account of ... B-Kt4 and 37 Kt-K2 is met by ... QxPch; 38 RxQ, RxQ.

NEW YORK STATE CHESS ASSOCIATION CONGRESS

If you are planning a vacation for fun and for chess, jot down the dates of August 19th to August 26th for the New York State Championship competition. Colgate University, at Hamilton, New York, picturesque country grounds, will be the scene of action.

Greater details will appear in the July Chess Review.
ALL CLUBS FLOCK-IN

Twenty-eight member clubs of the Massachusetts State Chess Association were recently shepherded into the flock of the American Chess Federation, the guiding staff being wielded by George Sturgis, president of the M. S. C. A. and who is also president of the A. C. F. The state association affiliated with the national body under a special fee arrangement paid by the association, through which all its member clubs were accepted into membership of the American Chess Federation.

George Demars of Lawrence, recently elected secretary of the Massachusetts State Chess Association and one of Caissa's indefatigable workers, is seeking to create a "College of Chess" by enlisting the support of youth leaders and educators of Massachusetts schools to a plan which would win a place for chess in all their recreational activity programs. The faculty of this "college" would be scattered throughout the Commonwealth, and the curriculum would be patterned to teach not only chess, but the associated developments of civilization.

History and chess—a unique and graceful duo!

The influence of the M. S. C. A., which this year commemorates its tenth birthday, may be revealed by placing a statistical finger to the pulse of interscholastic activity. Schoolboy interest has been fostered and encouraged by instruction, exhibitions, individual and team matches for which the association has periodically provided prizes and plaques.

William R. Gennett, New Bedford interscholastic champion, reports a school club there of eighty members. Lynn English High School has two hundred student players, says director Lewis J. Thistle, who is also track coach, while Leo Ivok, Worcester teacher and a real guiding spirit amongst younger chess enthusiasts, born in the schools and boys' clubs, estimates nearly a hundred youths active in chess in Worcester.

In response to a friendly challenge by the leading chess club of the Pine Tree State issued recently, the Boston City Club defeated an aggregation from Portland, Maine, by the score of 4½ to 2½. A feeling of good fellowship prevailed.

PREMIER PROBLEM SOLVER

Boston chess fans again have occasion to feel proud of the problem solving ability of Edgar W. Allen, who recently won the Washington Sunday Star's 1938 solving tournament in a field of 41 contestants. A. G. Dreyer of Newark, N. J. finished in second place, Joseph Simon of Bellevue, N. J. was third and Wiley M. Fuller of Washington, D. C., was fourth. The contest covered an entire year.

Mr. Allen, the winner, is a resident of Newington, Mass., and now has to his credit a total of 48 various prizes through his skill in this branch of chess. He won his first contest at the age of 16 in an international affair, conducted by an English magazine, the 2nd prize going to India and the 3rd to Australia.

ST. LOUIS CHAMPIONSHIP

In a field of twelve leading players, Erich W. Marchand annexed the St. Louis championship title by winning nine out of a possible eleven points. Eugene Roesch and R. S. Scrivener, former holder of the title, divided second and third honors with \(\frac{9}{2}-2\frac{1}{2}\). A subsequent four-game play-off so determine the position, resulted in a victory for the former. Last year's winner, Edwin Woody did not defend his title.

The final standing:

E. W. Marchand ........ 9 2 0 9
Eugene Roesch .......... 8 2 1 8½
R. S. Scrivener ......... 8 2 1 8½
L. Thompson ........... 7 3 1 7½
L. W. Haller ............ 5 3 3 6½
M. W. Gilbert ........... 4 3 4 6

T. P. Cuttis ............. 5 6 1 4½
U. Handy ................. 5 3 3 ½
T. Handy ................. 1 1 0 1
H. Lauder ............... 0 1 1 0

The following game exemplifies the easy style of the titleholder, who grants his opponent not a moment's respite till the curtain is rung down.

Mrs. Clair Reid of Ann Arbor defeated Miss Lucille Kellner, Detroit, in a four-game match played for the ladies' championship of Michigan. Mrs. Reid won the first, second and fourth games, losing only the third.

A team representing Wayne University of Detroit, began a series of three matches with a team from the College of the City of New York at the Manhattan Chess Club, on June 18th. Wayne has recently annexed the Mid-Western Collegiate championship, while C. C. N. Y. holds the championship honors of the Intercollegiate Chess League, and, in the absence of competition, the winners will have a fair claim to be considered the collegiate champions of the United States.

KtxKtP? Resigns
ROOK VS. BISHOP

By Jose Maestre

(Sixth Installment)

SOLUTION TO PROBLEM NO. 5

1 R-QR4! B-Kt2

If 1 ... B-KR6; 2 R-R1 etc., or if 1 ... K-R2?; 2 R-R7ch, etc.

2 R-KKt4ch K-R1 forced

3 R-Q4! B any

4 K-B7 or Kt6 etc., wins.

Having disposed of all the king positions in the N corner, as well as those of the kings being in lateral opposition, a discussion of five more positions that may occur in the P corner is in order.

In all cases the advantage seems to be with White, and it is the black Bishop that must exercise care and precision, its move often being critical.

For example, place white's King at QB6 and black's at QR1, diagonally opposed. This situation, which in the N corner generally favored Black, is here always fatal to him. No matter where the Bishop is situated, in order to win, White needs to move his King to either Kt6 or B7. He may also use the Rook, (unless it is pinned) to attack the Bishop first, or he may effectively place the Rook on the QKt file or the seventh rank.

A Bishop check gains nothing.

It is important to note that White cannot win in the P corner unless he can obtain the lateral opposition, which incidentally cannot be forced if the Bishop is in control of White's QB6. Therefore, the play is centered on the control of that particular square.

Diagram O

Black

White

Obviously the above position is a draw. It is wise, however, for the inexperienced player to probe the possibilities with the Bishop at both diagonals intersecting QB3: (K1-QR5 and QR1-KR3).

1 R-Kt6ch K-R2

Or 2 ... B-R4. If the Bishop is forced off this important diagonal, as sometimes happens, he must secure control of the other (QR5-Q8), to assure him a draw.

3 R-Kt7ch Kt-K3 (or Kt1)

4 R-K4 B-B7

Better was 4 ... B-Q8! for after White's next move, Black could continue with either B-B6 or Kt-K12 with an easy draw.

5 R-QKt4 K-R2

6 K-B6

Again necessary; see Op. 3.

Drawn

Or from the diagrammed position the play may proceed;

1 R-Kt6ch, K-R2; 2 R-Kt4, B-Q2; 3 R-K4, K-Kt2; 4 R-K7, K-B2; 5 R-KKt7, K-B1; 6 Kt-B8, B-R5, drawn.

Diagram P

Black

White

Diagram P is the best position that White may obtain excepting the Kings be in lateral opposition. There is not a single post for the Bishop where Black may be sure of an absolute draw. For if the Rook is able to reach one of three or more important squares generally available, a win can be forced.

With the Kings and Bishop posted as in Diagram P White is able to win if the Rook is immediately able to approach 5 different squares. For example:

(1) 1 R-QKt6. This wins in all Bishop situations as Black is trapped in a mating net.

(2) 1 R-QKt4, B any; 2 R-Kt6, etc.

(3) 1 R-QR2ch, K-Kt1; 2 R-QKt2ch, K-B1 (op. 3); 3 R-KB2!, etc.

(4) 1 R-KKt3, etc. (as in solution to Problem No. 3. See April Chess Review).

(5) 1 R-Q2!, B-B5 (if ... B-R6 or ... K-Kt1; 2 R-QKt2, etc., as before); 2 R-
QKt2, K–R3 (op. 3); 3 R–Kt4, etc., wins.

If we place the Bishop on KR6 instead of B8 as in the diagrammed position, White is able to win if the Rook can immediately be posted on any one of 7 different squares.

1. 1 R–QKt6, etc.
2. 1 R–QKt2, etc.
3. 1 R–KKt7ch, K–R3; 2 R–Kt3, etc.
4. 1 R–KKt6, B–B4; 2 R–B6, B any; 3 K–B7, etc.
5. 1 R–KKt5, B–B8; 2 R–Kt6, etc.
6. 1 R–QR2ch, K–Kt1; R–KB2, etc.

Observe that after Black's first move the position reached is identical to the previous example, and again, the same as in Problem No. 3, (inverted here).

7. 1 R–QR5ch, K–Kt1; (See note above [6]) 2 R–KKt5, B–K3 (or ... K–R2; or ... B–B8); 3 R–Kt7, etc., wins.

When the Bishop is at his KKt5, the Rook wins if it can be posted on either of 4 squares. Besides (1) R–QKt6; (2) 1 R–QKt3; (3) 1 R–KKt6, etc.; (variations already given).

There is also (4) 1 R–QKt7ch, K–R3; 2 R–Kt3ch forcing the Black King into Op. 2 or 4 and winning.

Again, if the Bishop is at Q8, threatening two checks, the Rook can win if it can be posted on 3 squares. (1) R–QKt6 as before, and the two checks: (2) 1 R–QR5ch or (3) 1 R–QR3ch, K–Kt1; 2 K–Kt6, K–B1; 3 R–QB5ch or R–QB3ch, etc.

It is obvious that after 1 R–QR2ch Black draws as the check at B2 on the third move is not possible.

With the Bishop at K7, the Rook can win if it can be posted at either of 5 squares.

1. 1 R–QKt6, etc. (2) R–QKt3, etc. and (3) 1 R–K3, etc., variations given in previous examples.

With the Bishop at QB7, the Rook wins if it can be posted on 4 squares. (1) R–QKt6, etc., and the checks (2) R–QR1ch (3) R–QR3ch (4) 1 R–QR5ch, K–Kt1; 2 K–Kt6, K–B1; 3 R–QB5ch or R–QB3ch, etc.

With the Bishop at QB5, a bad square for the piece, the Rook wins if it can be posted on any of 16 squares.

1. 1 R–QR1ch, etc. 1 R–QKt7–6–5–2–1, etc.
1 R–KR6–KKt6–KB6–Q6, K–R3; 2 K–B5 dis ch, etc.
1 R–Kt1, B–Q6; 2 R–QR1ch, K–Kt1; 3 K–Kt6, etc.
1 R–KR3–K3–KB3, B–Kt1 (if ... B–B8; 2 R–KKt3, or if ... B–K7; 2 R–QKt3; 2 R–QR3ch, K–Kt1; 3 K–Kt6, etc.
The process is the same in all other Bishop situations.

(Answers on page 140)
The Buenos Aires International Team Tournament, after languishing in uncertainty for a few anxious weeks, during which the commencement date was postponed from July 1st to August 23rd, is now reported to be definitely scheduled to begin upon the latter date.

This cheering news trails upon earlier discouraging information that the Argentine Ministry of Education had substantially reduced its financial grant to "The Tournament of the Nations" and that the cancellation of the tournament loomed. Now the municipal authorities of Buenos Aires have come to the rescue, and this with additional support from other quarters will assure a pièce de résistance for the delectation of the chess world, its mouth already quite watery in anticipation of the congress.

Nearly forty entries had been received from various countries, and unless reduced by the change of starting date will bring together the greatest galaxy of chess talent ever assembled. The United States team is to comprise Frank J. Marshall, United States Champion Emeritus, who will act as captain, Samuel H. Reshevsky, present titleholder, Reuben Fine, Isaac Kashdan and I. A. Horowitz. The team sails in quest of its fifth triumph in international team competition, leaving New York aboard the S. S. Southern Prince on August 4th.

George Emlen Roosevelt, president of the Marshall Chess Club, has accepted the chairmanship of the committee which has charge of arrangements for participation of the United States team, and contributions to defray the team's expenses may be addressed to him: George E. Roosevelt, 30 Pine Street, New York City.
Famous Last Round Tourney Thrills

By Paul Hugo Little

The Kemeri Tournament of 1937 was a memorable event from many standpoints. First of all, it afforded the chess public an opportunity to see in what form Alekhine was playing before his awaited return match with Euwe. Moreover, there was great interest in the chances of Keres, who was being heralded as a coming grandmaster. And then there was considerable speculation ventured on the results America’s two grandmasters, Fine and Reshevsky, would achieve. And lastly, the prospect of a mixed tourney meant entertaining and original chess; for all too often in a tournament reserved for the elite of chess masters, the variations are conventionally colorless.

At the outset, it was evident that the tourney was to be productive of highly competitive chess. Petrov very nearly beat Reshevsky in the first round with a rehabilitated Meran Defense. Tartakower and Andreas Steiner were both in fine form; and Alekhine, despite a loss to Mikenas in the fourth round, was playing in his customary aggressive style.

Reshevsky, however, set the pace—and a dazzling one it was. Four straight wins, then a draw, then two wins, and finally his first loss in the eighth round to Alekhine, and after that three wins in a row. A score of 9 1/2 out of 11 rounds was phenomenal, and it seemed impossible to overtake him in six more rounds, since Flohr and Petrov, his nearest rivals, had only 8 out of 11.

But a draw and then a loss to Rellstab brought him back somewhat. And so, after the 16th and semi-final rounds, Reshevsky had 12 points; Flohr and Petrov, 11 1/2 each; Alekhine and Keres, 11 each. Anything might happen. It was a surprise not to see Fine’s name among the leaders, but he had fallen by the wayside and could show but a score of 8 1/2 out of 16 rounds.

Thus the last round opened with much excitement prevailing. Reshevsky was conceded to have the best chance, as he was to play Book, whose score was only 6 1/2. Flohr and Petrov faced each other, and Keres drew Feigin and Alekhine drew Berg as their opponents.

Alekhine and Keres got into difficulties, and only just managed to draw, Alekhine drawing in 46 moves and Keres in 60. Flohr and Petrov also drew, Petrov having a better game, but being unwilling to risk anything. The draw was in 41 moves.

And so the Book—Reshevsky game was to determine the tournament. Reshevsky, with Black, had played Alekhine’s Defense to Book’s P-K4. On his sixth move Book had introduced an innovation which as played secured a slight edge for him. This edge held through the middle game and over into the endgame. All Reshevsky needed to win the tournament outright was a draw—but when White’s 73rd move had been recorded, Reshevsky was forced to accept a loss and a triple tie with Flohr and Petrov for first place. This game shows that even a grandmaster cannot always draw at will, even by playing “book”!

A RECOVERY FROM HOLLAND
QUEEN'S GAMBIT DECLINED
(Notes by Harold Morton)

Dr. M. Euwe S. Landau
White Black
1 P-Q4 P-Q4 4 B-Kt5 B-K2
2 P-QB4 P-K3 5 P-K3 0-0
3 Kt-QB3 Kt-KB3 6 R-B1

Directed against Kt-K5 for if now 6
Kt-K5; 7 BxB, QxB; 8 PxP, KtxKt; 9 RxB, PxP; 10 Q-B2, P-QB3; 11 B-Q3 and White's position is preferable.

5 . . . . P-KR3 10 BxB QxB
7 B-R4 P-QKt3 11 Q-B2 Q-Kt5ch
8 PxP KtxP 12 Q-Q5 B-R3
9 Kt-Kt Kt-Kt 13 B-Q3 B-R3

Much better than the obvious 13 . . . QxRP which is well met by 14 QxP and if . . . . QxP; 15 QxB!

14 Kt-K2

But now the relinquishment of the Pawn is questionable. Better is 14 P-QR3.

14 . . . . BxB
15 QxB QxRP
16 O-O Q-R3
17 Kt-B4 Q-Kt2

After 17 . . . . QxQ; 18 KtxQ Black finds his Q side pawns stultified, and White, by exerting pressure through the QB file, obtains adequate compensation for his missing pawn.

18 Q-B5 P-QB3
19 Kt-R5 Q-K2

19 . . . . Kt-Q2 would lose quickly to 20 Q-Kt4, P-Kt3; 21 QxKt!

20 Q-Q5 Q-Kt4
21 Q-R3 P-KB4
22 R-B3 P-R4
23 P-K4

An inviting sortie—playing for complications in view of the pawn minus. Of course if 23
. . . . either PxP, 24 R-KKt3, but nevertheless
White's grip is strong enough to afford 23 Kt-
B4, relying with confidence upon his pressure through the QB file to balance the books in the after-play.

23 . . . . P-B5
24 PxP QxQP
25 B-R3 QxP

Snipping a pawn — also snipping himself adrift from the win.

26 Q-K6ch K-R1
27 Q-K7 Kt-R3
28 R-Q3

Forcing the draw, for the Black Q can neither leave the diagonal, nor rest in peace while remaining upon it.

"This is where I came in."

Drawn.

(The following game was played in the Prague tournament in true Spielmann-Gambit-style. The Wing Gambit was essayed, offering many problems, made to order for the conductor of the White forces.)

WING GAMBIT
(Notes by Dr. Max Euwe)

R. Spielmann Pelikan
White Black
1 P-K4 P-QB4
2 Kt-KB3 P-Q3
3 P-QKt4

The well-known gambit variation. White obtains in exchange for a Pawn, freedom of action, enabling him to place his pieces on the most effective squares without much trouble.

3 . . . . PxP
4 P-Q4 Kt-KB3
5 B-Q3 P-KKt3

5 . . . . P-Q4, in order to force a declaration regarding the White KP, deserved consideration.
The objection to Black's position is that it offers him no foothold in the center.

6 O-O B-Kt2
7 QKt-Q2 O-O
8 R-Kt1

Forcing slight weaknesses in Black's position.

8 . . . . P-QR4
9 P-QR3

Quite correct. The opening of the QKt file hampers Black's Q side development. This is the consequence of the weakness of Black's QKt3. Also White's QB is now able to actively participate.

9 . . . . PxB
10 BxP Kt-B3
11 P-B3 Kt-Q2

This move reflects Black's difficulties. In exchange for the Pawn minus, White is clearly ahead in development, is well poised for action, and maintains a flexible Pawn center.

12 Kt-B4

Further restraining Black's Q side.
12 . . . . Kt-R2

Strange indeed are Black's moves, but he has little choice in order to develop his pieces.
The text prepares for . . . . P-QKt4 and . . .
P-Kt2.

13 P-K5

Powerful! Forcing open the K file, and gaining a target at Black's K2.
13 . . . . PxP
13 . . . . P-Q4 falls short because of 14 Kt-K3.
Also on 13 . . . . P-QKt4 would follow 14 PxP!
14 R-K1

In order to keep the K file open, which is not the case after the immediate 14 KtP, KtxKt, etc.

14 . . . . P-QKt4
15 Kt(B4)xKP Kt-Kt
16 Kt-Kt Q-B2

While Black has freed his game somewhat,
he still harbors many weaknesses.
17 B-QB5

White refuses, and quite correctly at this and the next turn to recapture the gambit
Pawn with BxKtP.
17 . . .
18 P-KB4

The advance leads to a decisive reinforcement of the onslaught.

18 . . .

KR-Q1

In a few moves it will become clear that this is the deciding error, as the KBP becomes weak.

19 P-B5!

Preparing a beautiful sacrifice.

19 . . .

BxP

19 . . . PnP offers greater resistance, but would also fail against Q-B3 and BxP.

20 KtxBP!

Utilizing the combined weaknesses of the Black position.

20 . . .

BxB

If 20 . . . KxKt; 21 BxP (not 21 RxPch, leaving Black with material plus for the Queen), FxB; 22 Q-R5ch, K-K3; 22 QxPch, K-K1; 24 BxP, QxB; 25 RxQch, etc.

20 . . . R-Kt1 would be met by 21 BxB, followed by 22 Kt-K5!, and Black therefore has no alternative but to lose the exchange.

21 KtxR

RxKt

Forced. After 21 . . . BxR; 22 Q-Kt3ch, K-R1; 23 Kt-B7ch followed by mate.

AN ORIGINAL STRATAGEM

The following game was played by correspondence during the years 1938-39 between two distinguished amateurs. White’s play was vibrant with new ideas in the opening stage, and in lines of attack chosen, or at least ideas which are rarely encountered in modern master play.

QUEEN’S PAWN GAME

(Stonewall Variation)

(Notes by Dr. S. G. Tartakower)

Col. Bon X. Reille A. Bonaz

Paris St. Etienne

White Black

1 P-Q4 P-Q4

1 P-K3

This is the “Biscay” opening which is really more aggressive than it is believed to be.

2 . . .

P-K3

Instead of blocking his Q Bishop as well, Black might have continued with . . . Kt-KB3 in order to answer 3 Kt-KB3 with . . . B-Kt5 and 3 B-Q3 with . . . Kt-QKt5; e.g. 2 . . . Kt-KB3; 3 B-Q3, Kt-B3; 4 P-KB4, Kt-QKt5; 5 Kt-KB3, KtxBch; 6 PxtKt, P-K3; 7 Kt-B3, B-K2; 8 0-0, 0-0; 9 B-Q2, P-QKt3; 10 Kt-K5, B-K12, with equality.

3 B-Q3

Kt-KB3

4 Kt-Q2

To prevent the equalizing 4 . . . Kt-K5.

4 . . .

QKt-Q2

Or 4 . . . P-QB4; 5 P-QB3, Kt-B3; 6 P-B4 as in the game.

5 P-KB4

P-QB4

6 P-B3

PxB

It was possible to play 6 . . . B-Q3 or . . . K2, but Black expects to profit by the momentary blocking of the Q file by four enemy pieces.

7 KPxB

P-QKt3

8 P-KKt3

B-Q3

An important move! Faithful to his plan of realizing the Stonewall position, White renounces the other possibilities of immediate attack: 8 Kt-KR3 or 8 Q-KB3 and prefers to hold his position by the simple text move. The defensive position soon becomes an aggressive one.

8 . . .

O-O

8 . . . Q-B2; 9 KKT-B3, P-QKt3; 10 Kt-K5, B-K2; 11 Q-B3 and Black is far from attaining Q side castling.

9 KKT-B3

P-QKt3

Seeking to solve the problem of the inactive QB.

10 Q-K2

To prevent the possible 10 . . . B-K2 to be followed by . . . Kt-K5, and also to avoid the exchange which might follow after . . . P-QR4 and . . . B-R3. One may readily perceive now that Black’s 6th turn was premature, since it opened the K file for White.

10 . . .

B-Kt2

11 Kt-K5

In the spirit of the position.

11 . . .

Q-K2

12 O-O

KR-B1

By this move and the next, Black hopes to regroup his pieces so as to fortify his King and obtain counterplay on the Queen’s wing.

13 P-KKt4

The signal for the attack.

13 . . .

Kt-B1

14 P-Kt8

Kt-K1
A finesse! If at once 16 P-KR4, P-KB3; 17 PnP, Pxp, driving the Kt from its advanced post. If however, after the textmove 16...P-KB3; 17 PnP, KtxP; 18 Kt-R1 and White operates on the open Kt file.

Preparing an exchange of the Bishops, but at the cost of too much time. In the semi-blocked position, it is difficult for Black to develop a substantial plan, except to ease the effect of White's battery by an exchange.

An attempt to break the bind. If 19...Kt-R1; then 20 P-B5 is troublesome.

To block the B file.

Completing the mobilization of the reserves. With the advent of the QR into the battle, the transition from the opening to the middle game is marked.

To free one of the major pieces.

"Without fear and without reproach", a critical stage of the battle is at hand.

Riposte! The plausible advance gains nothing: e.g., 28 P-Kt6, Q-Kt1; 29 Kt-K3, KtxKt; 30 RxxKt, R-QR1; 31 P-B5, QR-K1, etc., and the fortress of the Black King becomes quasi-impenetrable. Whereas, with the textmove, involving the temporary sacrifice of a Pawn, White maintains the menacing onslaught. At the proper moment, after due preparation, White exercises the option of either advancing to Kt6 or opening the Kt file, according to the principle of elasticity.

For if 28...BpxP; 29 KtxKt, PxKt; 30 RxxR, BxR; 31 KtxKt, followed by Kt-K6ch wins a piece.

If 28...RpxP; 29 KtxKt, PxKt; 30 RxxR, BxR; 31 PnP (but not 31...QxP in view of...B-Q3; 32 Pxp, Qxp, with counterplay)...B-Q3; 32 P-Kt6, Q-Q2; 33 P-R6!, Pxp; 34 QxcPb, K-Kt1; 35 B-K4! BxR; 36 Ktxb, R-K2; 37 Kt-R5 wins.

In order to reply to 29...RpxP; 30 Pxp, Pxp, with 31 Bxp, R-K1; 32 R-Kb1, gaining the open KB file. And on 30...P-B4; 31 B-B4 with command of decisive squares.

Despite its plausible aspect, 29 RxxKt is much weaker: 29...RpxP; 30 Pxp, P-B4!; 31 R-K6, P-Kt3! or in this variation, 31 P-Kt6, Q-B1, etc., or if 31 R-B3, K-Kt1, etc., keeping the three K side files closed.

It is apparent that tactical details play an important part in the strategical development of the combat.

Black's defense is difficult, and it were better to have brought his QR into reserve by 29...R-Kt1.

Well timed! For White is able to concentrate his forces before Black's reinforcements arrive.

An open file is the motive force of most attacks. Indeed, it has been said of the immortal Morphy that on occasion he sacrificed all his pieces in order to win by judicious use of open files!!

More precise than K-R1 against which follows: 31...Q-Kt2; 32 R-Kt1, R-Kt1; 33 BxKt, R-Kt6, R-Kt6, R-Kt1, and Black maintains his defenses. After the text if 31...Q-Kt2, then not 32 K-Kt1 or 32 K-Kt6, because of 32...R-Kt2 but the intermediate maneuver 32 Q-KR4! with the terrible threat of 33 Q-B6ch! against which there is no adequate defense: 32...Kt-K1, 33 K-Kt1, R-Kt1, 34 R-Kt6, etc.

"A la recherche du Temps Perdu!"

Or 33...R(K)-Kt1; 34 R-Kt6, R-Kt6; 35 R-Kt6, Kt-K5, R-Kt1; 37 Kt-Q1!, R-B2; 38 Kt-B6 and wins the exchange.

Disorganizing Black's defense, which might have been maintained had White continued with 36 P-Kt6, R-Kt2, etc., or 35 Kt-K5, BxKt1; 36 QpxPb, P-Q5!; 37 QBpxP, R-KKt2.

If 35...R-B2; 36 Q-Q8ch, B-B1; 37 Kt-Q5 wins.

Threatening 37 Kt-K5 and after...BxKt; 38 BpxP and the KtP becomes a helpless target.

The abandonment of the KtKt file does not constitute a change of plan, but is an example of the well-known transformation of a positional advantage into one of material.

But Black now achieves counterplay which demands his opponent's respectful attention. Another plan of campaign suggests itself in 37...R-Kt1; 38 Kt-K5, BxKt; 39 QpxPb, P-Q5, with the cruel threat of 40...Q-QKt2ch. But 40 R-K7 and White triumphs.
With the insistent threat of ... R-R5. Has Black then succeeded in reversing the assault?

A. Bonaz

39 Kt-K5!! ...

The question is answered. A beautiful Q sacrifice crowns White's efforts.

39 ...
40 QxR
41 RxKtch
42 R-QR8 ...

The point of White's conception. The Rook dominates the board.

42 ...

K-B3

The King is in disarray. Greater resistance was offered by 42 ... B-Kt4; 43 R-QKt1, B-B7; 44 KtxB, K-B3; 45 R-B1. However, 45 ... AN INTRODUCTION TO THE ENDGAME AT CHESS

By Philip W. Sergeant $3.00

This volume offers some 200 diagrammed positions to students and tournament players wishing to re-inforce their knowledge of endgame technique. The positions have been variously culled from authoritative sources and some new positions added, each chosen with regard for the highest characteristics of practicability. No fanciful, or not-like-to-happen material appears, but the writer bends his efforts strictly to the difficult task of depicting winning or saving technique with utmost clarity—and succeeds. Pawn play, Queen, Rook and Minor Piece endings separately receive their allotted space.

MORPHY’S GAMES OF CHESS

By Philip W. Sergeant $3.00

A treasure house of combinations, enriched with Morphy’s virile and often times sacrificial play which is ever inspirational, educating and delightful. Morphy’s games will never grow old, and the true lover of chess in re-playing them can experience the tingle of pleasure always, much as the lover of music lives again in the memories stirred by an old melody.

Mr. Sergeant gives a fine biographical introduction. The great number of games (300) which are drawn from Morphy’s exploits in matches, tournaments, consultation and blindfold play, some of them at odds, are completely indexed by openings and opponents with a cross-index of historical usefulness, and this coupled with the excellent notes which are generously interspersed, make the book one which every ardent chess player will desire to possess and study.

We learn from the volume that Napoleon Marache in 1846 became the first chess editor in America, twenty years later becoming private secretary to Morphy. Marache playing White has just played Q-K4.

Morphy replied Kt-Kt6! The game is over, for after QxQ would come the pseudo-smothered mate by Kt-K7.

White to play and draw

"It is the bad position of Black’s King that prevents him from winning the game."

"If Black had the move he could win by the advance of either Pawn — but White with the move can draw by 1 R-B1, P-Kt7 (K-Kt6; 2 K-Q3, followed by 3 K-B3); 2 R-Kt1ch, K-R6 (K-R4; 3 K-B5, etc.); 3 K-B3, K-R5; 4 K-B4 and continues to threaten mate. Black could not here play 3 ... K-R7, for then 4 R-Kt1, P-R7; 5 RxPch and wins.

Pawns - Poetry - Pow-Wow

The bards of the Marshall Chess Club could not stay their pens when two cronies engaged in battles royal at the instigation of one of the members, Mr. J. R. Watkins. 'Tis a pity that the scores of this epic struggle are lost to posterity, yet a measure of satisfaction may be gained by the metrical description here set down.

THE PUEITER-KING MATCH

When Mr. Puetter plays with Mr. King,
They both play hard as anything.
King philosophizes and advises
While Puetter's mutter
Like the silent clam:
King is now much louder
For Puetter's in his chowder!
But now Puetter's ire arises
And his moves become acuter,
King is in a jam!
He's been reduced to powder!
And Puetter's now the prouder.

-Edward B. Edwards

REPLY
When Mr. Edwards takes to verse
To hope that P. will me immerse
In Chowder, "Jam" or something worse
Can only say in sentence terse
Should so it turn—from me no curse—
But, if results prove this untrue
Remember, friend, the laugh's on you!

-Frederick King

Oh! Mr. King
You're laboring
Under a misapprehension,
It's not you who's in the soup;
I call to your attention
You're merely in a Jam!
You surely have not read aright
But mayhap you would prouder be
If you could in the chowder be!

I shall not venture a prediction
In fact I have no predilection
When Masters meet in epic struggle,
And pieces d'er the board they juggle,
I sit in wondrous admiration!
In fact I'm in a perspiration.

May the best man win is my desire!
'Tis the doubtful end makes me transpire,
I hope that when the struggle's ended
And all the pieces are upended
That I may pursue my peaceful course
Although from cheering I am hoarse.

-E.B.E.

PUETTER ... A la KING

Oh, sing a song of six checks
A Puetter full of rye.
A noisy King without a thing,
But claiming all the pie.

His knight is in the gravy.
His bishop in the soup,
His rook and pawn long since have gone,
His queen is in a coop.

The sly old King just winks and grins
And says, "I see his finish.
A pawn at six I'll push to eight,
Demand a queen and call a mate,
And that will be his finish."
But the best schemes o' mice and men
Can never be too certain,
A take "en passant" spilled the beans
And so we draw the curtain.

Now, Puetter, from his dungeon cell
Cries out, "I see a chance";
And with a yell he raises h--l,
And King has lost his pants.
But lack-a-day, Oh, lack-a-day,
Beware of cruel fate,
A Puetter glad has now gone mad,
He sprung a sui-mate.
Contributed by Jocko, the Monk

If Puetter wins, will he be King?
Will King be Puetter in his hands?
And will the Match's stern demands
Say: King is lost: Long Live the King?
For victory, which successful suitor?
Viva King and Bravo Puetter!

-Milton Hanauer

THE SIXTH GAME

We celebrate in song and story
The battle grim and fierce and gory!
Puetter now in spite of prattle
Has evened up the bloody battle!

He moved a pawn to Bishop eight
And with great glee announced a mate:
(Appologies to Jocko, the Monk)
His moves were pretty and galore,
But King forgot to keep his score:
And I must say with greatest shock,
That Puetter did not punch his clock!
Alas! The world will never know
How King received this awful blow.

-E.B.E.

APOTHEOSIS

By great Thor! the god of thunder,
Puetter made an awful blunder!
And King now held him in a grip,
From which he did not let him slip.
Though Puetter strove like Hercules,
He could not manage his release.

The battle's o'er and King is King!
His praises now we all shall sing:
Hero of the battle story
He shall wear a crown of glory!
And listen to the world's applause,
For Puetter, naught but applesauce!

He lands on a bough
With a plop and a teeter
And Jocko, the monk
Is bitten by meter.

"Zound," muttered Jocko,
"What could be worse?"
If I'm bitten by meter
I'll have to write verse.
If I have to write verse,
They'll call me a poet.
By my tail—I will write it
But no one will know it."

—Grace M. Watkins

The world, the great match, and the poetry it evoked.

'Tis said the world to-day,
Is in a parlous state—
Dictators, so they say
Will sure decide its fate;
Well, be that as it may
Just one thing here I'll state—
When Hitler, Mussolini and the rest
Forgotten are—grow mute and muter—
I'll bet the world still talks with zest
Of mighty match twixt King and Puetter!

—F.K.

A SURMISE

Old Jocko, the monk,
Who swings through the trees
In joy, in abandon,
With prehensile ease,

The Scottish Championship Tournament was won by Max Pavey, a medical student whose early chess training was gleaned through participation in club and league activities three thousand miles away from the scene of this, his first major triumph—New York's East Side.

Arriving in Aberdeen for a short vacation, he quickly adapted himself most befitingly to his new environment (if we can believe some of our Scotch story-tellers) and behaved so penuriously with his pawns that he out-held a strong field to emerge the winner.

Pavey outscored former British champion, William Winter and the veteran Dr. J. M. Aitken and survived the nine rounds without once suffering a loss. Many of his games were exciting, many revealed inaccuracies, but in the practical competitive task of making the most of all opportunities he excelled.

SICILIAN DEFENSE
As these lines are being written, Washington is enjoying (?) a sultry ninety-six degree heat-wave, and it is not the easiest thing in the world to concentrate on a Chess column. It seems almost criminal to ask you to solve eighteen problems at top speed in Summer weather, and so I might remind you that key-moves submitted up to the date of actual publication of the solutions will be credited on your scores; though to ensure accuracy of the records, it is desirable to send in the keys by the 25th of the month mentioned.

Among the many interesting items in this month's selection (adv.) are Nos. 1363 and 1364, a clever pair of twins which can only be appreciated by comparison with one another. No. 1363 is a novel and ingenious version of the theme which we discussed in the Review of April and May, 1933, while No. 1370 was suggested by the note on "Brede Cross-check with Underpromotion" in the October, 1937 issue. The dedication of No. 1372 to Mr. E. W. Allen is appropriate and deserved; Mr. Allen is an enthusiastic student of problems who has been collecting and publicising the works of our best American composers, which have been appearing in series for the past several years in the Christian Science Monitor. To him and Mr. F. Gamage we are indebted for the discovery of an anticipation (No. 1377) of Pituk's prize-winner, published as No. 1295 in the March Review. Mr. Allen is also an excellent solver; he recently won the annual Washington Star tourney in a field of more than a hundred competitors.

Xadrez Brasileiro has just concluded a three-move tourney for problems on a theme suggested by Mr. Cheney, as follows: The key allows Black to pin a White piece; White then is enabled to interpose another piece on the line of pin, so that when either of them is captured, the other mates. With such complex conditions, a large entry could not be expected; but the prize-winners (Nos. 1382 and 1383) are excellent taskers. Skakbladet has just announced its awards in the 1938 tourneys (Nos. 1378-1381), which as usual attracted a strong entry. The 1939 tourneys are now in progress, for all original two-ers and threes are published this year. Address all entries to Mr. P. Rasch Nielson, Damhusboulevard 37, Copenhagen, Denmark.

We are now judging the entries in the 1938 International Miniature Tourney, and hope to publish the prize-winners in the July Review.

Congratulations to Fred Sprenger, whose strategic four-mover, No. 1318, takes the quarterly Honor Prize for long-range problems, and to Bill Beers, who has at last reached the top of the Ladder.

WHITE TO PLAY AND LOSE
Batted and lured and Lorelei'd,
For Mate or Queen is what he tried,
But just accomplished — Suicide!

Twyford

Malzberg

The loser showed us this one. It is from the current Jersey City Chess Club championship.

Black has just played Q-Q2 and White, being two pawns ahead, thinks to wind matters up quickly with:

R-B8ch

K-R2

R-B7

Which would win the Q, inasmuch as any Q move allows RxPch followed by mate—except, alack!

R-B4!!

Giving White a most propitious opportunity to ponder the wisdom contained in "The longest way 'round is sometimes the shortest way home."

We wish to announce that Mr. S. S. Cohen has relinquished his post as editor and is no longer connected in any capacity with The Chess Review.

No U.S. Team to Argentina

The United States will not send a team to the International Team Tournament at Buenos Aires, Argentina.

The American chess fraternity, whose patriotic fervor has been stirred by the unbroken string of four monumental victories which returned the Hamilton-Russell trophy triumphantly home from Prague, Folkestone, Warsaw and Stockholm, learned this sad fact from the following Tragedy in Ten Words—cabled July 26th to Sr. Augusto de Muro, president of the Argentine Chess Federation, over the signature of M. S. Kuhns, president of the National Chess Federation.

DEEPLY REGRET INABILITY TO SEND TEAM MISS KARFF SAILING FRIDAY

* * * *

Like a pebble dropped into a pool, the ungentle descent of this Parthian shot, into the midst of American chess may be expected to ripple in ever-widening circles of astonishment, over the entire area of the chess world.

* * * *

Now—while the United States evidences its desire to cement friendly relations with our South American neighbor by good-will battleship cruises, and good-will tours of diplomats—the Cavalcade of Chess stands still!

The Canadians, with their champion J. Morrison, and H. Opsahl, A. Yanofsky, H. Hellmann and W. Holowach were aboard, accompanied by the woman champion of the Dominion, Miss Annabella Lougheed and the U. S. Women’s Champion, Miss N. May Karff as the S. S. Argentine departed!

The United States team was on the shore! Changes of plans wrought by postponement of the International Team Tournament at Argentina, and a later transfer of reservations to an earlier sailing date than had been expected found the committee and the players without sufficient time to adjust themselves to the new conditions. Withdrawal of part of the expense fund which had been subscribed when it was announced that neither Fine nor Reshevsky were to be part of the quintet, drove the final nail into the coffin, and hopes of American participation sank. Fine had announced many weeks before that for business reasons he would be unable to play at Argentina, and had received regretful acknowledgment, but Reshevsky’s position was not clear until the very end.

Two days before the sailing of the S. S. Argentine, upon which the United States team was to have embarked for the Tournament of the Nations—the paid return reservations for the team were cancelled at New York City.

Immediately upon receiving knowledge of the cancellation of the reservations, Frank J. Marshall, United States Champion Emeritus, telegraphed a stirring appeal to the committee in charge of the American team arrangements.

FOR THE SAKE OF CHESS DON'T GIVE UP THE CUP WITHOUT A FIGHT SEND THE BEST AVAILABLE TEAM FRIDAY.

Announcement

A bounteous harvest of exciting chess was produced by the Ventnor City Invitation Chess Tournament as twelve well-chosen competitors squared off July 8th to 16th at the Municipal Pier of this New Jersey ocean-side vacation resort.

Milton L. Hanauer of New York City topped the list after an uphill struggle during which he made the newspaper headlines only once—on the final day—the winner!

The invigorating breezes cleared the cobwebs of care from the minds of the players; the officials who sponsored and managed the event fairly out-Dale-Carnegie’d the authority himself, at the delicate task of placing the players at ease with a brand of consideration, which unmentioned here, would be a monument to blind ungratefulness.

These excellent playing conditions were mirrored in the fighting chess and genial sportsmanship which characterized the tournament.

Mayor of Ventnor City, Harry S. Hodson, expressing his wish that the tournament be an overwhelming success, was a frequent visitor. The committee which staged this event was headed by the mayor and comprised Councilman Daniel McD. Bruner; Richard W. Wayne, Tournament Director; J. Roy Desauzer, Referee; Louis Kligerman, Treasurer; and Gerald H. Phillips, Secretary.

Youth displayed virile ideas, flashes of brilliancy and a will-to-win which won the gallery from the start and inspired many offers of special prizes.

Hanauer, playing aggressively throughout, owed his success to this quality, though not until it had more than once placed him on the brink of disaster. Steady under fire, notably in his game with Knorr where the young New Jersey expert won Hanauer’s queen for two pieces, he managed to survive the entire eleven rounds without a defeat. His victory was the just reward for courageous and enterprising tactics. His game against Santasiero in which he gave up his queen (this time much more cheerfully than with Knorr) earned him the brilliancy award.

Fred Reinfield led the tournament most of the way, while his chief rival, Hanauer, found his schedule to be a maze of adjournments. Reinfield was undefeated throughout, and got away to a dashing start with five wins and one draw in the first six rounds. Having obtained a comfortable lead, he sought to insure it, and in the latter half of his schedule against the leaders drew his remaining five games in order. This proved to be too many to hold first place, which he relinquished for the first time on the final day of the tournament.

Despite this historic wind-up, Reinfield shared a special prize with Ulvestad for his part in a knock-down and drag-out battle. If the hopes and fears of the two contestants could have been graphed as the game progressed, the chart would have contained enough icebergs to fill the Atlantic Ocean.

Levin played his usual positional game, safety being the keynote. He lost a closely fought Knight and Pawn ending to Ulvestad in his only reverse, but failure to win but one game outright amongst the seven leaders landed him in third place.

McCormick shared with Ulvestad the distinction of producing the really volatile pyrotechnics. His flair for combinations is well exemplified in his defeat of the gifted Ulvestad in an abbreviated joust.

McCormick, former Princeton star, won a special prize offered by Louis Kligerman for the best showing by a New Jersey entrant.

Morris, on vacation, took things easy. After building a fine position against Hanauer he relented just long enough for Hanauer to elude justice and the tables were soon turned. He made amends against Ulvestad, and his fine effort won him the prize for the best played game of the tournament.

Ulvestad indubitably produced the most entertaining chess. Not so well known in the east as some of his rivals, Ulvestad wasted no time in making his presence felt, opening with a first round defeat of former New York State Champion, Santasiere. He won a special prize contributed by Dana Brannan of The New York Times, for his entertaining style, and shared another with Reinfeld. His genial pleasant mien belies the dangerous chess he displayed. He comes from the Pacific coast "more gifted than Dake," and Ventnor City which is his first important tourney may well be the first step of a steady upward climb.

Burdge was the diplomat of the week. Having collected one win and two losses at the outset, he aimed for an even score. "With malice toward none" he set about drawing the balance of his games. His splendid knowledge of the openings and a keen eye for a sign of anxiety across the table—success! He registered eight draws, which was pretty near par for the course.

Santasiere played off form; poor health aggravated by an un economical style (Santasiere enjoys a hard battle, and if it is a long one, so much the better) proved his undoing. A flash of his real ability came at the expense of Morris in a very fine game.

Leary, the most uncompromising entry, battled every game to a decision but one, the sole draw being with the Specialist on Peace, Burdge. He made a very creditable showing, failing to break even by but one game despite being out-experienced by most of the field.

Collins' games were characterized by hard fighting and an indomitable spirit, even when the game went against him. His draw with Hanauer was earned after losing a clear pawn in the early play.

Knorr had to concede too much to the field in experience, but made a gain in this vital requisite and a creditable score, just barely missing a chance for glory by relaxing after out-combining the tournament winner, Hanauer.

Mrs. Bain, runner-up in the national women's championship was an excellent inclusion in the entry list, made possible by one withdrawal. Many of the stronger players amongst the men would be happy to have held opponents of the calibre of Morris and Ulvestad to a draw. She displayed fine poise in the face of difficult situations and emerged from play with the respect for her ability and commendations of her male protagonists.
This game was awarded a special prize as "the showpiece of the tournament, and for the originality, resourcefulness and the will to dare on the part of both players."

Calls for eyebrow raising, but Kt interpositions are answered by ... Kt-K5.

13 P_QR3
14 B_Kt2
15 P_K3
16 P_KS
17 P_QRS

Weakens the black squares, but Black's lapse of judgment is probably excusable in view of White's unpromising position.

18 Kt-B5
19 R.Q1
20 P_KtS

Good and bad. White's Queen can now get into the game, but Black will have attacking chances.

17 ... B-Q3
18 Q_Q3 P-QKt4!!

Losing patience, he decides to force the issue. But his black squares become a shambles.

19 BxKt!

Better than 19 BxKtP, BxB; 30 QxB, R-Kt1; and Black recovers the Pawn with a good game.

19 ... PxB
20 QR-B1!

Suddenly Black finds himself with a strategically lost game, and his Kt high and dry at the edge of the board.

20 ... P-B6!

Hitting at White's only vulnerable point: his King!

A sorrowful decision, but there is no time to temporize.

23 PxP
24 RxB
25 RPxp
26 P-B3!

If 26 K-B1, Q-Kt5! gives Black sufficient resources to hold the position.

27 QxBPch
28 Q-B71

And Black finds himself in terribly time pressure, with thirteen moves to make!

Reinfeld

Ulvestad

28 ... Q_Kt7ch
29 K_K3

If 29 K-K1, Q-Kt5ch etc.

29 ... Q_Kt4ch
30 K_B2!

If 30 K-K4, Q-Q7ch (... Q-Kt3ch leads to a lost ending); 31 R-Q1! Q-Kt8ch; 32 Q-Q6, Q-B1 and Black has a strong counter-attack.

30 ... Q-Q7ch
31 K-Kt3 Q_Kt4ch
32 K-R3

He spurns the draw, Black's remaining time being infinitesimal.

32 ... Q-Q1!
33 R-K1!
34 Q-Q7 RxPch
35 K-Kt4 Q-B1!

Exchange of Queen's would lead to a lost ending, despite Black's material advantage.

36 Q-Q8! R-B5ch
37 K_R3!

A good way to drive your opponent crazy when he is pressed for time.

37 ... R-B4ch
38 K-Kt4 R-B6ch
39 K-R5

Or 38 K-Kt3, R-B6ch; 40 K-Kt3, R-B7ch and Black has nothing to worry about.

39 ... R-B4ch
40 K-Kt4 P-R6ch?

Black sees that he can force the draw at once, but after all he is a Pawn ahead, and he wants to reserve an opportunity to utilize the passed Pawn.

41 K_R4!
Suddenly it develops that Black's game is very difficult! His Kt is en prise, the perpetual check is gone, the KP threatens murder, exchange of Queens probably loses. And if 41 ... R-B5? 42 KxP! R-B8, K-Kt8! and wins.

What to do?!

41 ... K-Kt1!!

Saved!
The point is that the arrival of Black's King to the center can neutralize the White Rook on the 7th rank plus the White Pawn at K6. Fortunately, White cannot indulge in 42 QxKt? for then 42 ... R-B5ch (43 K-R3, Q-B4ch or 43 K-K8, R-Kt5ch) forces mate.

42 P-K6 Kt-B3

Everything clicks. If White retreats the Queen, he may live to regret the airy position of his King at Kt1.

43 QxQch KxQ
44 R-Q7 K-K1!!
45 RxKtP Kt-Q1
46 RxP KtxP

Ulvestad is unquestionably one of the finest fighting players I have ever had the pleasure to encounter! —F.R.
A woeful necessity. After 23 ... QxBP; 24 QxKt, P-Kt3; 25 B-B3 and a King's ransom is a costly luxury.

The sealed move. The same player conducted the White forces in both the first and second sessions but unfortunately not in the same commendable style. Hanauer's tenacity under stress averted disaster while Knorr, almost tasting the kill, faltered, just long enough to collect experience instead of the point.

Keystone Championship

It will be "On to York" for Keystone State chess players, when the Pennsylvania State Chess Federation holds its first annual state championship tournament over the Labor Day holidays, Sept. 2-3-4. Tournament headquarters will be the ballroom of the Yorktowne hotel, one of Pennsylvania's finer hotels, located on the corner of Duke and Market Streets in the center of the city.

Players will be divided into groups of four, each group playing a round-robin of three rounds. Winners advance into the Master's class and continue play for the state championship. The others will compete in Class A, Class B, and the Amateurs' play-off tournaments according to their standing in the preliminary play.

The three-day schedule follows:

Saturday, September 2
- Business Meeting 1—3 P. M.
- Round 1 3—7 P. M.
- Round 2 8 P. M.—midnight

Sunday, September 3
- Round 3 8 A. M.—Noon
- Round 4 1—5 P. M.
- Round 5 6—10 P. M.

Monday, September 4 (Labor Day)
- Round 6—8 A. M.—Noon
- Round 7 1—5 P. M.
- Round 8 6—10 P. M.

The awarding of cash prizes will take place upon completion of the final round. The amounts will be determined by the attendance and entry fees. Entry fees will not exceed $2.00 per player.

Harold Morton, New England States Champion and an editor of THE CHESS REVIEW will be the tournament director and chief arbiter of the P. S. C. F. tourney. Best games and tourney results will be published in THE CHESS REVIEW.

A P. S. C. F. tournament book is being prepared by the York County Chapter of the Federation. It will appear the P. S. C. F. roster of clubs and officials, an article on the organization of a chess club and suggested activities for the maintenance of interest, score sheets for the eight rounds, facts and map of York, and a classified advertising section for the convenience of the entrants.

With players coming from chapter clubs in Erie, State College, Gettysburg, Lancaster, West Chester, Pittsburgh, Wilkesbarge, Allentown, Bethlehem, Chambersburg, Philadelphia, Hazleton, Reading, Harrisburg, and York, there should be at least fifty players on hand at tournament time. William H. Steckel and Herman Hesse, ex-state titleholders and A. N. Towsen, central Penna. expert, are leading contestants entered to date.

The P. S. C. F., co-operating with the A. C. F. and C. C. L. A., stands for the promotion of chess and solicits the affiliation of all clubs in Pennsylvania. Secretaries of clubs are urged to contact P. S. C. F. secretary, W. M. Hart, Jr., 147 Springdale Rd., York, Penna.

On May 14th the Chess Union of Greater Germany opened its "chess-weeks" at Stuttgart, Germany, with an international tournament from which Bogoljubov emerged the victor with a total score of 7½, followed closely by Richter T. Eliskases, Engels, Kieninger and Prof. M. Vidmar 6½ each.

The German Championship for women was won by Mrs. Rinder.

At the conclusion of the tournaments, the six club teams which had reached the finals of the Team-Championship, met in Stuttgart. The championship was won by Berlin with a score of 28½, followed by Vienna (25), Hamburg (19½), Mannheim (18½), Munich (14½) and Leipzig (14).

H. Mueller won the City Championship of Vienna with a score of 11. Prof. Becker and H. Keller were tied for second and third with a score of 9½.
Chess Has Checkered Past as Menace to Home and Morals

Kings and Clergymen Fought Over Game; Called Sinful by Its Ancient Critics

Under this brain tumor (harmless thunderbolt) Clyde Hall tells an intriguing story in the Milwaukee Journal, and asks "how many know that the slightly highbrow 'king of games' has a checkered past?"

Do you? Here is his tale.

By Clyde Hall

Per cloister, chess has more skeletons than the families of Bluebeard, Machiavelli and Capt. Kidd all rolled together. If you dig into the 6,000 years of chess history you find the game called a menace to religion, morals, home life and politics.

Moralists seem to have been divided about the real significance of the game. Melancthon said that God was playing chess. Others held that it was man and the devil who were doing the playing, and that the stake was man's soul.

Boudoirs and Brides

Chess may have gained some of its ill repute and some of its favor because it was an open sesame to milady's boudoir. Troubadours were chess players as well as minstrels and were permitted to visit milady "in her chamber to play chess with her."

The ladies, in their turn, pondered deeply how to obtain a knowledge of chess and to apply it so as to be of greatest value in courtship.

Norse parents did not beat about the bush. Prospective suitors for the hands of their daughters were required to play chess with the men of the family. Papa's "yes" or "no" depended upon the suitor's conduct during the game.

But the game occasionally caused marital problems. When his wife beat him at chess, Baldwin IX, count of Flanders, beat her up. In revenge, she later refused to ransom him from captivity in a dungeon, permitting him to "cool off" for 13 years.

Lesser domestic problems occurred, too, as shown in the advice of a father to his son not to play chess because it led to quarreling.

First Kibitzers

Kibitzing was defended as the essence of the game, but it inevitably caused much argument. Imagine being an envoy and having the entire retinue of the noble you're visiting tell him how to make every move. All through the game bystanders could carry on a running stream of banter and advice.

Back in 1061, for example, the bishop of Florence so disgusted his superiors by playing chess that he was required to read his Psalter three times, wash the feet of twelve poor men and give each his lunch money for the day.

Taboo

Wycliffe twice attacked the clergy of his diocese for going to taverns to play chess. And in his monastery on Mount Athos, Zonares wrote that clergymen who departed from virtue by playing chess and laymen who were given to chess playing and drunkenness were to be excluded from the church.

At Oxford, chess was included in the forbidden "noxious, inordinate and unhonest games." French universities prohibited it, too, along with jousts, hunting and hawking. But sometimes allowances were made for holidays, if the stakes were limited to food and liqueurs.

French employers who wanted to get something done often required their apprentices to promise in writing that they'd not play chess on or off the job.

First Kibitzers

Kibitzing was defended as the essence of the game, but it inevitably caused much argument. Imagine being an envoy and having the entire retinue of the noble you're visiting tell him how to make every move. All through the game bystanders could carry on a running stream of banter and advice.
Huon of Bordeaux, a kibitzer-hater of the middle ages, ruled that spectators were to keep still, but five hundred years later H. E. Bird still had this to write about the eternal kibitzer: "It is bad form for spectators to remove the pieces from the board without the consent of the players, even if it be done for the purpose of demonstrating more forcibly what move should be made."

Sometimes differences of opinion grew into violence. Earl Ulfr of Roskild, husband of the sister of King Canute, was found dead a few days after he and the Danish ruler got into an argument when Ulfr demanded he be allowed to capitalize on a false move by Canute. Other kings had their troubles, too. William the Conqueror had to leave France in a hurry when he assaulted the king's son because of a chess argument. Frederick the Great broke a chess board over an opponent's head when he was told: "Your majesty, if I could place my head on your shoulders, you probably would win."

In Iceland, Vigvaro used his battle-ax on King Jatmmondur when the latter, vexed over losing three games and a princess to Vigvaro's father and three more games to Vigvaro's brother, slapped brother Rognvald in the face with a bag of chessmen.

George Washington is even said to have won the battle of Trenton because the British Gen. Rahl was so deeply absorbed in a chess game that he put, unread, in his vest pocket a Tory note warning him of Washington's approach, and continued playing.

A holler than thou Britisher, George Walker, in 1850 found opportunity to take a crack at the gullible Americans who, like the gullible Europeans couldn't solve the mystery of de Kempelen's chess-playing automaton which Maelzel exhibited in the United States. Americans, however, did not have to feel too glum about the automaton, for Frederick the Great, in a like predicament, bought the thing. So mortified was he when he saw what made it run that he considered himself swindled and threw it into an obscure lumber room, where it lay for thirty years until Napoleon came along.

Walker wrote: "The calculating spirit of the land of the stripes and stars, Methodist conventions, and chained slaves, slumbered beneath the spell of Maelzel's magic... Lynch law would, doubtless, have been awarded... had the secret been discovered in that sweet land of liberty!"

Another skeleton in the history of chess dates back to the siege of Troy, when Achilles is supposed to have sulked in his tent because of defeat in a chess tournament, and not because of the abduction of Briseis. All the big shot Greek warriors, the story runs, had whiled away the long siege in a chess tournament. Briseis, a fair slave, was to be the prize.

Achilles and Agamemnon eventually were the finalists, but Achilles lost the girl, tournament, and his temper because of a hangover from the crafty Agamemnon's wine.
American Chess Federation Congress

The forty-ninth annual congress of the American Chess Federation opened at New York City in the beautiful Colonial Room of the George Washington Hotel, on Tuesday, July 18.

The field of twenty-eight aspirants for the North American Chess Championship includes for the first time both the names of the United States champion and the American Federation titleholder, as U. S. champion Reshevsky makes a bid to hold both titles simultaneously. Chief obstacles in his path loom as Reuben Fine, jointly with Keres the A. V. R. O. conqueror, and I. A. Horowitz, undefeated in North American championship play since he annexed the crown at Philadelphia in 1936.

The Dark Horse Brigade has recruited aplenty, with any one of a dozen contenders able to acquit himself with distinction. Fresh (?) from Ventnor City Invitation Tournament comes Olaf Ulvestad, Washington state champion and A. E. Santasiere, seeking new fields to conquer. W. W. Adams, who tied for runner-up position in the 1939 Manhattan Chess Club championship and Walter B. Suesman of Rhode Island, add a touch of nearby New England, while Albert Pinkus orients himself amongst American chess players for the first time in many years. Pinkus arrived recently from the Guianas where he engaged in exploration and collection of natural history specimens. His name, once familiarly recognized in the country's top flight, has remained while the lime-light moved to other figures on the chess stage.

Four of the Canadian contingent awaiting their sailing date for Argentina to participate in the team matches are entered. They are Blumin, former champion of Canada, Kittces, Rauch and the juvenile sensation of the Dominion, Abie Yanofsky. Yanofsky is only fifteen years old. (LATE FLASH—Yanofsky draws hard-fought game with Fine—1st round of Preliminaries.)

Three contestants are only fifteen years old! More than half the entire entry is under twenty-five years old.

Only two are over forty!

The plans for the tournament were completed in a very short interval prior to its commencement.

The unbroken record of the federation—a tournament every year for forty years—was preserved as the players banded together under the guidance of Milton L. Hanauer and Fred Reinfeld, regional directors of the A. C. F. at New York, to stage a Tournament of the Players. No funds were guaranteed. Prizes will be provided from entry fees, special contributions and gate receipts.

Prominent figures among opening day visitors were George Sturgis, of Boston, president of the American Chess Federation and also president of Massachusetts State Chess Association, former United States champion Albert B. Hodges, John F. Barry of Boston, retired chess master and hero of many international cable matches some two score years ago, and Dana Brannan of The New York Times.

The entrants represent a wide geographical area, with Pinkus doing the ambassadorial honors from the tropics, Ulvestad and Yanofsky the far West, and the north being ably represented by the Canadian trio, Rauch, Kittces and Blumin.

Twenty-eight entrants are divided into four sections of seven contestants each. The top three scorers in each group will qualify for the twelve-man North American Championship Finals.

The entry by sections:

Samuel H. Reshevsky, New York City
Olaf O. Ulvestad, Seattle, Washington

2 P-QB4 P-K3 6 P-B3 P-B4
3 Kt-QB3 B-Kt5 7 Kt-K2 PxB
4 P-K3 P-QKt3 8 PxB O-O

White's system of development adopted by White produces no advantage.

9 B-Kt5 B-K2
10 O-O

I expected here 10 Q-B2, P-KR8; 11 P-KR4, to be followed by O-O-O, against which I would attempt a Q side attack by ... P-Q5, Kt-B3 R-QB1.

10 ... P-Q4
11 B-K3

11 P-QKt3 is worthy of consideration.

11 ... PxP
12 BxP Kt-B3

Black's game is already preferable.

13 Q-K1?

Permitting Black to gain time with the maneuver 13 ... Kt-Kt5 and ... Q4. Correct was 13 P-QR3.

13 ... Kt-QKt5 17 P-QR3 KtxKt
14 B-K3 QKt-Q4 18 BxBt Kt-Q4
15 B-Q2 R-B1 19 BxB B-B3
16 R-Q1 B-R3

Like a pianola, Black's game almost plays itself. White's chances to assume the initiative are remote.

20 B-B1 Q-Q2
21 R-B2 KR-Q1
22 Kt-B3 KtxKt
23 PxKt

The exchange of Kts is of no value to Black; instead of one isolatedQP, two weak Pawns remain.

23 ... B-B5
24 B-B2 B-Q4
25 R-Q3 G-B2
26 B-Q2 P-Kt3

A precautionary move before beginning decisive operations in the center. If 26 ... BxBt then 27 R-K3, B-KKt4; against which White has the tricky reply: 28 P-KB4, BxP; 29 R-R3 with a strong attack.

27 Q-QB1 B-B5
28 R-K3 B-R3

A peculiar Bishop tour, B-Kt2-R3-B5-Q4-B5-R3. Now 29 ... BxB is the threat!

29 B-K1 P-K4

Stronger than 29 ... B-KKt4 which wins a Pawn and the exchange: 30 P-KB4, BxBP; 31 RxB, QXR; 32 Kt-K3, after which White has tactical chances.

30 PxP BxP
31 P-KB4 ...

There is no good defense to the severe threats of ... BxBP, ... B-Q3 and ... B-B4.

Or 33 R-Kch, RxR: 34 QxQ, RxBch, etc.

2 P-QB4 P-QB3 6 P-K3 O-O
3 Kt-Kt3 P-QB3 7 Q-Kt3 ...
4 Kt-B3 P-KKt3

This move seems to receive the stamp of grandmaster approval, having been frequently adopted in recent games.

7 ... PxP

An alternative here, which at least has the merit of not conceding the center to White is 7 ... P-QKt3 QKt-K3; 8 PxP, PxP; 9 B-B1, B-Kt2; 10 B-Q4 or QKt5, Kt-K5.

8 BxB QKt-Q2
9 Kt-K5 Q-K1

Black remains constrained for a long time after 9 ... KtxKt; 10 PxKt, Kt-R4; 11 P-K6.

10 B-K2 KtxKt 14 QR-B1 B-B1
11 BxBt Q-Q1 15 Kt-R4 Q-Q1
12 O-O Q-Kt3 16 KR-Q1 ...
13 Q-R3 Kt-K5

White is fully mobilized, while Black still remains with most of his force "in storage". It is interesting and instructive to note the manner in which Dr. Euwe exploits his superior position.

16...
17 P-K4 Kt-K4
18 Q-KB3 ...

A fine move which prevents the Kt from returning to the King side where it would be more useful defensively.

18 ...
19 Kt-B6 Kt-Q2
20 Kt-Kt3 BxBt
21 B-B6 ...

Driving the first stake of his claim against the Black King. 21 ... B-K2 is unavailing because of 22 P-K5.
White methodically chases possible defenders of the Nubian bund-leader out of range, where for practical purposes they will soon be as useful as if vacationing at concentration camps. The execution by 22... BxR incurs swift reprisal by 23 PxR whereafter Black is doubly harassed by his hanging R and the threat of mate by 24 Q-K3 followed by Q-R8.

Still the R is an Untouchable. If 24... PxR, 25 RxR and mate is unavoidable.

Staving off disaster by 23 RxP which would now be repulsed by 28... QxPch etc.

It is now or never. 30 R-KB3 gives White permanent security while Black remains vulnerable.

A dramatic finish. Can Black obtain reinforcements by queening the RP before his beleaguered garrison falls? At least he is not to be starved out—the assault is White's only course.

Behind this seemingly peaceful move lurks a bombastic threat. He wishes to play P-Kt4 and thus shield a possible R-RK3 which enforcing mating combinations.

Black finding the best defense, transcribes a Suicide Squadron, but even this proves to be futile against White's accurate shelling.

A direct hit!

White prefers a quick mobilization to a gain of material. The Pawn at Kt7 could have been captured.

Opening new avenues of attack.

4... P-Q4

Underrating White's idea. Better would be 4... P-Q6 to be followed by... P-K4. Even then White's 4th move sets new problems. If 4... 0-0; 5 P-K3, P-Q3; 6 P-QKt3, QKt-Q2; 7 B-K2, R-K1, 8 B-K2, P-K4; 9 PxP, KtxP; 10 KtxKt, PxKt; 11 Kt-B3 and White exerts pressure on the center.

DELAWARE CHAMPIONSHIP

Thirty aspirants for the premier chess honors of Delaware were attracted to the state championship tournament recently sponsored by The Chess Club of Wilmington. The state title tournament, which concluded June 13th, was the first held in many years. It was won by R. B. Cunningham of Wilmington, who remained undefeated throughout the event. He was awarded a silver plaque.

S. A. Collins and T. E. Stevens who finished in runner-up position and third respectively received silver loving cups. Six finalists won their way into the title-deciding canto, emerging with the following scores:

OMAHA CHAMPIONSHIP

Mr. Delmar Saxton has won the chess championship of the city of Omaha, Nebraska without losing or drawing a single game. Mr. Saxton also won the championship in 1937, defeating the veteran Rev. Howard Ohman who bore the signal distinction of having won the crown for seventeen consecutive years. Rev. Ohman regained his championship in 1936 with Saxton the runner-up. This year the positions of 1936 were reversed. The final standing of the seven leaders in the championship round is shown below. Three survivors from each of four qualifying rounds comprising eight players, qualified for the finals.

By winning this year, and also in 1937, Mr. Saxton secured two legs on the gold championship trophy. Three legs are required to obtain permanent possession of the cup, first placed in competition in 1937.

MASSACHUSETTS HEYDAY

The annual outing of the Massachusetts State Chess Association occurs Sunday, July 23rd. The scene will be the grounds of Deerfield Academy at Deerfield. These are boom days for chess in Massachusetts, where many enthusiastic leaders have taken a civic pride in building the M. S. C. A. into one of the strongest state associations in the country.

Recognition of fine work in the western area this year brings the annual outing to Deerfield for the first time.

General Chairman Major Harold Flower of Deerfield and his assistants, Karl Allured and James Slattery of Northampton, Ed Thompson and Al Ward of South Hadley Falls, Paul Hawks of Deerfield and Richard E. Gleason of Springfield have arranged a program of chess, field sports, picnicking and exhibitioning.

Waldimir Grigorieff, formerly of Chicago, is now a resident of Pittsfield. Grigorieff finished fifth in the North American championship at Chicago in 1937. A series of exhibition games at rapid pace is being planned. Harold Morton, New England champion, who best Grigorieff in their individual meeting at Chicago, will attend the outing and give the erstwhile Chicagoan an opportunity for revenge in a series of rapid transit games which have been carded.

WEST VIRGINIA

Hurt, Jr. Hurt gained the honor after first playing through a preliminary event, then surmounting the tests involved in a triple tie-playoff, and finally defeating his lone remaining rival, Edward M. Foy of Charleston, who had gained a playoff position in the finals by winning his preliminary event.

The tournament was held at the Kanawha Hotel, Charleston, June 24 and 25, where a strenuous two-day schedule of match chess produced the following qualifying scores.

NEW YORK CITY

Dr. Emanuel Lasker, still carrying on actively at the age of seventy-one, faced a field of twenty opponents in simultaneous play July 7 at the Hotel Alamac. The exhibition was arranged by Harold M. Phillips, Dr. Julius Platz and Miss Esther Seminoff. After three hours of play the unfinished games were adjudicated by Reuben Fine. Many of the games had not reached critical stages, with the result that ten games were recorded as draws. The venerable grandmaster scored the remaining ten, and emerged undefeated.

GRANDPA CAN'T TAKE IT

Miss Dorothy Enderis, director of recreation for Milwaukee Public Schools, tells an amusing story.

An old-timer, an avid chess player with a reputation and record which you learn after the time-worn “You didn't know me when” was playing a youngster—one of 24,000 who have been taught at playgrounds and social centers during the past seven years.

The lad had just learned the game, but was all confidence as he squared off to play. The boy made a few clever moves. The old man pondered—became ill at ease. All his skill was not enough. In the end the youngster was the winner.

A quaint mixture of exasperation and tears, the old man stamped off, first going on the air with, “If chess comes to the point where a twelve-year-old snip beats me at these damn social centers—I quit.” He did.

Want to Improve Your Play?

At last—a break for the non-masters. Much has been written about master play by those who know something about it, and even more by those who do not.

But the point is—everybody writes about the masters. The struggling millions who still can take a rook odds and get nowhere fast are left in futile bewilderment.

The first of a series of elementary articles will appear in The Chess Review, commencing with the September issue. They are designed to aid that vast fraternity of players who admit some shortcomings, and are adaptable to the needs of those at the bottom of Caisa's Ladder to Fame.

"First Steps" by C. J. S. Purdy, many times champion of Australia, possesses the highest characteristics of practicability. It is written in a simple, pleasant vein. If you are one of the many who have been desirous of obtaining elementary instruction, or if you wish to help friends who may be less adept—"First Steps" may be the solution of the problem.

"First Steps" commences in the September Chess Review.

SOLUTION TO PROBLEM NO. 6

1 R-K8  B-KB4ch

If 1 . . . B-B6ch; 2 K-Q6 wins.
2 K-Q6 or Q8  KxP forced
3 K-B7!  . . .
Not 3 K-B6? for then 7 . . . B-B7 draws.
3 . . . K-R3 forced
4 K-B6  K-R2

Now we have reached the position shown in Diagram Q.

Diagram Q

Black

White

WHITE WINS AGAINST ANY DEFENSE

In this situation White may win in various ways, if the Rook is able to reach the proper squares. Here, however, there is only:

5 R-K3!

Necessary for progress, as the position simply repeats after 5 R-K7ch, K-R3; 6 R-K8, K-R2.

All Black King moves lose quickly: 5 . . . K-R3 permits mate, 5 . . . K-R1 collapses after K-Kt6, and finally after 5 . . . K-Kt1 White wins with R-K7 as demonstrated in previous examples. Let us consider the available Bishop moves.

1. Checks are prevented.
2. 5 . . . B-Kt8. The Bishop falls after two Rook checks.
3. 5 . . . B-B7; 6 R-R3ch, K-Kt1; 7 K-Kt6 wins.
4. 5 . . . B-Kt3 loses to 6 K-B7.
5. 5 . . . B-Kt5 is met by 6 R-QKt3 winning as demonstrated in previous examples.

Now in Diagram Q, place the Bishop at Q6. Let the Rook move as before.

Analysis of the new situation discloses that most of Black's defensive measures are quickly refuted. The Bishop must move. Again, checks are prevented. Against Bishop to Kt8-B7-Kt3 White wins as before. If 1 . . . B-B5; 2 R-R3ch, K-Kt1; 3 K-Kt6 wins. Or if 1 . . . B-B8; 2 R-KKt3 etc. wins.

What is left for Black? Only:

1 . . . B-B4

The position is identical to the previous example, but IT IS NOW WHITE'S TURN TO MOVE. He continues:

2 R-K7ch  . . .

Futile would be 2 R-K1-K2-K5 or K8. Black would draw with 2 . . . B-Kt5, as the four needed squares (QKt6-3-7) are inaccessible to the Rook. Also if 2 R-QR3ch, K-Kt1; 3 R-K3, B-Kt5 draws, for the Rook cannot reach the winning squares KB4.7 or QB7.

2 . . . K-R3 best

The Rook can threaten mate from four squares, K8, K1, K2 and K3. He must not now use K3! The three alternatives win.

(After 3 R-K2, if B-Kt8; 4 R-K8)
3 R-K1 or K8  K-R2

It is important now to have available 4 R-K3!

For now it is Black's turn to move and White wins. We have shown thus that White Wins With or Without the Move.

Also, with the Kings and Bishop posted as in Diagram Q, White can win provided the Rook is so poised as to reach the following squares: QKt7 — QKt6 — QKt4 — KR6 — KB6 — Q6.

As important as clarifying the winning methods of White in the positions cited, is the task of Black in defending his draw, once White has neglected an opportunity.
THE MOVE

In the above Diagram, Black with the move draws easily after ... B.K5. Without the move, however, the play may become critical, e.g.

1 R-K3 best

If 1 K-B6 or various R moves, 1 ... B-K5ch draws.

If 1 R-R3ch, K-Kt2 draws. Insufficient is 1 ... K-Kt1?; 2 K-K6, K-B1; 3 R-R8ch winning.

1 ... B-Kt3!

No other move will do. If 1 ... B-B7 or Kt8; 2 R-K7ch, K-Kt1; 3 K-Kt6 or B6 respectively wins. If 1 ... B-B4; 2 K-B6 wins.

2 K-B6 K-Kt1!

The only move, for if 2 ... B-R4; 3 K-B7 wins. If 2 ... B-B4; 3 R-K7ch wins.

The position now arrived at has already been analyzed. (See June, 1939, The Chess Review.) Here it is seen inverted. The Bishop, deprived of the major diagonal, has secured use of the diagonal K1 to R4.

3 K-Q7

If 3 R-K6, B-R4 draws. If 3 R-K7 or QKt3ch, then 3 ... K-B1 draws, but in the latter two cases not 3 ... K-R2 which loses to 4 K-B7.

3 ... K-Kt2

Or 3 ... B-B4ch; 4 K-B6, B-Kt3 repeats.

4 R-QKt3ch

On 4 R-K5, B-B7 draws.

4 ... K-R3! Drawn

Excepting positions where the Kings are in lateral opposition, or Black confined to the last rank, the above situation was the most favorable for White.

(This position is similar to Problem No. 7 which follows.)

3 R-K7!

Necessary, to prevent the eventual flight of the Black King. Alternatives draw, e.g. (a) 3 R-Kt5, B-K5!; 4 P-QB8(Q)ch, KxQ; 5 K-Q6, K-B1 drawn. Or (b) 3 P-QB8(Q)ch, KxQ; 4 K-Q6, K-Kt1 drawn. Or (c) 3 R-Kt3, B-B4; 4 P-QB8(Q)ch, KxQ; 5 K-Q6, K-Kt1; 6 R-K3ch, K-B2; 7 R-KB3, K-Kt3 drawn.

3 ... B-B4

4 P-QB8(Q)ch KxQ

5 K-Q6 K-Kt1

6 R-B7ch K-B1

7 K-B8 any

8 K-Kt6

Resigns
Our good friend and collaborator, Geoffrey Mott-Smith, recently suggested an idea so interesting that we have decided to risk solvers' anger by devoting most of this month's column and all of the discussion to it.

Briefly, the idea consists of a half-pin of Black in which both thematic defenses lead to mates by a pinned White piece (or pieces). For those not familiar with problem terms, I ought to explain that a "half-pin" occurs when two pieces are so placed on a line that when one of them moves, the other is pinned. In a "complete" half-pin two-mover, there are variations allowing each piece to move, pinning the other, and thus allowing mate.

In the "pure" form of the idea under consideration, each of the Black half-pin pieces will also perform the pinning of the White mating piece. Thus, in No. 1402, after the key 1 Sb5-d7 (threat 2 Re6), the defense 1...RxR thematically pins the Bishop at e2, which in turn pins the White Bishop in the mate 2 Bxc4; while when 1...BxQ, the Black Rook at e5 is not only itself pinned but also pins the White Knight in the mate 2...Sxc5.

Unfortunately the only way to accomplish the idea in pure form, so far as we have been able to discover, is with a Black lateral Rook-and-Bishop half-pin. Mr. Mott-Smith's originals, Nos. 1390 and 1391, show this with Rook one and Bishop three squares distant, and Rook two and Bishop six squares distant, respectively, from the Black King. No. 1402 presents a half-pin with Rook one and Bishop four squares away. It is interesting to observe how the character of the mates changes with the shift in half-pin.

Another valid way of presenting the idea is to have one of the Black half-pin pieces accomplish both pins of White, as in No. 1403. Here, after 1...Re2; 2 Sxf5, the White Knight is vertically pinned by the Black Queen; it is horizontally pinned after 1...QxQxe8; 2 Sf6 mate.

By introducing extraneous Black men to pin the White mating pieces, thus rendering the idea "impure," it is possible to use other half-pin arrangements than those already shown. Thus in No. 1404, the extraneous Black Queen is placed on the board to provide the pinmate by 1...Bxd3; 2 Qxd5. This addition makes possible the use of the lateral Bishop-and-Knight half-pin. Nos. 1405-1407 show other types of half-pin, the latter two examples presenting two extraneous Black pinning pieces. In No. 1408, again using two extraneous pieces, I have tried to set the maximum possible number of thematic pinmates by White. There are four in all—after 1...SxQ (2 SxS), 1...Sb5 (2 Qc6), 1...Sd4 else (2 Qc7) and 1...QxQ (2 Qxe6).

It can be objected with justice that the introduction of such extraneous pieces is not valid if they have no part in the problem except to point up the mates. I must admit that this is true in the case of the Black Queen in No. 1404, and the Black Bishops in Nos. 1406 and 1408. Such dead-wood is inevitable when one tries to work out scientifically all the possibilities of a given idea; and a great many modern two-movers depend on compulsory pieces like these to achieve their highly theoretical effects. With this objection in mind I have tried whenever possible to give the extraneous pieces as much reason for their existence as possible. Thus in No. 1409 the Black Bishop at e2 is needed not merely to provide the pinmate 1...Re4 (not 2 Sxd3, but 2 Sd7).

Finally, No. 1410 is an attempt to use two extraneous pinning pieces as essential parts of a problem theme. Here the idea is to have each Black half-pin piece unpin one of the extraneous men as a defense against White's threat, allowing the other to take part in the pinmate. Thus the move, 1...RxQ unpins the Black Queen to stop 2 Se2, but permits 2 Sxe6; while 1...Se4 prevents the threat by unpinning the Bishop at g4, but allows 2 Sxe6 pinmate.

The "antiform," or strategic inversion of Mr. Mott-Smith's idea would appear to be a situation in which each Black half-pin piece unpins a White piece on its first move, instead of pinning one on White's second. This is the well-known "Hume Theme," of which the following example will suffice.

By V. L. E. Cincinnati Enquirer, Mar. 16, 1936; 1392, 11P1S1r1, 11b4pl, 17, pkP1SP2, ps2b3, Bqf1PK2, 12Rb3; Mate in 2 by 1 Pd8 (S), threat; 2 Sc6 mate. If 1...Qf6 (unpin); 2 Pd4. Or if 1...Sc5; 2 Sc2.

Note—Problems Nos. 1402-1410 are not entered in the Ladder solving competition and so for the benefit of the minute minority who may care to read through this little essay I have placed their keymoves in this month's Solution section.

Composers working on definite themes are invited to submit short essays similar to the above. I should like to make this column as much as possible an open forum for the discussion of problem ideas. Mr. F. L. Rothenberg is busily exploring a clever "double ambush" idea (shown in Nos. 1395 and 1397) and may soon give us a treatise on the subject. And our genial colleague, M. Andre Marcelin, writes that he may honor the Review with an essay when the spirit moves.

An interesting letter came with No. 1395. Says Mr. Parmalee, "As an 'old-timer' who has just returned to problems after many years of absence, I've been astonished, not to say delighted, to see how many of the great men who used to stump me in my younger days are still 'going strong.' And what's more, they're still at the top of the heap, more than holding their own against the stiff competition of the young 'uns. So I composed this little three-mover, and want to dedicate it to the 'Old Timers'—men like Dobbs, Gamage, Howard, Spencer, Keeney, Marshall, and all the rest—who seem to have gotten better and better as the years have slipped by. With which we heartily agree! (Solve some nice symbolism in No. 1305: a strong White piece is apparently thrown into the discard, but immediately returns, more potent than before).

No. 1376 should have B not P on the d6.

"Tournament of the Players"

The unbroken record of the American Chess Federation . . . a tournament every year for forty years . . . was preserved as "The Tournament of the Players" was contested at New York City in the beautiful Colonial Room of the George Washington Hotel from July 18th to July 29th.

Bereft of the benefit of any great advance publicity, and handicapped by the necessity (or so it seemed at the time) of scheduling the Congress so as not to conflict with the departure of some leading American players for the team tournament at Buenos Aires, the event was moulded into a grand success by the well-coordinated effort of the A. C. F. President, George Sturgis, various directors of the federation headed by N. Y. Regional Director Milton L. Hanauer, and Fred Reinfeld, as well as leaders of the chess-playing fraternity.

Twenty-eight entrants, drawn in part from far corners of the Western Hemisphere, assembled. Pinkus, a new face to many, but well known to those whose chess memory reaches back fifteen years, journeyed from British Guiana, while Ulvestad and the fifteen-year-old sensation of the Dominion, Yanofsky, ably represented the far west.

Three former North American titleholders, Fine, Reshevsky and Horowitz fought for a new emblazonment upon the Kirk D. Holland trophy.

Merger of the Federations

The outstanding achievement of the year, and one which is destined to be recorded as a sunlight-white milestone in American chess, was announced at the closing dinner by George Sturgis, A. C. F. President and who is also

SPOT NEWS!

A Bloodless Victory

Dr. Max Euwe won the British Chess Federation Tournament at Bournemouth, England, clinching first place in the last round without risking a solitary move! Scheduled to play his townsman, S. Landau, of Amsterdam, in the final round—a loss would have enabled both Flohr and Klein to share first place—a draw was agreed upon without even the formality or a gesture of conflict.

Who remembers Hastings 1934-35? An Englishman played an Englishman in the last round. Michell versus Sir George Thomas. Thomas could have scored a mighty triumph ... a Hastings victory ahead of Flohr, Euwe, Capablanca, Botwinnik and Lilenthal!! ... all he needed was a draw for a clear first prize.

The game was played. Thomas lost.

Denker Wins New York Title

A hard fought last round draw by Arnold Denker with Albert S. Pinkus in the New York State Championship Tournament enabled him to repeat his title-taking conquest of last year as former Manhattan Chess Club champion, Robert Willman held Isaac Kashdan to a draw in the same crucial round.
QUALIFICATIONS

Soon there will be no American Chess Federation — nor will there be a National Chess Federation!

The terms of a merger have been agreed upon; not a point lingers at issue, and the work of the past few years, which many times has seemed foredoomed to failure, has been guided to successful fruition. All that is lacking is the signatures, already promised, of the two federations' presidents, whereupon from the ashes will rise the United States of America Chess Federation.

M. S. Kuhns, octogenarian president of the N. C. F. is to be President Emeritus of the U. S. of A. C. F., while George Sturgis is to carry on actively as president.

Reshevsky, Ulvestad and Adams all vindicated the judgment of the seeding committee. Reshevsky insured qualifying (if you ever doubted) by beating both Ulvestad and Adams. He loaned his Queen to Bellome in a pretty game, but demanded Bellome's in return, a few moves later. Adams lost to both Ulvestad and Reshevsky, but cleaned up against the field. Only Rauch survived Reshevsky's wiles — with a headily conducted Sicilian. Wolk, it seems, saved his strength for his eventual conquest of Class A.

Fine's score might indicate he qualified the easy way, with a mixture of draws and wins. But his many time-pressure troubles were nerve-singeing. Fine withstood them better than the gallery! Unfortunately, a triple tie for the third qualifying post had to be decided by a coin toss. Yanofsky didn't let his poor showing as a coin-tosser mar his fine triumph at chess in the Consolations.

Horowitz made no effort to exact full penalties, taking three draws, four wins and a certain share of first place in easy stride. Jaffe lost to Kiteles, drew quickly with Horowitz, but won the rest. The Canadian, Kiteles, played well against Horowitz; he even beat both Jaffe and Green! — and didn't qualify! Neckerman and Fulop were the stumbling blocks.

Another orchid for the seeding committee as Pinkus, Santasiere and Blumin take the top three rungs. Suesman barely missed the "S. S. Finals" anything but two losses to Blumin and Pinkus might have placed him aboard.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP FINALS

Reuben Fine had one tremendous advantage over other aspirants, and his win of the North American championship was due entirely to this fortuitous, but not unique "break" in the schedule. Reuben Fine did not have to play Reuben Fine! Everybody else did. If his form and time-gauging were uncertain in the preliminaries, his superlative play in the finals banished all memory of it, for he scored the "money games" with sureness and regularity. His middle-of-the-road tactics evidenced a ready willingness to cope with the "pet openings" of his adversaries, all of which he left in crumpled heaps along the road to the title. Notable wrecks along the way were Adams' favorite Albin Counter, Horowitz and Tarrasch, Inc., an English Opening where Seidman traded his QBP for the useful QP unavailingy, and Ulvestad's elastic Stonewall. Fine also won the title in 1932, 1933, 1935 and shared it with Reshevsky in 1934.

Reshevsky drew with Fine, but with Pinkus, too, which inspired his bemoaning, "Nowadays, it seems, if you draw twice, you can't win a tournament." Reshevsky's anxious moments were an abundant sunrise-to-sunset clockful. Although he was in enough "hot water" to bathe the residents of Newcastle and Wilkes-Barre, one must generously applaud the coolness, skill and ingenuity with which the American champion so often extricated himself from denouements—but justly recognize that only liberal co-operation by Pinkus and Adams, the latter's requiring a heavy veil of charitable excuse, rescued Reshevsky from two outright losses.

Horowitz took third prize, scoring eight of nine points against the field exclusive of Fine and Reshevsky, to each of whom he lost in exciting, hairbreadth finishes. Pinkus made an auspicious re-entry into top-flight tourney play after an absence of many years. Santasiere and Seidman graced the prize-winners' circle after highly creditable performances, the former being quite recovered from his indisposition of Ventnor City.

Yanofsky, talented fifteen-year-old Canadian and the youngest entrant of all, won the Consolations with something to spare, not to mention much personal popularity won with his wide and spontaneous smile. He drew his opening game preliminary game with Fine!

Wolk took the Class A title, nosing out Garfinkel by compiling five wins against the field, after losing the individual game to Garfinkel, his chief rival.

After 3 ... Pxp; 4 KtxP, P-KKt4; 5 Kt-K5, the issue resolves itself into a contest to maintain the center against direct and wing threats.

4 B-Kt2 B-Kt3
5 0-0 B-K2
6 P-B4 P-Kt5

A commentary on the evil of rote! Intent on the speculative "Tarrasch", Black neglects a line of play offering better prospects: 6 ... QPxp; 7 Q-K4, B-Q2; 8 QxpB, Q-Kt3!

7 PxQP KPxP
8 Kt-B3 O-O
9 Pxp P-Q5
10 Kt-Kt4 B-B4
11 B-B4 ...

As previously played by Alatortzef-Fine. The underlying idea of the move becomes apparent as the game progresses.

11 ... Kt-K5
12 P-QKt4 B-B3

The game referred to continued 12 ... Kt-Kt5; 13 KtxP, B-Kt3. Black was unable to recover the pawn or obtain sufficient compensation.

13 P-Kt5 Kt-K2
14 B-K5 ... The point of White's 11th move.

14 ... BxB
15 KtxB Q-Kt4

If 15 ... Q-B2; not 16 Qxp?, KR-Kt1 nets a piece, but 16 KtxKt3 and White maintains his pawn plus.

16 Kt-Q3 QR-K1
17 Q-B1 ...

Sharper is 17 Q-B2, which threatens to gain a piece by 18 P-Kt4 and 19 Kt-B4.

17 ... Q-Kt1

Releasing the pin, and exiting from a square which might be better occupied by the Kt.

18 R-Kt1 KR-Kt1

For pressure against White's backward KP. This, in a measure, compensates for Black's pawn minus.

19 Q-Kt2 Kt-K4 ...

Thinking to prevent ... Kt-Q5.

19 ... Kt-Q4

For the QP may not be captured: 20 Qxp?, Kt(Kt4)-B6; 21 Kt-Q4, KtxKt!; 22 QxKt(Kt4), Kt-B6, followed by ... KtxKt1, etc.

20 QR-B1 B-B6

Attempting to penetrate the invulnerable Kt position. 20 ... Kt(Kt4)-B6, exerting more pressure on the KP was in order: 21 KtxKt!, KtxKt; 22 Kt-B4, Q-B5.

Of course, the QP is still immune to capture: 21 Qxp, BxB; 22 KxB, Kt(Kt4)-B6; 23 Q-Kt4, KtxRP wins the exchange. Or if 21 BxB, QxB; 22 Qxp, Kt(Kt4)-B3 (not ... Kt-B5; KtxKt!); followed by 23 ... Kt-Kt5!

21 B-R1 Q-B4

Again expending effort to get at the K, who, nevertheless, remains safely ensconced.

22 P-B6 ...
The extra pawn! White correctly ignores the QP for the third successive time: 22 Qxp, Kt(Kt4)-B6; 23 Q-B4, RxKt! wins.

22 ... Pxp
23 Pxp Kt(Kt5)-B6

To blockade the P with 23 ... Kt-B2 would be a tacit admission of defeat, at least insular as Black's plans are concerned. Nevertheless, a stouter resistance might have been offered with that move.

24 KtxKt KtxKt
25 KL-B4 B-Kt5
26 P-K3!

Accurate and delicate calculation which banishes the last vestige of counter-play on the KP.

26 ... Q-Kt4
27 Pxp Kt-Q8

No better is 27 ... RxRch; 28 RxR, Kt-Q8, for now if 29 P-B7, R-QB1; 30 RxKt, PxKt (if ... BxR; Kt-Q5 wins); 31 P-B8 wins.

The Women's Championship, splendidly fought as it was, failed to yield a clear verdict. A triple tie was brought about between Miss Karff, defending champion, Mrs. Bain and Dr. Weissenstein, when Mrs. McCready, playing in excellent style, emerged with a draw from a gruelling, double-session, last round battle against the champion, Miss Karff.

The Women's Championship Tournament, which will be run concurrently with the International Team Matches at Buenos Aires, necessitated postponement of the play-offs until fall.
A devastating bolt from the blue disturbs the peaceful eventide.

RETI-ZUKERTORT OPENING
(Notes by I. A. Horowitz)

I. A. Horowitz  S. Reshevsky
White  Black
1 Kt-KB3  Kt-KB3
2 P-QB4  P-KKt3
3 P-KKt3  B-Kt2
4 B-Kt2  0·0
5 0-0  P-Q4

Playable alternative formations were 5... P-Q3 to be followed by the eventual ... P-K4, or the symmetrical ... P-QB4.

The text move steers the future course of the game into truly hypermodern channels: it provokes the advance of the center pawns, with the object of subjecting them to attack.

6 PxP  KtxP
7 P-Q4  Kt-R3
8 P-K4

Inveigled! The defense of the center pawns will soon prove a source of annoyance.

9... Kt-Kt3
9 Kt-B3
10... Kt-B6; 11 Q-Kt3, KtxB; 12 PxKt, leaves Black with the advantage of the two bishops, but with a cramped Q side.

11 Kt-K2

To permit the Q freedom of action, which at present is limited to guarding the QP. The retreat indicates that Black is gaining ground.

11... QR-B1

Now however, 11... Kt-B5 to be followed by ... KtxB and ... P-QB4 seems to be more forceful. Black has little trouble defending the QKtP.

12 Q-B2  P-QB4!
13 PxP  Kt-R5
14 KR-Q1  Q-K1
15 B-Q4

The exchange of bishops or the advance of the KP will relieve the pressure on the diagonal.

There is no particular benefit to be derived from the open file with 16 RxKt.

17... B-Q2 (threatening 18... B-R5; 19 P-Kt4 leaves White with a problem of defense. After 18 Q-K2, P-K4; 19 Kt-B2, Kt-Q5; 20 Q-Kt5, Kt-R5! White cannot avoid the loss of material.

After the exchange, White achieves equality.

18 KtxB  Q-Kt4
19 Kt-Q4  Q-Kt3
20 Q-K2  Kt-Kt5!

Initiating interesting complications.

22 P-R3  Kt(Kt5)-Q6
23 P-QKt4  Kt-R5!!

If instead 23... RxKt; 24 PxKt and Black is tied up.

24 RxKt

Not 24 QxKt, Kt-K17; 25 Q-Q2, KtxR; 26 RxKt, R-Q2 (or... R-B2) and White is helplessly pinned.

24... RxR
25 QxR

Or 25 QR-Q1, Kt-B6; 26 Q-K3.

25... R-K1

Not 26 R-Q1, Kt-B6!

26... P-Kt3

Allowing White an opportunity. 26... Kt-B6 was indicated.

27... Q-R57

27 P-K6 would have turned the tide in White's favor: e.g., 27... P-B4; 28 Q-Kt5, threatening Q-Q7, against which there is no valid defense. Or 27... Q-B3; 28 Q-Q5!

Best for Black would be 27... R-B1, in which case the least that would accrue to White would be an isolated and weak KP in the adversary's ranks.

27... QxKt?!  P-B7
28 R-KB1  Kt-B6
29 QxKtP??

29 B-B3 would still hold the position. Now comes a catastrophe.

Reshevsky plays the opening a bit inaccurately. Pinkus finds a neat combination to obtain the advantage, but he misses the "clincher" and the ending is quite peaceful.

The club operated by Ned Goldschmidt in Great Northern Hotel last season has reopened as the New York Chess Club. Originally in London Terrace, the club has been in existence five years. The new quarters comprise two spacious playing rooms and sitting room, handsomely furnished with antiques, and are located in The Rembrandt next to Carnegie Hall. The club is popular with average players. Visitors are always welcome.
Chess players of the Soviet Union devote much time and energy to the study and development of opening theory. Research in this field is conducted in the USSR not only by masters, but also by many young players who have achieved a high quality of performance.

The present article depicts two opening continuations of considerable theoretical interest, which have been contributed for our readers by the prominent Russian master, Mikhail Yudovich.

Considerable attention is aroused in connection with one of the well-known variations of the Orthodox Defense to the Queen's Gambit which results after the following introductory moves.

\begin{align*}
1 & \text{P-Q4} & 13 & \text{BxP ch!} & \text{White} \\
2 & \text{P-QB4} & 14 & \text{BxP ch!} & \text{Black} \\
3 & \text{Kt-QB3} & 15 & \text{R_Kt1} & \text{White} \\
4 & \text{B-Kt5} & 16 & \text{Kt-Kt4} & \text{Black} \\
5 & \text{P-KR3} & 17 & \text{Kt-Q5} & \text{White} \\
6 & \text{Kt-B3} & 18 & \text{RPxQ} & \text{Black} \\
7 & \text{R-B3} & 19 & \text{RxQ} & \text{White} \\
8 & \text{B-Q3} & 20 & \text{BxP} & \text{Black} \\ \end{align*}

The following position is thereupon reached.

Levenfish defeated Riomin in the Moscow International Tournament in 1936 by playing here 16 Kt-Kt5! and then, in answer to 16 ... Q-Kt5; sacrificing his Knight by capturing the Pawn on KB7.

Dr. Alekhine recommends in this position (after 16 Kt-Kt5) the move 16 ... B-Kt5, with the idea of transferring the Bishop to KB5 for the defense of the K side.

Two first category players of Voronezh, Kopayev and Chistakov, have suggested in reply to 16 B-Kt5 an interesting attack of a combinative character. The attack begins with 17 R-KKt1!!

The following variations are possible:

(A) 17 ... B-R4

18 R-KR3 B-Kt3

19 QxB!! ...

(B) 17 ...

18 R-KR3 P-KR3

19 RxB P-Kt...
The following position has been reached.

Black

9 BxKt!! . . . .

White

A real teaser! Assume Black accepts the challenge.

9 . . . . . . . BxKtch
10 PxB QxPch
11 K-K1 . . . . .

Not 11 Q-Q3 because of the exchange of Queens. Paradoxically, acceptance of the opportunity to gain two rooks would only immolate White upon the altar of another "immortal" game. The text yields White a powerful attack, e.g.,

11 . . . . . . . . . . . . . QxBch
12 K-Kt1 . . . . . . . . . .

White is safe—but Black is menaced by 13 R-B1, and even if 12 . . . O-O; a dangerous attack against Black's K is initiated by 12 Q-Kt1.

Simagin's discovery was used with crushing effect in the game between Kotov and Yudovich (see The Chess Review—June, 1939) in the eleventh tournament for the championship of the USSR in Leningrad this year. It appears that Black must refrain from playing 8 . . . Q-R4 and instead, continue his development with 8 . . . QKt-Q2. Only after 9 O-O, BxKt!; 10 PxB, is it possible to resort to the Sally of 10 . . . Q-R4, for White can no longer disrupt Black's position on the K side.

ARGENTINE TEAM TOURNAMENT

The entries of some forty countries for the International Team Championships were received at Buenos Aires by the Argentine Chess Federation. However, there were some cancelations where countries were unable to adjust themselves to the month's postponement enforced by financial difficulties. The S. S. Piriaopolis left Antwerp July 29th with many of the European teams, and the Canadian team sailed on the S. S. Argentine from New York, July 28th. It appears that about thirty countries will enter the fray, with the two outstanding absentees being the United States and Russia.

1. THE OPENINGS

We have learned that many readers—especially members of newly formed chess clubs—would welcome more elementary fare than we usually give.

Hence our new series, "First Steps." As far as possible, each month's article will be complete in itself. We begin with the openings. This is not the logical subject with which to begin, but it is what beginners always seem to be most worried about. Our remarks will be useful to average players as well.

We will assume that readers are familiar with chess notation. Those who are not, can doubtless obtain the needed information.

Notice should be given to the following signs and their meanings.

!—Best
!!—Best and very fine (or spectacular)
?—Neutral
??—A bad blunder
!!!—Quite unsound, but dblashing

OPENING PLAY: INTRODUCTORY

The first thing to do is to look up any book on the openings that you possess, and lose the key!

Even moves and principles explained in great detail are of little use to a player who is below average strength. After he has studied this article, such explanations, we trust, will be easily grasped.

The following simple rules, together with those given later, will enable you to play the openings at grade A club strength. Follow these rules until you have brought your middle-game and end-game up to the same strength.

DEVELOPMENT

The main aim in the opening is to get all your pieces into working order, i.e., developed.

The moves of the minor pieces and the Queen have a double purpose: (1) to get these pieces into play themselves; (2) to clear the back line for the Rooks. The player who completes development first has an advantage, because he has the right to take the initiative; and the player with the initiative has the easier game.

Development is complete when the Rooks are connected on the back rank, i.e., have nothing between them, and at least one rook is on an effective file, but both rooks if there are two effective files. By that time the other pieces will obviously have been moved out, too.

It is therefore well to get each piece out in one move, so that you can clear the back line in as few moves as possible. It is practically never good to move a piece twice, unless to save it from capture. When bringing each piece out, try to put it on the square on which the piece itself is likely to be most effective, and will impede the rest of your army least.

The Bishops are the pieces which require most thought, because they have more choice than Knights; Knights should generally come out before Bishops, simply because it is easier to decide early which are their best squares. The usual order is, first a Knight, then the KB, then the other Kt; then K-side casting, or the other B, or the Q, according to circumstances.

THE CENTER

There is a second aim in the openings: to get a good share of the center squares.

The center is tremendously important, especially the four squares in the very center of the board. The two middle squares on each Bishop file are also valuable, i.e., QB4, QB5, KB4, KB5. There is great virtue in moving a center pawn (KP or QP) two squares, for it commands one of the enemy's center squares, and his adjoining Bishop-file square, too. Also, by clearing the squares behind it for use by pieces, it enables its own army to command those squares, as well as the square on which it stands. Compare the feebleness of a pawn on the third rank.

Make it an invariable rule, whether you are White or Black, to move either the KP, QP, or QBP two squares on the first move. This gives Black three choices if White starts with 1 P-K4, but only one if White starts with 1 P-Q4.

Don't move the KBP early, for it exposes the King, and unlike P.QB4 (which makes a possible avenue for the Queen) does not help to develop anything.

Whichever of these three pawns you move first, keep the option of moving the pawn next door to it (on any of the four central files) two squares also, although you may not actually do it for a long time. In any game in which P.K4 is not played early, you will generally find that the two pawns you must reckon on getting out two squares are the QP and QBP. This gives the rule: Where you don't play P.K4 early, never block your QBP.

It is because 1 Kt-QB3 breaks this rule right at the start that it is an inferior opening.

WHICH PAWNS TO MOVE

Which pawns should we move in the opening? The nursery advice is, "only the KP and the QP." The proper rule is: if you start with P.K4, then only the KP and QP; but if you don't, then the QBP is also a good pawn to move, for the purpose of helping to control the center. Also, if you don't move the KP early at all, you may play P.KKt3, to develop your KB in fianchetto, and similarly, if you don't move the QP, you can fianchetto the QB.

Don't fianchetto a Bishop if an avenue is already open to it.

Sometimes it is all right to break this rule, but it is never wrong to follow it! Therefore, always follow it.

As for the other pawns, the general rule is not to move any of them until development is complete. The following may be exceptions. When it becomes impossible to play P.Q4 and you have played P.K4, keep the option of P.KB4—and play it whenever you think the time is fitting.

When you have a Bishop at QB4, and the opponent plays P.QR3 to hit the Bishop with P.QKt4—foil him by P.QR4. This loses a move—a "tempo"—in development, but the enemy has equally lost a "tempo" with P.QR3.

When a piece has come down to Kt5, on either side—you can ask it to move with P.R3. Do not play P.R3 to stop its going there; that gives up a move for nothing at all.

The only pawn moves that help to open the files for Rooks are two-square pawn moves, and inasmuch as the Rooks are usually most effective on center or B files, this truism adds to the virtues of 1 P.K4, P.Q4, and P.QB4.

It is often possible for you, especially when White, to play both P.K4 and P.Q4. But when this is not possible, you will find it necessary to move either the KP or QP only one square. In such a case, don't let a Bishop be shut in thereby, but first play the Bishop out to B4 or Kt5, unless there is some tangible objection. A very good opening system is that of the Giuoco Piano, which begins with 1 P.K4, 2 Kt-KB3, 3 B.QB4, and 4 P.Q3. Note that White has developed his KB before playing P.Q3. White can also, however, play 3 P.Q4 (the Scotch Game) which frees him from all restrictions.

UTAH TITLE TOURNAP

The 1939 championship of Salt Lake City has been won by Richards Durham, who out-scored ten competitors in a close race. Only a half-point behind Durham's total score of 9—1 were Irvin W. Taylor and Dale L. Morgan, each with 8½—1½.

Defending champions seem to be anybody's prey when the Salt Lake title quest is on—not one having been able to repeat in the past five years. All five champions have competed in all five tournaments—and five different champions have been crowned! Fourth and fifth places this year went to L. N. Page and H. A. Dittman.

Dale L. Morgan, secretary of the Utah Chess Federation, was eligible for the Ogden city championship in which he also played while competing at Salt Lake City. Morgan won twelve straight games to clinch the title in decisive style. Ray Kooymen, defending champion, was the runner-up.

The Utah Chess Federation Congress occurs at Salt Lake City over the Labor Day Holidays, play in three sections being carded for September 2, 3, and 4.

JERSEY CITY TITLE

Norman Malzberg retained his Jersey City Chess Club Championship this year, by winning the 1939 club tournament which concluded last month. Malzberg out-ran P. Pozarek in a neck-and-neck home-stretch finish, after Pozarek had amassed 9½ points in his first ten games. Malzberg's victory marked his fourth club championship triumph in five years.

SOUTHERN CONCLAVE

The Southern Chess Association Championship held July 1—5 at Atlanta, Georgia has been won by the Miami Beach collegian, Gustave Littman. Littman, who last year was runner-up in his first attempt to take the title, topped the three other finalists, W. N. Woodbury, 1939 winner, Walter Muir, strong up-state New Yorker, and the genial W. M. P. Mitchell, who is likely to appear on the scene at any tourney, even if it occurs in Europe.

MASSACHUSETTS OUTING

The annual outing of the Massachusetts State Chess Association attracted over one hundred chess players, their wives and friends to the Deerfield academy grounds July 25th. A thirty-three board match between the East and West of Massachusetts failed to go West by a score of 22-11. Charles S. Jacobs of Boston gave a ten-board simultaneous exhibition, winning seven, losing two, and drawing one. Refreshments, croquet, Kriegspiel and four-handed chess proved to be the extracurricular attractions—all contributing to a gala day due to the efforts of Frank Boyden, Headmaster of Deerfield academy, Major Harold Flower, president of the Western Mass. Chess League, and many of the officers and local leaders throughout the state.

MARSHALL PLAYS 63rd ROUND!

Popular Frank J. Marshall, Uniter States Chess Champion Emeritus, celebrated his sixty-second birthday August 10th. On Tuesday of the same week an eighteen board intra-club match was staged, the two teams being captained by Marshall and Prince Obolensky. The Prince picked only four losers, and led his team to a 12-6 win.

HUDSON RIVER RIVALS

So keen is the rivalry between Schenectady and Albany that when these two cities confront each other, “down by the river” in a chess match, the heralds summon into action an array of talent that is drawn from the far corners of the earth.

Walter Muir, just back from Atlanta, where he took a crack at the Southern title, led the Schenectady team of ten. Muir’s eight-state journey to the scene of the match at Albany was no stroll through the park, but was a mere hop, skip and a jump compared to that of his opponent, Max Pavey. Pavey is in the U. S. for the summer, having just returned from Scotland where he won the Scottish National championship.

Schenectady tied the match at 6-5 despite the fact that the Albany aggregation was reinforced by strong former New York City experts whose business now places them in the Capital District chess activities.

MODERN CHESS OPENINGS
Revised by Reuben Fine  $2.50

A boon to posterity, and a monument to the past, the new edition yields a weight of authority unequaled by any past work on the openings.

It is more complete than ever, more modern and more dependable—withal, much easier to use because the potential prospects of every column of analysis and example of master opening play have been kindly appraised. Inaccuracies of past play have been laid bare; improved lines of play have given new life and virility to some openings, whereas others, for a long while believed quite sound, have been shown inferior in the light of present day knowledge.

Over four hundred named variations are indexed! Best play is analyzed, and in every case terminates with plus or minus or equality—dexed! Best play is analyzed, and in every case the subscriber only pays about one-half cent a game for eminently fine chess reporting. To pay for the book of each tournament presented in full by the Archives, would cost at least double the subscription price.

Chess Archives offers in subsequent issues the complete score of the 1939 U. S. S. R. championship, won by Botwinnik, and a voluminous selection from the Buenos Aires team competition. The publication merits the support of every chess player who seeks the latest and best data.

Congratulations to Harlow B. Daly on his fourth successful Ladder climb and to Simon Costikyan, who wins the quarterly three-move prize with his fine consecutive-Interference study, No. 1386.
I have finished judging the entries in the Fifth International Miniature Tourney, and take pleasure in presenting my report. These annual contests, which draw support from composers of many nations, owe their success to the industry and generosity of our former Problem Editor, Mr. R. Cheney. In quantity and general quality, the entries are about equal to last year's, though I think that the prize-winners are somewhat superior. It is becoming increasingly difficult to achieve any sort of originality in problems arbitrarily limited to seven pieces or less. The field has been explored almost to exhaustion. It was my harsh duty to disqualify several of the best entries because they were virtually identical with previous work. (One of them, to my pleasant surprise, was a duplicate of a problem I had composed and published four years ago!) But miniatures will never lose their charm for the solver, and as long as composers keep experimenting with them, there will be opportunities for breaking new ground. The three- and four-move prize-winners demonstrate this amply.

As is customary in tourney-judging, the entries were submitted on special diagrams, with the composers' names omitted, so that their merits could be passed upon impartially. When the award was made up, and I learned the names of the successful contributors, I was very much disappointed to see how poorly we Americans had tared. Let's try to do better next time!

I have done my best to test the honored problems, but since everyone, including myself, knows that I'm far from infallible, prizes will not be awarded for two months, to allow claims of cooks or anticipations.

SECTION I—Three-movers

PRIZE: No. 1420. A splendid strategic problem, showing a familiar two-move self-block idea raised to three-move form. The extension here is quite legitimate because of the interesting Black play that is added and because of several tasty variations that are quietly introduced. Aside from the surprising main-play, there is an excellent self-block with long Queene mate after 1... Bb6. The key is adequate and cooks are cleverly avoided.

FIRST HONORABLE MENTION ex aequo: Nos. 1421 and 1422. It is hard to choose between these two. No. 1421 has familiar play after the Black King moves, but the pretty echo blocks after 1... Pd5 and 1... Pd5 are a touch of novelty. The key is excellent and 1 Sc6 is a devastating try. No. 1422 has a puzzling key which sets the stage for a nearly-pure mate after an elegant quiet sacrifice. The secondary variation leads to a pretty model of quite different character. The construction shows care and considerable polish.

SECOND HONORABLE MENTION: No. 1423. A King-in-the-corner setting of somewhat familiar character, with a first-rate key, a far-roaming Queen, and none-too-obvious quiet variations.

THIRD HONORABLE MENTION: R. J. Bermudez.

FOURTH HONORABLE MENTION: Dr. P. G. Keeney.

COMMENDED: John Hannus, Fr. Paboucek, A. Karistrum, Dr. G. Dobbs, Dr. W. Massman.

SECTION II—Four-movers

PRIZE: No. 1424. A fine complete four-move echo idea consisting of battery discovery followed by quiet third moves and parallel mates. The play is controlled by moves of either Black Pawn toward promotion squares, one of the piquant features being the Black King's moving to the line gt-ag7 and thus blocking a potential check. There is a third quiet variation with semi-thematic mates. The key is poor, but all one could hope for in such a difficult set task.

FIRST HONORABLE MENTION: No. 1425. The Black King is allowed to wander widely, producing a number of unexpected mates, the best being the echoes with K at el and a6. A pretty mating-net problem.

SECOND HONORABLE MENTION: No. 1426. Partial grab of the Black Knight, with an excellent key that sets up a clear-cut ambush followed by switchback.

THIRD HONORABLE MENTION: Maxwell Bukofzer.

FOURTH HONORABLE MENTION: Maxwell Bukofzer.

COMMENDED: F. Palatz and E. Schutte, Maxwell Bukofzer (2).

SECTION III—Problems showing the Indian theme.

Here the entry was disappointingly small. A number of the problems submitted had to be shifted to the other sections because they did not show the complete Indian theme, which consists of (a) withdrawal of a White piece to create an ambush after (b) a stalemate has been created; and (c) unmasking of the ambush.

PRIZE: No. 1427. The best of the entries, though its Indian feature is not clearly emphasized. The White Knight maneuvers cleverly to produce dissimilar mate-situations.

FIRST HONORABLE MENTION: No. 1428. A good compression of a familiar Indian scheme, with an added non-thematic variation.

SECOND HONORABLE MENTION: E. P. Valcins.

The Honorable Mentions and Commended problems in these tourneys will appear in next month's Review.

These Problems are not Scored in the Ladder Competition

The contests are open to all composers residing in North America. Entries should be sent to the problem editor of the C. C. L. A. Bulletin, Messrs. L. and M. Hochberg, 286 East 174th Street, the Bronx, New York City, who reserve the right to print all problems submitted in that publication. Be sure to send your contributions before Dec. 31st next.

 For this month’s Quoted Section, Mr. Burney Marshall has kindly sent us a selection of his best work. Mr. Marshall was born in 1886 and began solving problems at the precocious age of eight. His first composition was published in Nov. 1897, and was so well received that others soon followed. His composing activity spans a period of more than forty years, during which he has produced more than five hundred problems.

Mr. Marshall is a two-move specialist. He likes complex play, unusual key moves, novel variations. Often he builds a problem around one highly-strategic line, such as the pin-unpin effect of No. 1435. But he has the knack of introducing rich subsidiary play, and a Marshall problem is generally full of variations (No. 1431, for example). His liking for unusual effects often shows itself in his key-moves, such as that of No. 1436, a famous problem in its day, and in the very recent No. 1437. From the early half-pinler, No. 1429, to the modern Gavrilov, No. 1436, Mr. Marshall demonstrates his continual interest in popular complex themes.

International Team Tournament

The German chess team turned out to be the Abou Ben Adhem of the International Team Tournament at Buenos Aires...its name led all the rest...but, and sadly—for the fine players of the twenty-seven nations assembled there ("may their tribe increase"), the swift-moving cataclysms of modern intrigue, propaganda and violence which far away were vented upon the world during those same fateful days, and chaotically engulfed many of their native lands, were cruelly designed to bless them with an awakening from any "dream of peace".

President Ortiz of Argentina, surrounded by his cabinet and diplomatic corps, formally opened The Tournament of the Nations in the Politeama Theatre on August 23rd, after a speech of welcome by the Mayor of Buenos Aires.

The entrants were then seeded into four sections and actual play commenced August 24th. The groupings and preliminary scores follow. The top four teams in each section were advanced into the Hamilton-Russell Trophy finals. The balance of the field competed for the "Argentine Cup", donated by President Ortiz of Argentina.

Coincidentally, the cup finals of the Tournament of the Nations with its mimic struggle of the chess strategists, moved into action September 1st—the same day upon which was enacted the opening drama of the stern and more vicious European conflict.

Possession of the trophy was in doubt until the last game of the last round was finished! Eliskases, former Viennese, added the crucial half-point by drawing a six-hour duel with Van Scheltinga of Holland. Poland, a half-point behind, placed second.

Shrapnel Bits

One scans the reports from Buenos Aires with the growing realization that the hopes, fears and sympathies of the chess masters mirrored the intransigent emotions of restless European homelands.

Cabled messages speculated upon the contribution which the outbreak of war made to the German victory, and noted the strength-sapping effect of reports of the invasion of Poland upon masters like Tartakower, Najdorf and Reshevsky, the latter without word of the fate of his wife and children in besieged Lodz.

FINE VERSUS RESHEVSKY

Efforts are now being made to raise a purse for a meeting between Reuben Fine, present holder of the North American Open Championship, and his arch-rival, Samuel Reshevsky, present United States champion.

Plans call for a sixteen-game match—the purse to be divided 60:40.

Contributors will receive a souvenir book of the match and admission to all games, which will be contested in various clubs which support the match fund.

England, having qualified for the Hamilton-Russell finals, was unable to finish, as Sir George Thomas, Milner-Barry and Alexander were obliged to return home following war declarations September 3rd.

France and Poland versus Germany and Bohemia-Moravia were irreconcilable on both hemispheres, with the result that their individual match scores were halved without play.

197
An unconfirmed report tells of France willingly conceding to Poland all four points of their match, during the critical final stages, in the hope that this mutual-assistance pact would enable Poland to overtake Germany.

When the standing of the teams was read on the final day, announcement of the German victory was perfunctorily applauded by the crowd—while Poland's win of second place was wildly cheered!

The German embassy staff, who accompanied their team, applauded the name of every nation except Poland and France!

President Augusto de Muro of the Argentine Chess Federation is now the president of the F. I. D. E. (International Chess Federation), headquarters of which will be transferred to Argentina.

Capablanca won a gold medal for his record of six wins and five draws without a defeat in the finals. Alekhine played one game less, posted an individual average of 75% against Capa's 77%, and ranked second-best point-getter of the event.

Cuba presented a Capablanca-less line-up for their match with France, and so no Alekhine versus Capa game resulted. Capablanca wants a return match for the world title, but Alekhine must soon assume war duties for France.

The Hamilton-Russell Trophy which was awarded to the German Chess Federation, was delivered to the German charge d'affaires at Buenos Aires.

At a "concentration" camp!

The return trip home for the players of Bolivia, Chile, Ecuador, Guatemala and Peru, via the International Trans-Andes Railway may include a few looks over mile-high precipices, or even a few hungry condors, but it still won't pack the thrills some of the others will get aboard the Belgian S. S. Copacabana en route to Antwerp peering for periscopes.

The steamship company was reluctant to carry the French players, fearing to increase danger from U.Boats, but finally relented because the German quintet were also to be passengers.

The Polish team will remain in Argentina—marooned where they labored for Caissa, in a strange, if friendly land—wondering if Home will ever be Home again. Some other Europeans are also to stay.
HOW THEY DID IT IN BUENOS AIRES

(1) ALEKHINE (France) records a move by ZWETKOFF (Bulgaria). (2) Argentina's champion, ROBERTO GRAU. (3) VERA MENCHIK STEPHENSON, Woman champion of the world. (4) The Women's Tournament attracts a large gallery. (5) CARLOS E. GUIMARD, former Argentine champion. (6) CZERNIAK (Palestine) has White against Cuba's CAPABLANCA. (7) RUTH BLOCH NAKKERUD, woman champion of Norway ponders. (8) DORA TREPAT, Argentina's woman champion, thinks it over as SONJA GRAF puffs a cigarette. (9) MARIA BEREA of Argentina. (10) ERICH ELISKASES, top board of the winning German team (but he's Austrian). (11) PETROV (Latvia) concentrates as ALEKHINE looks on.
ARGENTINE CUP PLAY

Canada set a hot pace for ten rounds, due largely to 15-year-old Abie Yanofsky's magnificent 8½ points in nine games, but were cooled off in the eleventh and final round by Iceland. The 2½-11½ defeat in this critical match cost our friendly neighbor the one-point lead which they had carried into the final round, and enabled Iceland to tie. Under the rules of play, ties were broken by awards to the team which had won most matches or the individual match, and Iceland thus earned possession of the Argentine Cup.

Yanofsky again came through with a win, boosting his individual average to 95%! But even this excellent mark was only good for second place in the individual rankings. Jon Gudmundsson of Iceland played every round and won every game—and we call that a straight ticket for Iceland.

WOMAN CHAMPION RETAINS TITLE

The women's championship tournament, which was run concurrently with the International Team Tournament, produced one more bit of evidence (if one more is needed), that Mrs. Vera Menchik Stephenson is still Queen of that Realm. Nineteen rounds without a defeat and her final 18-1 score doesn't miss first prize often. It didn't.

Sonja Graf, formerly of Germany, but now mentioned as a free agent who will probably return to England, further cemented her position as second ranking woman, which she established in her 1937 world title match with the champion by compiling 4½ points while losing 11½-4½.

The Chilean senorita, Berna Carrasco broke into her first international meet with an amazing 15½-3½. Miss N. May Karff kept the United States in the top five with a good score, missing fourth place only through an unfortunate loss to Friedl Rinder of Germany. Twenty-year-old and blonde Milda Lauberte of Latvia, one of the more promising finds of the Stockholm gathering of '37 placed sixth this year.

Montevideo, Uruguay, is currently the scene of a tournament which was arranged upon the conclusion of the International Team Tournament by the British Minister, Millington Drake. Dr. Alekhine and Vera Menchik Stephenson (all the world champions of chess, no less) plus the Englishmen, Golombek and Wood, and a coterie of Uruguayans comprise the field. The proceeds go to the British Red Cross.

Black's aggressiveness here can scarcely be vindicated by later developments. With his QP already weak, he now adds to his defensive problems by making an open-file target of his QKtP. 36 . . . Kt-Kt3; 37 Q-Kt5, B-Kt3; 38 Q-Kt3, P-QKt3 offers a solid defense with prospects on the QB file. Here 29 R-R6 (threatening 30 BxP) is met by Kt-B3!

27 PnP | RxP |
28 Q-Kt5 | RXP |
29 QxQ | Q-QB3 |
30 Q-R3 | Kt-Kt3 |

This costs a pawn. Better was 32 . . . R-Kt2, for after 33 BxQ, QxB!; 34 KtXP, B-B3; to be followed by . . . Q-K5. White is cut on the bias.

In this variation trickery via 35 P-B4 is frustrating . . . Q-K5 (not however, 35 . . . PnP; 36 QxR!, BxQ; 37 Kt-Kt7ch).

33 Q-Kt3 | B-K3 |
34 K-B2 | P-Kt5 |
35 PnP | Q-Kt3 |
36 Q-Kt2 | Qt-Q2 |
37 Kt-P5 | P-B3 |
38 QnP | Kt-Kt4 |

Safer than 43 KtXP for the reply . . . Q-K8 leaves the White king position too well ventilated for comfort. 43 . . . QxPch; 44 QxQ, Kt-B6ch, etc., would simply lead Black to an unhappy ending.

43 . . .
44 R-B1
45 P-R4
46 B-Kt1

The game is to be saved only if the White K can be prodded into prominence. Black cannot be optimistic enough to expect 47 PnP, KtxPch; 48 Kt-Kt3, Kt-B4ch; 49 KxB?, Q-Kt5ch; 50 K-QB, Q-Kt6 mate, but even after 47 PnP, KtxPch; 48 K-K1, BxB; 49 QxQ, QxQP White must proceed carefully.

47 BxKt | RxP |

Also leading to a lost ending is 47 . . . BxB; 48 RxB, RQxP; because of 49 Q-QB2, B-Q4; 50 Kt-K5! After 50 . . . QxP White mates in three, while if 50 . . . Kt-QB3, Kt-Q3, RxQ; 51 B-QB2, B-Kt5; 52 P-Kt1, R-Kt1 White brings his K to the center and wins the ending.

48 BxB | RxP |
49 Q-Kt1 | Q-Kt3 |
50 P-Kt1 | Q-Kt4 |
51 QxQP | R-B2 |

WISCONSIN VS. ILLINOIS

Two hundred chess players with their families and friends assembled August 27 at Grant Park in South Milwaukee, located on a high bluff overlooking Lake Michigan, to enjoy a day of picnicking, chess and sports. The event, arranged with the help of local leaders in both states and Dorothy Enders and Ernest Olle of the Milwaukee Department of Municipal Recreation was a grand success.

High spots of the day were the forming of the Wisconsin State Chess Association, and a mammoth thirty-nine (count 'em!) board inter-state team match between Wisconsin and Illinois. The match was dedicated to the memory of Charles Hugh Leach, who until his death last year, was an ardent worker for chess throughout the Mid-West.

Officers of the newly-formed W. S. C. A. were elected as follows: President, Glen Random of Green Bay; Vice-President, H. L. Atee of LaCrosse; Secretary-Treasurer, Joseph L. Alcorn of Racine; Tournament Director, J. V. Reinhardt of Stevens Point; Director of Publicity and Promotion, Fritz Rathmann of Lake Michigan.

TEXAS CHAMPIONSHIP

The 1939 Texas Chess Championship Tournament, played in Houston over the Labor Day week-end, was won by O. W. Manney of Tucson, Arizona, with the excellent score of 8½-½. Manney, formerly of El Paso, won the first Texas championship sponsored by the state association in 1935, and although now a resident of Arizona, the Texas chess fraternity has never relinquished its claim upon him. Edgar Hartnueeld, 1936 champion, placed second, while third place went to the defending champion, J. C. Thompson. James P. Bell of Fort Worth secured the lone draw against Manney.

Utah State Title

Richards Durham of Salt Lake City, left little to chance, and less to his opponents in the Utah State Chess Championship Tournament, winning seven straight games to retain the title in convincing style. The tournament was run off over the Labor Day holidays in conjunction with a supporting event where nine others competed for prizes. Melvin U. Pratt of Ogden made a clean sweep in the supporting tournament.

New York State Championship Tournament

The annual meeting of the New York State Chess Association was held at Colgate University, Hamilton, from August 19 to 26. Forty-eight entrants participated in the individual championship tournaments while foursomes from seven counties sought the custody of the Genesee Cup.

Arnold Denker, defending champion, won the New York State title tournament, leading one of the strongest fields which has ever competed for the honor. Half a point behind was the internationalist, Isaac Kashdan. Neither Kashdan nor Denker lost any games. Third place went to Albert S. Pinkus.

The Binghamton Chess Club silver trophy was awarded to Denker, who has now won it twice, but must win once more to acquire permanent possession. Kashdan won the cup in 1935, when it was first placed in competition, and again in 1936, while David Polland gained a leg in 1937. If both Denker and Kashdan compete next year...?... seat reservations now being placed!

Denker, a resident of Jamaica, Long Island, was born February 20, 1914, and learned to play chess at the age of eight by watching his brother. Once champion of the Empire City Chess Club, he was second at Syracuse, 1933, ahead of Fine and Dake. In the American Chess Federation Tournament at Chicago, 1934, he placed third and at Philadelphia in 1936 was runner-up for the North American title. He won the state title for the first time last year at Cazenovia.

The Genesee Cup County Team contest was won by Monroe County (Rochester Chess Club). Monroe also won the cup in 1923, 1921 and 1916.

At the annual meeting of the N. Y. S. C. A. the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, C. Harold King of Hamilton; Vice- Presidents, Robert F. Brand of Cazenovia, Dr. Max Herberger of Rochester and Walter Muir of Schenectady; Secretary, George H. Wilson of Eridicot; Treasurer, Rodney Mott of Hamilton; Assistant Organizer, Walter L. Murdock, Jr., of Cazenovia; Genesee Cup Organizer, Lynn W. Bryant of Binghamton.

The 71-year-old veteran, Dr. Emanuel Lasker, graced the Congress with a simultaneous exhibition against thirty opponents on the evening of August 25.

British Chess Federation Tournament

The tournament of the British Chess Federation at the Town Hall, Bournemouth, England, ended August 25 with a victory for Dr. Max Euwe. He was undefeated throughout, his score of 7 wins and 4 draws placing him a half point ahead of Flohr and Klein. Flohr and Klein shared second and third prizes, each with a kindred, rueful regret—for in it Flohr was defeated in a sparkling game by Landau, and Klein was glad to escape a similar fate at the hands of Thomas; as it was Klein succeeded in drawing while a pawn behind but dropped a valuable half point, the margin of Dr. Euwe’s triumph.

Salo Flohr, erstwhile Czecho-Slovakian, obtained permission of the Dutch government to remain in The Netherlands prior to the outbreak of hostilities, where he will be currently domiciled. E. Klein, formerly of Austria, has adopted London as his present home.

Political unrest with its alarming rumors compelled both Dr. Euwe and Landau to return to Amsterdam without playing their mutual last round game. The game was agreed drawn—which sportingly gave Flohr a chance to share first prize providing he cleared a last round hurdle in Koenig—but Koenig deported himself so creditably that a sixty-move draw resulted, and Flohr shared second and third instead.

Landau’s vigilance relaxes—and Mieses believes his seventy-odd years by a vigorous winning assault.

1. THE OPENINGS

WHAT ARE DEVELOPING MOVES?
To see how you stand in development, count the number of moves each side must make before his Rooks will be connected, and until one of them is posted on an open or half-open file. Add half a move for the player whose turn it is to play. If one player is 2½ moves ahead, and has as good a share of the center as his opponent, he usually has a winning advantage. Such a "pull" is about equivalent to the advantage of a pawn plus, taking a center pawn as the standard. A bishop pawn is worth a bit less, and one of the others is worth hardly more than half a center pawn, especially in the opening.

To avoid getting behind in development, refrain from playing any non-developing move, unless you can thereby compel the enemy to make a non-developing move, too, to counterbalance it. For example, after 1 P-K4, P-Q4, White rightly plays 2 PnP. This obviously develops nothing, but Black recaptures with his Queen, and thereupon White recovers the lost move by 3 Kt-QB3, because Black is forced to move the same piece (Q) twice.

You can only count as a developing move the first move made by each piece, or the two pawn moves which free the bishops. At least one bishop must be freed by a center pawn.

Never count P-QB4 as a developing move, but in close games remember that the man who has played it has a "pull" in the center. A "close game" so-called, generally occurs when P-K4 is not essayed until late in the game.

EXCHANGES
An exchange of pawns or pieces loses a move when the opponent can recapture with a developing move. Such exchanges must therefore be avoided unless you are in a situation where you must lose a move in development in any case—for they simply speed the development of your opponent.

Some examples: With a formation in which both players have pawns on Q4, and one of them has played P-QB4, the other should never play PxBP until the adversary's KB has moved,—else that piece will recapture the pawn with its first move, and thus gain a developing move.

To illustrate: After 1 P-Q4, P-Q4; 2 P-QB4, Black should avoid PxP, since White presently will move his KP and next play BxP in one stride. Black could try to hold his pawn by P-QKt4. But this breaks an invariable rule:

In the opening, never play a non-developing move in order to hold a pawn.

Here P-QKt4 is not a developing move because Black's QB already has an avenue of development open to it.

When you are considering taking a center pawn, the rule is:

If the pawn is threatening (1) to capture your pawn, or (2) to advance and attack a piece, always take it; otherwise don't.

An important rule is:

Pawn captures should be made toward the center.

An exception may sometimes be made when something has to be recaptured on either of the B3 squares. Here it is usually preferable to take with the center pawn, instead of the KtP, as this immediately opens an avenue for the bishop which was previously shut in. E. g., 1 P-K4, P-K4; 2 Kt-KB3, Kt-QB3; 3 B-Kt5, P-QR3; 4 BxKt, QPxKt!

The main problems are concerned with piece exchanges. In the opening, a bishop with a good diagonal is better than a knight, so never hesitate to exchange a knight for a well-posted bishop. When exchanging B for Kt, remember this: Let us suppose you have a bishop at Kt5 which is pinning a knight, and it is attacked by P-R3. Rather than lose a move by retreating, exchange with BxKt, provided the opponent cannot recapture with a developing move. But if he can recapture with a developing move, it is usually better to maintain the pin by retreating to R4. In the example above, White exchanges even though Black can recapture with a developing move (QPxB!). Black gets a doubled pawn, which is some balm to White, but nevertheless, 4 B-R4 is better for White than 4 BxKt because the bishop has greater future usefulness, and the variation resulting from White's exchange of BxKt is recognized as leading him into an inferior position.

AVOID PAWN-GRABBING
Never play to win a pawn in the opening. If you are offered a center pawn, take it—if you can do so safely—not, however, with the idea of retaining it, but just to give the enemy some trouble, and consequent loss of development, as he expends moves in regaining it.

It is generally unwise to capture a KtP with your queen, particularly if the queen will be

Modern Treatment of the Dragon Variation
By A. J. Chistiakov

In the last fifteen or twenty years the Sicilian Defense has appeared with increasing frequency in tournament practice.

It was seen seldom from 1895 to 1920, during which period the Ruy Lopez received exhaustive analysis at the hands of the masters, and in consequence of which the Ruy Lopez became a familiar tournament weapon. More recently, however, the creative activity of modern younger masters who sought new ideas wherever to confront the older school has been bestowed upon the Sicilian Defense.

Its popularity has increased tremendously, especially since the widening range of information concerning it has steadily tended to establish its usefulness and soundness for tournament play.

Its objective is to create counterplay for Black, without the usual passivity tending to equality inherent to other defenses. Experience indicates that this defense is at least on a par with the French, Caro-Kann and the Black side of the Ruy Lopez. While at times the second player is committed to a temporarily cramped position, which in turn may subject his King to attack, the Sicilian is unlike the other defenses, in that it is also based on aggressive principles.

The scope of this article will be limited to the Dragon variation, one of the main lines of the Sicilian, which is reached by the following moves:

1 P-K4 P-QB4 5 Kt-QB3 P-Q3
2 Kt-KB3 Kt-KB3 6 B-K2 P-KKt3
3 P-Q4 PxP 7 B-K3 B-Kt2
4 KtxP Kt-KB3 8 O-O O-O

The underlyling idea of this variation is to coordinate the pressure exerted on the open QB file with that created by the fianchetto development of the B.

The present popularity of the "Dragon" may be traced to a brilliant game Rouser-Botwinnik, Leningrad, 1933. The progeny of the "Dragon" are many, but the main lines are worthy of note, as are also White's attempts to avert the variation.

In Diagram I White commands a superior development and greater space, but Black is without weak points. White's problem is to capitalize on these assets before Black effects the liberating move ... P-Q4, which is operative against passive moves such as 9 P-KR3 and 9 P-KB3.

There is no danger for Black in the following play:

9 Q-Q2 P-QB4
10 KtxKt PxKt
11 PxP or Kt-Kt3
10 ... QKt-Kt6 leads to complications.
11 QKt-Kt4 QKt-Kt6
Or 11 ... KtxKt; 12 BxKt, QxKt with equality.
12 B-B4 Q-B5
13 Kt-Kt4 PxKt
And the open QKt file plus the long range action of the bishops compensates Black for the weak Q side pawns.

It is apparent from the foregoing that White, in order to maintain the initiative, must attempt to prevent ... P-Q4. 9 Kt-Kt4 and 9 P-KB4 are based on this thought. Play may proceed:

9 Kt-Kt3 B-K3
Aiming at ... P-Q4.
10 P-KB4 Kt-QR4

For 10 ... P-Q4 would be parried by 11 P-K5 or 11 P-B5. The text move aims to establish a base at QB6. A game Lasker-Rumin, Moscow, 1928, continued:

11 P-B5 B-B5 15 Kt-B6 KR-K1
12 KtxKt BxB 16 PxP RPxP
13 KtxP BxQ 17 B-Kt5 Kt-R2
14 KtxQ BxP

And Black experiences no difficulty.

To revert, 10 P-KB4, Kt-QR4, White gains by the exchange 11 KtxKt, for after ... QKt-Kt6; 12 B-B3, B-B5; 13 R-K1, KR-K1; 14 Q-Q3 QKt-R3; 15 KR-K1, P-Kt4. Black has a satisfactory game (Rouser-Botwinnik, Moscow, 1928).

Again after 9 Kt-Kt4, B-K3; 10 P-B4, Kt-QR4, should White re-play 11 Kt-Qt4, Black has a choice of ... B-B5 or ... Kt-B5, both good.

White might try 11 P-K5, but this only weakens his center, as after 11 ... Kt-Kt3, White must yield ground with 12 PxP, or defend the KP.

An interesting variation is reached by:

DIAGRAM 1
DIAGRAM II

12... QPxP loses a piece! (13 QxQ, followed by 14 KtxKt.)
12...
13 BxB

\[\text{If 13 KtxB, Kt-Kt5!} \]
13...
14 QR-Q1
15 Kt-Kt5
16 Q-B5!

And the attack is repulsed. Had White tried 15 PxP, then would follow... R PxP; 16 RxKt, BxR! 17 Kt-Q5, Q-B5 and again the hanging Black Kt is saved because of White's undetected Q.

White might invert the sequence of moves by playing 12 PxP (instead of 12 P-K5). Play would proceed: 12...
13 BxP
14 QPxP
15 Q-K5
16 RPxKt

While it is difficult for Black to retain the pawn because of the greater activity of the White forces, the second player nevertheless maintains the upper hand.

Black obtains equality plus good practical chances in all the known variations arising from 9 Kt-Kt3, P-K3; 10 P-KB4, Kt-QR4. Opportunity to play this once highly touted variation would therefore not appear to be an occasion for any great rejoicing by White.

Another idea successfully adopted by Black recently is 10... Q-B1. This prevents 11 P-B5 and intends... Kt-KKt5. 11 P-KR3 is met by... P-QR4 disrupting White's Q side, or even by... R-Q1 enforcing... P-Q4.

Instead of 9 Kt-Kt3, White may anticipate Black's... P-Q4 with the immediate 9 P-KB4.

\[\text{9 P-KB4} \]

It would be unwise for Black to continue 9...

This variation, indicative of the dangers lurking in the position offers a clear warning, that a wiser and safer course for Black was the suggestion at Black's 11th turn.

A resume of the lines analyzed discloses that the classic treatment of the Dragon Variation offers Black at least equality, and in most cases plausible counter-play. Granting that precision is required on the part of the second player because of the various tactical possibilities inherent in the position, it is clear that White, too, must shoulder an equal share of the dangers and responsibilities.

PORTO RICO

The Insular Club Championship of Porto Rico, a tri-club competition of four-somes, seems tabbed for San Juan. Anything but a clean sweep for Cagnas over San Juan in the one remaining match gives San Juan the championship.

Point totals stand San Juan, 8-4; Ponce, 8-8; Cagnas, 4-8.

Penn State Title

Heralded into action by the newly-formed Pennsylvania State Chess Federation, thirty enthusiastic Keystone Staters avidly devoted themselves to a strenuous three-day quest for the state championship at the Yorktowne Hotel, York, over the Labor Day holidays.

A dozen communities sent their most promising pawn pickers in an effort to return the title to their bailiwick, and the result was a brand of chess, rivalry and sportsmanship which augurs a splendid future for the P. S. C. F.

Among the many visitors to the tournament were Harold Morton, who directed the play, Walter S. Ivins of Philadelphia, donor of a special prize to the Philadelphian making the best showing (Wilkinson won the award), and I. A. Horowitz of The Chess Review.

William S. Hart, Jr., who was instrumental in bringing about a state-wide organization of chapter-clubs was elected president of the P. S. C. F. Other officers elected were R. S. Cotton, Jr., vice-president; W. M. Byland, secretary-treasurer; and directors, John Malone of Pittsburgh, I. A. Horowitz, Harold Morton, Congressman John C. Kunkle of Harrisburg and Irvin Goldstein of Philadelphia.

Next year's tournament is planned for Pittsburgh.

Four sections of six players each, engaged in preliminary round robin events to determine the state championship finalists, and classify the balance of the field into supporting tourneys.

Preliminary qualifying scores:

SECTION I

Steckel, 5-0; Archer and Paul, 3-2; Hall and Hartleb, 1½-3½; Stevenson, 1-4.

SECTION II

Hesse, 5-0; Isenberg, 3½-1½; Yatron and Shive, 2½-2½; Plavcan, 1½-3½; Seiter, 0-5.

SECTION III

Towsen 4-1; Gillett and Kneerame, 3-2; Bolden and Linder, 2-3; Larson, 1-4.

SECTION IV

Wilkinson, 4½-½; Zeigler, 3-2; Rehr, 2½-2½; Buck and Hart, 2-3; Guthridges, 1-4.

The young Philadelphian, Wilkinson, graced the finalists circle for the first time, alongside the trio of Hesse, Steckel and Towsen, all of whom have many times written their names into the record of Central Pennsylvania championships.

Herman Hesse of Bethlehem and William Steckel of Allentown emerged tied for the championship after excellent demonstrations of skill and endurance. It was decided by the officers of the P. S. C. F. that the title for 1939-40 would be jointly held by them.

Hesse defeated Steckel in their individual meeting, but wavered against Towsen in settling a fateful R-Kt8 instead of R-QKt8. This penmanship cost a rook and the game. Steckel, given a new life, came through with a fine victory to even the count and share the title.

CLASS A TOURNAMENT

William S. Hart, Jr., found time from his manifold duties as newly elected president of the federation and his responsibilities of guiding the event to success, to win a few chess games, too, and climbed to the top of the Class A Tourney by winning all games in the Finals. Glenn Hartleb won second prize. The standings:

... Resigns

Resigns
Nos. 1443 and 1448 in this month’s Review were impromptus composed to show a task suggested recently by one of the Washington Post’s solvers, namely, to construct a “double” problem, with either side able to mate in two, without check or capture keymoves. This little technical exercise is not quite so easy as it sounds because two separate problems on a chessboard have a nasty tendency to get into one another’s way, and the composer has to make sure that each piece he uses will not only be effective in one problem but harmless in the other. No. 1448 is an attempt to get the maximum amount of variety in a “double” problem with quiet keymoves (six mates apiece for Black or White), while No. 1443 has a more thematic flavor and shows unifying schemes on each side of the board.

A little composing contest seems in order. We shall award two book prizes for the best problems submitted before December 15 next, with the condition “Either side to play and mate in two moves,” and with quiet keymoves for each side. The winning compositions will be published in the January Review. Get busy, composers!

** * * *

By error, a Black Knight on f6 was omitted in No. 1418 last month, neatly taking away all point from the problem. We re-diagram this month as No. 1444.

** * * *

In problem talk, a composition is said to be “anticipated” when it exactly or in virtually all details duplicates one that has been published at some time previously. In the Philadelphia Record of Aug. 13 last it was claimed that our April Honor Prize problem was “completely anticipated” by a two-mover published nearly twenty years ago. We publish the two compositions as Nos. 1456 and 1457 so that solvers may make their own comparisons.

According to the Record article, No. 1457 was one of a series, the themes of which were suggested by Comins Mansfield, the famous English composer. The question asked was “Can a promoting Black Pawn create four distinct self-block variations?” Mr. Rice’s problem was the first to be published, though J. Hartong and E. Weenink, working independently on the same task, simultaneously achieved practically the same setting.

Your Editor studied the two positions carefully and couldn’t honestly see any grounds for a claim of “complete anticipation.” In the first place, No. 1457 is a threat problem, while 1456 is a “watter.” By definition, the theme of both problems is the same—that is, a Black Pawn (on d2 in 1456 and on b2 in 1457) creates four different self-block variations by four different promotions. But the mates are the same, or virtually the same, in only two of these theme variations: 1. . . . Pxb4 (S); 2. SxR and 1 . . . Pd1 (Q); 2. Qb2 in No. 1456 approximating 1. . . Pxb4 (S); 2. Sa1 and 1 . . . Pd1 (Q); 2. Rc2, respectively. In No. 1457. The checkmate mates after 1 . . . Pxc1 (Q) or in each problem are of somewhat different character, because of the different position of the White King and because of the distinctive types of line-uncovering by the White Knight (in No. 1456, 2. Sd4 mate opens the Rd3’s guard of d2 and c1, while in No. 1457, 2. Sd2 mate uncovers guard by the Qg of b2 and the Rd3 of c6). The mates after 1 . . . Pxb4 in Nos. 1456 and 1457 and the philosophy in Nos. 1456 and 1457 are obviously different. No. 1457 has a thematic key, allowing the checkmate, and several extra mates, including a neat added block-by-block...

Mr. Alain C. White, America’s foremost authority on problem themes, has kindly given us his opinion of the two positions; “. . . In this case there is certainly no question of the similarity not being accidental. Mr. Gamage is at the present time our ranking two-move composer, and his themes are invariably original in character. It seems clear that the similarity between the two problems is at all complete. Both achieve the same task, of four self-blocks by a promoting Black Pawn; but the Rice problem lays its emphasis wholly on the self-blocks, while Gamage’s seems to me to stress the cross-checks. . . . The effect, at least to me, is that the two composers have approached a similar theme from two different points of view and have each produced a fine problem, but problems which produce a very different effect on the solver . . .” Dr. Dobbs gave a similar opinion. We therefore believe that the award of the Honor Prize to No. 1456 should stand and that Mr. Rice and Mr. Gamage should be credited with excellent and distinct renderings of a difficult task. What do you solvers think?

CAPABLANCA'S COME-BACK CHANCE

Dr. Alekhine is to play Capablanca for the championship of the world.

Rumors and reports, neatly balanced by an identical number of contradictions, have recently flurried around the globe, but seem finally to have crystallized into this glittering gem of news.

Reports from Buenos Aires state that negotiations have been successfully concluded. Buenos Aires will be the scene, and the opening game is scheduled for April 14, 1940.

A purse of 10,000 gold dollars is to be provided by the Argentine Chess Federation. Alekhine is to receive $2,000 outright, while the balance will be divided 60% to the winner and 40% to the loser.

Twelve years ago—November 28, 1927—the final moves of a bitterly fought eighty-two move game were played at this same city. With them Alekhine wrested the crown from Capablanca, and with that victory were sown the seeds of bitter rivalry. Never since has Capablanca had an opportunity to retrieve that defeat.

At the time, Alekhine's victory was an upset, for Capablanca and invincibility had come to be regarded as synonymous. But what the mere fact of his victory did not convey at once, the saga of Alekhine's exploits during the years of his reign did.

His greatness is universally acclaimed.

When Capablanca won the title at Havana with four wins, he placed more points in Dr. Lasker's debit column than the genial doctor had ever suffered in any match or tournament.

When Alekhine defeated Capablanca at Buenos Aires he shattered a legend of invincibility.

And at Buenos Aires in 1940?
THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

To lovers of chess everywhere in the U.S.A.:—

It is a great pleasure and satisfaction for me to announce the formation of the United States of America Chess Federation—a merger of the National Chess Federation and the American Chess Federation. I feel deeply honored that I have been chosen first president of the new Federation, and I am greatly pleased that Mr. Maurice S. Kuhns who has been president of the National Chess Federation for many years has consented to serve as president emeritus and will aid me with his advice and counsel.

For the past fifteen months committees of the N. C. F. and A. C. F. have labored long and arduously in the merger negotiations. There were times in the deliberations when it seemed as though the obstacles in the way of a merger were insurmountable. But finally, thanks to the friendly spirit shown by both sides, and their very real determination to iron out all difficulties, the committees reached complete accord and the merger agreement which was drawn up has now been signed by Mr. Kuhns and his directors on behalf of the N. C. F. and signed by me and our directors on behalf of the A. C. F. A charter is now being prepared by our counsel and the date of this charter will be considered the birth date of the new United States Chess Federation.

Under the terms of the agreement there will be fourteen voting directors who will control the policies of the U. S. C. F. It is expected that Mr. Ernest Olfé and Mr. H. E. McFarland will serve as joint secretaries. Vice-presidents and treasurer have not been elected. All officers and directors will serve for a term of one year. The form of government will be democratic, and it is expected that membership in the U. S. C. F. will consist of state units, individual chess clubs, and individual members. Final details are not now available, but will be announced shortly— as soon as the new By-Laws have been prepared.

I need hardly say that this merger of the National Chess Federation and the American Chess Federation into one new Federation—the United States of America Chess Federation—is a very constructive step forward in organized chess, and one which I know will be hailed with immense satisfaction by chess players everywhere. The scope of our activities will be broad, and we dedicate ourselves not only to the chess players who have already reached expert strength, but also to the great rank and file of chess players everywhere throughout the land. We are your Federation and we hope that you will support us and our efforts on your behalf and on behalf of the game we love.

In the very near future we are going to appeal to you to show that you approve our

GEORGE STURGIS
President—United States of America Chess Federation efforts by asking you to join the new Federation. The dues will be small, and we hope that a nation-wide response will enable us to obtain a large and active membership which will enable us to operate smoothly and efficiently. Will you help? The new treasury is practically empty—and you must admit that this is a rather discouraging outlook for any new treasurer, isn't it? What a splendid thing it would be if I could surprise the new treasurer (to be elected) by turning over to him at least something of a nest egg. Won't you help me to do this? A check for any amount drawn to the order of the United States Chess Federation and mailed to me at 111 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass., will evoke our grateful thanks and show that we are all going to get behind our new Federation and make it of real service to chess players throughout the United States.

Cordially yours,

GEORGE STURGIS
President
United States of America Chess Federation

BUENOS AIRES INVITATION TOURNAMENT

Upon conclusion of the International Team Matches an invitation tournament was arranged at Buenos Aires for some of the European players. The entry comprised P. Keres of Estonia, M. Najdorf and P. Frydman of Poland, G. Stahlberg of Sweden, M. Luckis of Lithuania, A. Benko of Hungary, Miss Sonja Graf of England and the four Argentine experts, R. Grau, C. E. Guimard, J. Gerschman and Z. Palau.

After seven rounds Czerniak and Keres led with 5½ points each. Najdorf defeated Keres in their individual meeting.

Keres proves that an old gambit variation, like the Old Oaken Bucket, may be moss-covered, but still iron-bound.

HOROWITZ TO TOUR

The annual exhibition tour of I. A. Horowitz, twice North American champion and three times a member of the United States' world championship team, begins January 1st.

That's when Horowitz goes to town. We hope it will be your town.

It is a journey of 13,000 miles, to practically every active club in the country.

Exhibitions of simultaneous play, lectures, consultation games and blindfold demonstrations will be given.

Clubs located in the area bounded by Mexico, the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans, plus all of Canada are invited to write him, care of The Chess Review, 25 West 43rd Street, New York City.

Postscript:

It will be a double-feature (at no extra charge) if Harold Morton, New England States' champion (since 1929!) decides to make it a joint tour.

KASHDAN INVITED TO CUBA

An international masters' tournament is to occur at Havana, concurrently with the Cuban Winter Sports Carnival. Isaac Kashdan, one of the ten invited masters, will represent the United States.
Modern Treatment of the Dragon Variation
By A. J. Chistiakov

Part I appeared in the October issue of The Chess Review.

PART II

The system adopted by Alekhine against Spielmann at Margate is worthy of note. Play proceeded as follows:

1 P-K4 P-QB4 7 B-K3 B-Kt2
2 Kt-KB3 Kt-QB3 8 0-0 O-O
3 P-Q4 PxP 9 Kt-Kt3 P-QR4
4 KtxP Kt-B3 10 P-QR4 B-K3
5 Kt-QB3 P-Q3 11 Kt-Q4 P-Q4!
6 B-K2 P-KKt3 12 PxP

If 12 KtxB, PxKt, threatening 13 ... P-Q5 and also ... PxP, White's choice would be limited to 13 PxP, when Black would obtain a strong center plus the open KB file by the recapture ... PxP.

12 ... BxP
13 KtxB KtxKt
14 KtxKt PxKt
15 B-Q4 P-K4

Simplification by 15 ... BxB would be in White's favor as the weakness of Black's isolated Q side pawns might then be exploited.

16 B-B5 R-K1
17 B-B4 Q-B2
18 P-QB3 Q-R4

Of course not 18 BxKt, PxB; 19 QxP, KR-Q1; 20 Q-B4, QR-B1, and White's bishop is lost.

19 ... Q-R2
20 Q-Kt5 Q-B2

The strong post of the Black Kt and the mobile K side pawn majority counterbalances White's advantage of the two bishops.

It is not within the scope of this article to deal with the Wing Gambit or Richter Variation, or other methods of avoiding the Dragon Variation. These require independent research and thought. Rather, the design is to probe into the possibilities of alternative moves in the main variation. 8 Q-Q2 or 8 P-KB3 deserve consideration.

8 Q-Q2 Kt-KB3

If 8 ... O-O; then 9 O-O-O, and White obtains the initiative. 8 ... P-Q4 leads to the loss of a pawn by 8 B-Kt5.

9 BxKt BxKt
10 Kt-Q5 ... Intent on provoking ... P-Kt which would weaken the QP.

10 ... R-QB1
After 10 ... O-O; 11 P-QB4, B-Q2; 12 O-O, Q-Kt4; 13 PxP, BxP; 14 KtxB, RxKt; 15 QR-Q1, White commands greater space in the center.

11 P-KB3 B-Q2
12 P-QB4 Q-R4
13 Kt-B3 P-KR3
14 R-KB1 Kt-K4

Or even 14 ... O-O; 15 P-QKt3, P-QKt4!

More precise for White in this variation would be 11 P-QB4. Then would follow 11 ... Q-R4; 12 Kt-QB3, after which Black arrives at the crossroads. 12 ... P-QR3; 13 QR-B1, O-O; 14 P-QKt3, B-Q2; 15 O-O, KR-Kt1; 16 KR-Q1 and Black's position remains cramped. Or 12 0-0, 13 P-QKt3, BxKt; 14 BxKt, KtxB; 15 QxKt, P-Kt4! with forceful counterplay on the Q side.

The latter method of play is considered to be a convincing refutation of the move 8 Q-Q2.

It is apparent from the foregoing that the loss of tempi involved in Kt-KB3-Q5-B3, together with the artificial prophylactic moves QR-B1, P-QKt3, P-QB4, do not justify themselves inasmuch as White's Q side fortifications are inevitably ruined. White's development thereafter remains backward.

This is again affirmed in the game Chistiakov-Smyslov, Leningrad, 1936.

1 P-K4 P-QB4 9 BxKt BxKt
2 Kt-KB3 Kt-QB3 10 Kt-Q5 QR-B1
3 P-Q4 P-Q4 11 P-QB4 O-O
4 KtxP Kt-B3 12 QR-B1 Kt-K4
5 Q-Kt1 B3 P-Q3 13 QR-Kt3 Q-Kt2
6 B-K2 P-KKt3 14 P-KB3 P-QKt4
7 B-Kt3 Kt-Kt5 15 P-KB4 Kt-Kt5
8 Q-Q2 Kt-Kt15 16 PxP RxP after

Black's position is superior, the pawn being easily recovered.

Aiming to reinforce the KP in order to move the QKt, which in turn would permit White complete domination of the center by the subsequent P-QB4, Belavenetz adopted the move 8 P-KB5. Incidentally this defended against ... Kt-Kt5. The following is indicative of its possibilities:

8 P-KB3 O-O
9 Kt-Kt3 P-QKt4!

Against 9 ... B-K3 White obtains the advantage in space by 10 Kt-Q5, BxKt; 11 PxKt, QKt-Kt5; 12 P-QB4.
And Black has achieved equality.

Another method intended to harness the "Dragon" was employed by Romanovsky. Instead of the usual development of the QB at K3, he tried the immediate retreat of his Kt to Kt3 as follows:

1 P-K4 P-QB4 6 B-K2 P-KKt3
2 Kt-KB3 P-QB3 7 O-O B-Kt2
3 P-Q4 P-Kt5 8 Kt-Kt3 Q-O
4 KtxP Kt-KB3 9 P-Kt4 B-K3
5 Kt-QB3 Kt-B3 10 P-B5 BxKt

Black's game was difficult. Subsequently an improvement was pointed out at Black's 9th turn.

9 P-Kt5! P-QKt4!

Utilizing the absence of White's QB from the diagonal Kt1-R7. For now should White continue 10 BxP, then follows ... KtxP! 11 BxKt, Q-Kt3ch! regaining the piece, with a good position.

10 B-B3 Kt-K5
11 Kt-Q5 P-QKt3
12 P-Kt4 Kt-B3
13 K-R1 Kt-Kt4
14 R-K1 P-B3

And Black's freedom on the Q side tells in his favor.

A sharp attack instituted by a rapid K side P advance eventually proved to be a double edged sword. A game Lasker-Napier, Cambridge Springs, 1904 continued:

1 P-K4 P-QB4 6 P-KR3 P-KKt3
2 Kt-KB3 Kt-QB3 7 B-K3 B-Kt2
3 P-Q3 P-PxP 8 P-KKt4 Q-O
4 KtxP Kt-B3 9 P-Kt5 Kt-K1
5 Kt-QB3 P-Q3
Or 9 ... Kt-Q2; 10 P-KR4, Q-R4; 11 P-B4, KtxKt; 12 BxKt, K-PKt; 13 P-Kt4, Kt-PKt; 14 B-K2, Q-Kt5 with a good game for Black.

10 P-KR4 Kt-B2
11 P-B4 P-K4
12 Kt-Kt2 B-Kt5!

Again favoring Black. (Apparently Napier failed to make this last move.)

While the P attack does not seem to have any solid foundation, it is apt to meet with success, except against skillful manipulation of the opposing forces. A game Foltis-Eliskases, Podebrad, 1936 continued:

1 P-K4 P-QB4 6 B-K2 B-Kt2
2 Kt-KB3 P-QB3 7 B-K3 Kt-B3
3 P-Q4 P-PxP 8 Kt-Kt3 B-K3
4 KtxP Kt-KB3 9 P-B4 Q-O
5 Kt-QB3 P-KKt3 10 P-Kt4

The standard plan is here.

10 Kt-QR4 14 BxKt RxK
11 P-Kt5 Kt-K1 15 Q-Q3 R-B1
12 B-Q4 R-B1 16 O-O-O...
13 P-KR4 Kt-B5

Black's position is difficult.

Botwinnik, however, improved upon Black's play with the following line:

10 ... P-K5
11 P-Q4 B-Q5
12 PxKt

Regaining the piece with a good game. Or if 12 KtxP, KtxKt; 13 BxKt, KtxKt (Levenfisch-Botwinnik, Moscow, 1936.)

Alekhine-Botwinnik, Nottingham, 1936 was rich in thrills.

1 P-K4 P-QB4 8 Kt-Kt3 B-K3
2 Kt-KB3 P-Q3 9 P-B4 O-O
3 P-Q4 P-Kt4 10 P-Kt4 P-Q4
4 KtxP Kt-KB3 11 P-B5 B-B1
5 Kt-QB3 P-KKt3 12 KPxP Q-KKt15
6 B-K2 B-Kt2 13 P-Q6
7 B-K3 Kt-B3

If 13 B-B3, PxP; 14 P-Kt5, Kt-Kt5; 15 B-B5, Kt-R3; 15 B-Q4, P-KR4; 17 PxP ep, QxP; 18 PxP, RxP; 19 B-KQ5, Q-R5ch, with a strong counter attack.

13 ... QxP 16 BxKt Kt-Kt
14 B-B5 Q-B5 17 BxKt Q-Kt6ch
15 KR-B1 QxPP 18 R-B2 Q-Kt8ch
With a perpetual check.

Botwinnik

Alekhine

Final judgment has not as yet been passed on this variation, but it is believed that a precipitate pawn attack can be successfully parried with correct defense.

AN ACT IN THREE TRAGEDIES

The saddest words
Of tongue or pen,
Some say, are these,
"It might have been."

But aren't these sad
We daily see?
That are—but hadn't
"Oughtier be."

Our hero ogled the room in search of approbation—or was it sympathy?

Again Splutterfuss had plunged the aching hearts of the kibitzers (if granite can ache) from the acme of apprehension to the depths of disgust.

"So you don't believe I am hot stuff?" he was saying. "Because they call me a pusher, you misjudge me."

"Why, only the other day I played three games with the Giant Killer. In the first, I could have sunk him. I'll show you the position."

I should have played simply Q.B5. It would have cut him up like a bacon-slicer. But I preferred to be brilliant. Proudly, I played and looked around for applause—like an actor who has encored time and again.

1. Q-B7

"What do you think of that?" I say to the watchers. A queen sacrifice, no less! Q-K18 check, and when he takes it—boom! . . . Kt-B7 checkmate.

"While I am still accepting the congratulations of everyone, my opponent quietly (the snake) plays

1. . . . Kt-K1

"I rush into an analysis—everybody is pointing out squares to which my Queen can't go. I resign. Instead of winning with a brilliant mate, I just lose my Queen.

"After this, I need a little time to become myself again. Regretting my awful luck, I set up the pieces once more. In the second game the Giant Killer acted like a retired banker, as careless as a hypnotized monkey.

'Soon we arrived at this position:

This time he was really a gone gosling. Happily, I played

1. . . . R.K5

"He was the exchange behind, and a pawn, too. Besides, he was in terrible straits to stop my threat of mate which starts with R-K2 check. He had no checks unless he wanted to give away his pieces.

"Don't you wish you could leave this unkind world?" I asked him with benevolent, if synthetic anxiety.

"Perhaps—after you leave it," he answered in a cavernous voice. This satire I didn't mind, for I was to enjoy the last laugh, anyway.

"But then he added, 'Mate in four!' and played

2. BxPch

"I laughed in his face, and scooped it up. The play continued:

2. . . . KxB

3. Q-Kt8ch Q-K3

4. Q-QR8ch . . .

"'Stop!' I shouted, seeing I had been tricked into the wrong move. I retracted 3 Q-K3 and instead played 3 R.K3.

"'In that case,' the Giant Killer replied, 'I play simply 3 . . . Q-Kt2ch and next comes

4. . . . Q-QR2 mate.'

"I was stunned. Such a lucky whirligig. This man could fall down a well and come up with a mouthful of diamonds.

"So we played again, and this position arose:

ARIZONA STATE CHESS ASSOCIATION

Arizona looms as the next state which will add its name to the rapidly mounting list of those which boast a state chess association. O. W. Manney, recent extra-territorial winner of the Texas title and chess editor of the Arizona Daily Star is taking the initiative.

BOSTON CITY CHAMPIONSHIP

The seventh annual City of Boston championship tournament for the George Sturgis trophy, currently being contested at the Boylston Chess Club, has attracted a choice field of fourteen entries. Weaver W. Adams and Harlow B. Daly, each have two legs on the cup, and need but one more to retire it. The efforts of state champion Shapiro, W. M. P. Mitchell, Dr. S. D. Putzman, Gerhard Katz, not to mention the donor (!) of the trophy, George Sturgis, will be bent toward keeping the trophy in competition.

CALIFORNIA CHAMPIONSHIP

The California State Championship Tournament, programmed to start November 18th at Los Angeles will feature a fine entry. Defending champion Harry Borochow will find amongst those eager to take over his crown such outstanding performers as Herman Steiner and Arthur Duke, Philip Wolston, Southern California champion and Georges Koltanowski of blindfold fame.

DR. LASKER LECTURES

Dr. Emanuel Lasker has undertaken to present a series of fourteen weekly chess lectures at the Labor Temple, 242 E. 14th St., New York. Admission is 25¢ per lecture, or $3.00 for the series. They occur each Thursday at 8:30 P.M.

MASSACHUSETTS NOTES

Many chess leagues flourish in Massachusetts, thanks to its strong state association. The western quintet of Springfield, Pittsfield, Northampton, Greenfield and So. Hadley compete through the season with ten-man teams! The Metropolitan League of Boston enrolls teams from Boston City Club, Boylston Chess Club, Harvard Club, Harvard University, Commonwealth C. C., Cambridge C. C., Wells Memorial and Independents. Both the North and South Shores have regularly organized league competition. There really isn't any reason for a Bay State chess fan being without an Alma Mater.

TULSA TESTIMONIAL

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL

From our mail-bag (honest): "Send 'Modern Chess Openings' quick. I'm playing a state title match. My opponent stole a march—he has it already. Worse luck—he's ahead 3-1. Sincerely in haste.

Charousek-Tchigorin, Berlin 1897

Rudolf Charousek, like Pillsbury, was destined to die young, with his chess powers still latent. Yet in the few brief years of his tournament career, he contributed many specimens of superlative play.

It was Charousek that rehabilitated the King's Gambit as a purely positional game, without the corrosive brilliance and recklessness of Anderssen or Tchigorin. In his debut, in the great Nuremberg 1896 Tournament, he essayed a gambit every time he had the White pieces—against Showalter, Marco, Steinitz, Blackburne, Schallopp, Pillsbury, Porges, Janowski, and Dr. Lasker.

In fact, his bold win against world champion Lasker in the last round of that tournament constitutes a "last round tourney thrill" of its own, except for the fact that Lasker could lose the game and still win the tournament.

Following his tie with Tchigorin and subsequent defeat in a playoff match at the Budapest 1896 Tournament, Charousek entered the great Berlin Tournament in September, 1897.

This tournament was the eleventh congress of the German Chess Association, which had not yet settled its quarrel with the Nuremberg Chess Club for a break-away the previous year, and consequent holding of its own tournament. This led to a delay in the arrangements of the Berlin event, and prevented Steinitz and Pillsbury from entering, owing to the late arrival of invitations which had been extended to these masters. Tarrasch was absent also, but the tournament was still very strong, including in its entry such players as Alapin, Blackburne, Burn, Janowski, Marco, Schiffer, Schlechter, Tchigorin, Teichmann, and Wallbrodt.

Charousek started badly. He lost his first round game to Wallbrodt, drew his next two games, and then lost to Burn in the fourth round. Blackburne had started off with four straight wins. Charousek's fifth round game was a win by default over Bardeleben, and then he drew with Blackburne in the sixth round. Not one win scored across the chess board in six rounds! Certainly no one would have picked Charousek as the ultimate winner of the tournament. But Charousek had his own ideas about this. Blackburne had not kept up his fiery pace, and Marco was in first place with 5½ out of 6.

Charousek then began to find his stride. He won his next two games, and then drew two, so that by the end of the tenth round his score was 5½, Janowski and Marco led with 7½; but in the next round Charousek tripped Janowski, and Blackburne forged to the front again with 8 points out of a possible 11.

Charousek then added five straight wins, so that at the end of 16 rounds his score was 11½. But the persistent Blackburme's score was 12. In the next round Charousek won and Blackburne only drew, each tying with 12½, Wallbrodt coming third. Charousek won again in the 18th round, Wallbrodt trailing only half a point behind.

And so the 19th and final round of the Berlin 1897 Tournament opened October 4th. Wallbrodt was to play Albin, who had been ill and in poor form throughout; but Charousek was paired with the formidable Tchigorin, that redoubtable master of combination and tactics who was a match for Lasker when at his best.

Charousek's admirers could scarcely feel jubilant over his prospects in this pairing, but they soon felt real pangs of chagrin. For news had come that Albin, feeling indisposed, had forfeited his game to Wallbrodt—and so Wallbrodt somersaulted over Charousek into the lead—a large and important half-point ahead.

So Charousek had to win—against Tchigorin. And win he did in this energetic game:

R. Charousek  M. M. Tchigorin
White    Black
1 P-Q4   P-Q4
2 P-QB4  P-K3
3 Kt-QB3 P-QKt3?

Not good, but it must be remembered that when this game was played the Queen's Gambit was in its infancy. Moreover, Tchigorin's genius was so great that he could handicap himself in the opening and still win. He used to say, "When I am White, I must win because I am White; when I am Black, I must win because I am Tchigorin." Nevertheless, it is strange that he plays this move after having seen Charousek annihilate Albin in 30 moves four rounds before. It radiates unbridled self-confidence, for certainly Tchigorin never doubted his chances.

Either PxP or P-K4 is here playable, but he chooses to conduct his game along normal lines.

Despite Teichgord's lapses, it was not easy

Other lines of play do not refute the sacrifice of the Bishop, e. g.: (A) 27 QR-KB1, KtxP; 28 Kt-B6 and White is forced to play RxKt, in which case Black remains with a Rook and Pawn for two pieces plus a strong attack against the exposed White King. (B) 27 B-Kt5, RxR; 28 QxR, R-KB1; 29 Q-Q3, P-KR3; 30 BxP, KtxP; 31 Kt-B6 and wins. (In this last variation better practical chances could be obtained by 28 Kt-Kt6. Ed.)

The King cannot escape via K3 or K1, e. g.: 29 K-K1, QxPch; 30 K-Q1, R-R8ch; 31 B-K1,

The precautionary move 10 R-K1 to drive the queen off the diagonal attack of the KP would assist in maintaining the KP, which is wholly important in this variation.

Now it is difficult to discover a satisfactory continuation for Black. The threats of 13 P-R5 and 13 Kt-K5 to be followed by 14 KtxRP or 14 Q-R5 cannot well be met. After the move White's dangerous KP disappears, but new lines of attack are opened.

FIRST STEPS
By C. J. S. Purdy
(Many times Champion of Australia)
WHERE TO PUT YOUR PIECES
IN THE OPENING

Capablanca sums up the art of opening play with a counsel of perfection; "Bring out your pieces as fast as possible, and put them in the right places." In this article I introduce a scheme I have long had in mind, for showing how to "put the pieces in the right places", no matter what opening is being played.

PART I: FOUR TESTS

(Part II, on the application of the tests in practice, follows next month.)

The ideal square for a piece in the opening will stand the following tests:

1. The piece can go there in one move.
2. The piece will be effectively posted there.
3. The piece will not suffer from exposure.
4. The piece will not obstruct any of its own forces.

Rarely can you find a square which passes all these tests, but try to get the square that passes test 3, and as many of the other three as possible.

TEST 1

The reason for Test 1 is that the first object of development is to clear your back line in as few moves as you can, so as to use your Rooks. The absurdity of keeping such huge pieces locked away in corners never seems to strike the average player.

TEST 2

The reason for Test 2 is self-evident, and the only question is: What is meant by "effective"? Generally speaking "effective" means "having some bearing on the center." This may be either direct or indirect, e.g., a Bishop at Kt2, with the fianchetto diagonal open, commands two of the four center squares, besides valuable squares in the enemy camp, and is obviously in a splendid position. The KB in the Ruy Lopez—after 1 P-K4, P-K4; 2 Kt-KB3, Kt-QB3; 3 B-Kt5—is also fairly well posted, for although he commands no center square himself, he bears on an enemy Knight which commands two.

TEST 3

We all know that it is bad, as a rule to "develop" the Queen early. It is bad because there are so many smaller pieces than the Queen, that she is very easy to drive away from any square that is at all exposed, and thus the enemy is likely to gain time on us. As a rule, move the Queen only one square—just to free the Rooks—and choose the square on the file which is least likely to be opened, e.g., in the Queen's Gambit formation (with Ps at QB4, Q4, and K3), the Queen should almost invariably go to K2.

Rooks are nearly as averse to fresh air as the Queen, for the same reason. The Rooks like to command open files, but preferably from the rear.

Biffing the Bishop

What is less generally understood is that Bishops can also suffer heavily from exposure. For they still have Knights to harry them, the exchange of Bishop for Knight being usually disadvantageous in the early part of a game. Further, owing to a Bishop having the power of developing beyond the third rank on its first move, i.e., to B4 or Kt5, it is the favorite victim of Pawns, who, being ordinary soldiers, have little respect for the cloth.

Before going to B4 or Kt5, a Bishop should quietly ask itself, "If I am biffed with Pawns, will it do the enemy harm or good?"

For example, never develop a Bishop at QB4, if there is any chance of its being biffed later by P-K3 and P-Q4 (e.g. 1 P-K4, P-QB4; 2 B-B4?) or at KB4 if it can be biffed by P-Q3 and P-K4 (e.g. 1 Kt-KB3, P-Q4; 2 P-QKt3, B-B4?—the "London system", which is certainly playable, but risky against best play.)

On the other hand, do not, as a rule, be afraid to play B-B4 if the only biff possible is P-R3 and P-Kt4, as P-R3 loses the enemy a tempo.

Nevertheless, the development of Bishops at B4 appears less and less to a player after he reaches championship class. Below follow examples of the different kinds of biff that a Bishop may be exposed to on KB4:

Biff by pawns. — 1 P-Q4, P-Q4; 2 P-QB4, P-QB3; 3 Kt-KB3, Kt-B3; 4 P-K3, B-B4?; 5 PxP, PxP; 6 Kt-B3, P-K3; 7 Kt-K5!, Kt-QB3 (or Q2); 8 P-KKt4!, B-Kt3 (forced); 9 P-KR4!, P-KR3 (forced); 10 KtxB, PxKt; and Black has a hopeless pawn position.

Biff by a Knight. — 1 P-Q4, P-Q4; 2 Kt-KB3, Kt-KB3; 3 P-B4, P-K3; 4 Kt-B3, B-K2; 5 B-B4? (PxP, PxP first is all right), PxP; 6 P-K3 (if P-K4, B-Kt5!), Kt-Q4!; and Black must get some advantage out of the biff, e.g., 7 BxP, KtxB, etc., or 7 B-Kt3, KtxKt; 8 PxKt, P-QKt4, maintaining the pawn.

Biff by a Bishop. — 1 P-Q4, P-Q4; 2 Kt-KB3, P-K3; 3 B-B4?, B-Q3; White must now lose a tempo by BxB or B-Kt3, or else allow a double Pawn after P-K3.
And now we shall see a Bishop biffed by all three combined.

1 P.K4, P.QB3 (Caro-Kann); 2 P.Q4, P.Q4; 3 Kt-QB3, PxP; 4 KtxP, B-B4? (4 Kt-Q2!); 5 Kt-Kt3, B-Kt3; 6 P.KR4!, P.KR3 (forced) 7 B.Q3? Black must now lose a tempo by exchanging, since he no longer has the support of the KRP. Thus, the advantage of developing the B in one move was illusory.

Now an example of a biff at QB4. 1 P.K4, P.K4; 2 Kt-KB3, P.Q3; 3 P.Q4, PxP; 4 KtxP, Kt-KB3; 5 Kt-QB3, P.KKt3 (Woinarski Variation of the Philidor); 6 B.B4?, B-Kt2; 7 O.O, 0-0.

Black now threatens KtxP! and if KtxKt, P.Q4, forking Bishop and Knight. If White stops that with 8 P.B3! the KB is still vulnerable to a biff some time by Kt-QB3-K4, whenever it suits his opponent, or else to a big push of the Q-side Pawns, beginning with P.QR3 or P.QB3, which may induce the weakening P.QR4 by White.

Before developing a Bishop at Kt5 you must consider your reply to the very obvious biff, P.R3. Can you then exchange with advantage? If not, have you a good retreat? Usually you should be able to maintain the pin by B.R4, but you still must consider the possibility of the further biff, P.Kt4. Usually it will only hurt the biffer, unless (1) your Bishop has no further retreat, or (2) you are bound to castle on that wing, and the enemy can castle on the other.

Other biffs to a Bishop on Kt5 occur when it does not pin, or does not pin effectively. Examples follow:

1 P.Q4, Kt-KB3; 2 Kt-KB3, P.KKt3; 3 B.Kt5?!; Kt-K5 (Bogoljubow-Alekhine).

1 P.K4, P.QB4; 2 Kt-QB3; 3 P.Q3; 4 PxP, KtxP; 5 B.KKt5?, Q.R4ch.

Rarely is B.Kt5 good unless it does pin, and pins effectively.

An exception is the Ruy Lopez. However, we shall now use the Lopez to show how very careful you must be about Bishops.

1 P.K4, P.K4; 2 Kt-KB3, Kt-QB3; 3 B.Kt5, P.QR3; 4 B.R4, P.Q3; 5 P.Q4, P.KR4. This biff, in itself, is not harmful. 6 B.Kt3, KtxP; 7 KtxKt, PxKt; 8 QxP?? Now the stiff biff! 8 P.Q4! White must lose a Bishop for two Pawns, e.g., 9 Q.Q5, B.K3; 10 Q.B6ch, B-Q2; 11 Q.Q5, P.B5 etc.

White should, of course, play 8 B.Q5!?, R.Kt1; 9 QxP, but there is still a trap, for Black plays 9 B.Q2, and again threatens devilish biffs by the QBP, square by square. Best is 10 P.QR3! (Tartakower), with a good game. This P.R3 to shelter a Bishop is often necessary.

Even the development of a Bishop on the third rank, i.e. at Q3 or K3, leaves it open sometimes to a biff by a Knight, e.g., after playing B-Q3 it is often necessary to play P.KR3 to prevent Kt-KKt5, showing that the difference between a Bishop and a Knight in the opening frequently exceeds the value of a tempo.

Even in fianchetto a Bishop is liable to be exchanged off by B-R6, and as that weakens the squares B3 and R3, it is usual to prevent B-R6 by P.R3 (followed probably by K.R2). That also costs at least one tempo.

Perhaps we can now partly understand why masters often choose K2 for the KB, even in positions where the Bishop is itself quite poorly posted on that square.

The Knights have fewer temptations than Bishops, as they cannot go past the third rank on their first move. Avoid supporting a threatened pawn with a Knight, e.g. 1 P.Q4, P.Q4; 2 P.QB4, Kt-KB3 for now 3 PxP, KtxP makes the Knight subject to a tempo-gaining biff by a center pawn. And after 1 P.K4, P.K4; 2 Kt-QB3, Kt-KB3; 3 P.KB4, a common blunder is 3 Kt.B3??; (4 PxP, QKtxP; 5 P.Q4).

Test 4

An elementary application of Test 4 is the injunction to a beginner not to play P.Q3 before he has developed his KB to QB4 or QKt5, or P.K3 before he has developed his KB to QB4 or KKt5. This is a maxim with many exceptions, owing to Test 3, and especially with the Black pieces. E.g., after 1 P.Q4, P.Q4; 2 P.QB4, P.QB3; 3 Kt-KB3, Kt-KB3; 4 P.K3, neither 4 B.B4 nor 4 B.Kt5 is good, and Black should play 4 P.K3. This shows that the elementary maxim is fundamentally unsound. Here we find Test 3 knocking out all the other three tests. Make it a rule to regard Test 3 as the acid.

If you do block one of your Bishops temporarily in the opening, you must have a good reason, and you must be sure that you can provide it with a good egress later, e.g., 1 P.Q4, P.Q4; 2 P.QB4, P.K3. Here Black knows he can fianchetto the temporarily slighted prelate.

So much for blocking Bishops, but what about Bishops blocking their own forces? Why is it that ordinary mortals play B.Q3 where a master often plays B.K2 or fianchettoes? One reason is given by Test 3, and another is that you often have a Pawn at K4, which would block the Bishop. The least understood reason is that in many openings it is...
HINTS FOR THE SOLVER — 1

This month's sermon will be on the subject of problem solving. But unlike most sermons, it will begin with a confession of ignorance. Not long ago, your Editor celebrated his tenth year as a chess problem composer and specialist. And after ten years of weeping, wailing, and gnashing of teeth over the efforts of other composers, he is still unable to point to one magic method that can be guaranteed to unlock any given problem in a short space of time.

I think that it is good that there is no such formula. A large part of our enjoyment of a problem depends on the pleasure we get from matching our wits with its creator. There is, moreover, genuine satisfaction to be gotten from the mental processes we go through: in analyzing a problem's component parts, formulating theories, and proving to ourselves that those theories are correct. And finally, we find that in solving painstakingly we appreciate more keenly the subtleties of a composition—the reasons for the placing of pieces, and the way those pieces interlock—than if we merely chance on the keymove and automatically run through the rest of the solution.

But there is such a thing as spending too much time on a problem. There is always the not-too-unlikely possibility that the reward may not be worth the effort we spend on the solving. And it is a fact that the more we concentrate on a problem, the more we are apt to become "hypnotized" by it—that is, the mind tends to think along the same channels, and if we start off on the track of the solution, we are apt to continue along the same lines much longer than is necessary. I think that if you find yourself "stumped" on a problem, it is a good idea to lay it aside for a while (say after spending half an hour on it), and to come back to it later on, with a fresh viewpoint and the additional advantage that your subconscious mind may have been doing a bit of helpful spadework in the meantime.

Statement of the Ownership, Management, Circulation, etc., required by the Act of Congress of March 4, 1897.

The Chess Review, published monthly at New York, N. Y., for October 1, 1939.

STATE OF NEW YORK COUNTY OF NEW YORK

Before me, a Commissioner of Deeds in and for the State and County aforesaid, personally appeared I. A. Horowitz, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Editor of The Chess Review, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc. of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 145, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse side of this affidavit.

2. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 percent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages or other securities are: None.

3. That the two paragraphs next above, relating to the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company, but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing all the full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity as such of a bona fide owner; and this affidavit has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest, direct or indirect, in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 9th day of October, 1939.

I. A. Horowitz

This month we are favored with a selection of early three-movers by F. Gamage, who is well-known to Review solvers for his masterful problems in shorter vein. We are indebted to Mr. E. W. Allen for this fine group of "quotes."

desirable to keep the Q-file open. This happens whenever you exchange, or are liable to exchange, your QP.

For example, after 1 P.K4, P.QB4; 2 Kt-KB3, Kt-QB3; 3 P.Q4.

Again, 1 P.K4, P.K4; 2 Kt-KB3, P.R4; 3 P.Q4.

Again, 1 P.K4, P.QB3; 2 P.Q4, P.Q4; 3 Kt-QB3, PxP. Here it is Black who will be tempted to play B.Q3 later, probably to his cost.

By a few experiments you can soon see that the Q-file is opened far more often than the K file, and this explains why B.K2 is often good, while B.K2 is usually ridiculous.

It took some of the masters quite a long time to learn that B.Q3 was bad in the following sort of opening:

1 P.Q4, Kt-KB3; 2 P.Q4, P.KK3; 3 Kt-QB3, Kt-Kt4; 4 P.K4, P.Q3; 5 Kt-B3, O-O; 6 B.Q3. After 6 Kt-Q2 and 7 P.K4, White must decide either his P exchanged—which would make B.Q3 bad, as already explained, or must play P.Q5, which would allow an enemy Knight to come into QB4 with a biff.

Next month we shall get down to brass tacks. Our concern this month has been to open players' eyes to some of the considerations that actually guide strong players in the opening, as opposed to the superficial maxims given in books.

HOROWITZ AND MORTON TO TOUR

I. A. Horowitz, twice North American champion and three times a member of the United States' world championship team and Harold Morton, present New England States' champion (since 1929!) leave New York at the end of this month upon their transcontinental tour.

Then begins a country-wide series of simultaneous exhibitions, blindfold demonstrations, lectures and consultation games. It is a winding chess travelogue which wends its way to the doors of virtually every active chess club in the United States and Canada.

Note for Clubs

Every effort will be made to accommodate requests for exhibitions. Clubs desiring to arrange dates may be guided by the geographical plan outlined above. Some slight variance may result, as the tour is adjusted to permit fulfillment of engagements now being planned, or which may be subsequently requested, but the tabulations are reasonably accurate approximations.

This joint tour of two leading American masters, the first double-feature transcontinental trek in American chess, is available to clubs for no more than Mr. Horowitz' usual fee.

Montevideo

Argentina, making the most of its good fortune in having cornered the market of world chess talent, arranged a succession of international tournaments upon conclusion of the International Team Tournament, wherein the many visiting Europeans were arrayed against its native heroes.

Two world champions simultaneously graced the entry list at Montevideo, Uruguay, as Dr. Alekhine and Mrs. Vera Menchik Stevenson participated in an eight-player invitation tournament arranged by the British Consul General, Sir Millington Drake, for the benefit of the British Red Cross.

Dr. Alekhine gave a superb and flawless exhibition, being in word and deed the man of the hour—for each opponent, “the zero hour,” distributing seven of the unwelcome discs evenly and impartially amongst the field.

Rosario, situated inland on the Parana River, was the scene of one such event. In the field were three national champions, Petrov of Latvia, Eliskases of Germany and Mikenas of Lithuania. Against them the balance of the field, all South Americans, scored only two points out of a possible fifteen.

Vladimir Petrov, alone unscored upon by the Argentine quintet, won the tournament after drawing with Eliskases and winning all his remaining games. Final scores follow:

Buenos Aires

Paul Keres of Estonia and M. Najdorf of Poland, two of the youngest top-flight masters today, both recognized as ranking amongst the most dangerous of tournament foemen, jointly shared top honors in the International Masters’ Tournament at Buenos Aires which was contested shortly after the International Team Matches.

Twelve entries, representing seven countries, and including also Miss Sonja Graf, runner-up in the Women’s World Championship shortly after the International Team Matches, proved so formidable that no player escaped before bending an unwilling knee to defeat at least once.

THE MILLENNIUM

A TOUCHDOWN STORY WHICH KICKS THE “IT CAN’T HAPPEN HERE” FOR A FIELD GOAL

from The Saturday Evening Post

Before a record-breaking crowd of 120,000 which packed the great Purnell University stadium today, Morton, of Purnell, and Vance, of Harmouth, battled to a breath-taking finish in the annual Chess Classic, in which Morton, by brilliant use of his queen and his king’s bishop, checkmated Vance in 4:35:03.

It was a game replete with thrills. When Morton trotted out onto the field toward the beautiful chess table in the center, wearing his big red varsity P on his black sweater, Purnell rooters rose as one man to give him a deafening ovation. When, a moment later, Vance jogged out onto the field wearing his big purple varsity H on an orange sweater, the Harmouth cheering section rose as another man and greeted him with a long swelling “Checkety-eck-tee-eck-tee-eck—checkmate! Harmouth!”

The toss being won by Morton, Vance elected to sit on the north side of the table. Morton advanced his king’s pawn to K4, and the battle was on, while 120,000 onlookers silently and tensely watched the giant electrically-controlled chessboards which hung at intervals along the length of the field.

In the first period Vance’s plunging knights, crafty bishops and sturdy rooks fought Morton to a standstill, resisting every crushing onslaught. Then, during the usual intermission after the first two and a half hours of play, the two university bands took the field and marched smartly about, playing their stirring college songs, among them being, of course, the traditional “Sweep Down the Chessboard With Old Purnell,” and, “Checkmate Dear Old Harmouth’s Foes.”

After twenty minutes, play was resumed, and two hours and five minutes later Morton advanced his king’s bishop to QKt7 and in a clear, steady voice announced, “Check!” Vance was checkmated, the game was over, and hysterical Purnell rooters poured out onto the field to tear up Vance’s side of the chessboard and carry it away in triumph.

The annual Purnell-Harmouth football game was also played today, on the field behind the old gym. Harmouth won, 12-0. Several hundred loiterers watched the game from the side lines.

New Wrinkles In The Grunfeld Defense
by REUBEN FINE

For almost twenty years the Grunfeld Defense has been a “pain in the neck” to players who are overfond of  P-Q4. Refutations have come and refutations have gone, but invariably after the tumult and shouting have died down, the Defense is still alive and as strong as ever. Yet players who are addicted to the Queen’s Pawn Opening are often absolutely certain that White ought to win by force that they simply can’t stomach the thought that a sound defense to their beloved opening exists. And so the quest for a “refutation” goes on and on and on and—is still going.

But some progress has been made; some definite knowledge has been secured, and some definite foundation has been built for future research. This article is intended to indicate just what the present-day master assumes as fairly certain and just where he looks for improvements. Perhaps, however, it is not altogether irrelevant to remind ourselves that even the most sacrosanct variations may be completely discredited by some simple line which has been overlooked by everybody.

First, then, we are pretty sure that White must play aggressively if he is unwilling to concede his opponent immediate equality. This means that after the opening moves 1 P-Q4, Kt-KB3; 2 P-QB4, P-KKt3; 3 Kt-QB3, P-Q4 the search narrows down to two possibilities: 4 B-B4 and 4 Q-Kt3 (4 Kt-KB3 need not be considered an independent line). Both of these possibilities present a number of important problems which have not yet been solved.

And now four branches of the trunk line must be considered.

(A)  6 Kt-B3  P-B4!
   7 Q-Kt3

On 7 PxQP, KtxP; 8 B-K5, KtxKt; 9 PxKt, PxP; 10 BxB, KxB, Black has a superior ending (Eliskases-Flohr, Semmering-Baden, 1937), while against the latest wrinkle 7 B-K5 (Abrahams-Flohr, Bournemouth, 1939), PxBP; 8 BxP, Kt-Kt3; 9 0-0, PxP; 10 PxP, P-Kt3; 11 Q-K2, B-Kt2; 12 QR-B1, KtxB gives Black a clear advantage.

    7 . . . .  PxQP
    8 KtxKt  PxP
    9 BxP  Q-Kt2
   10 B-Kt3  Kt-R4
   11 R-Q1  KtxB

Black obviously has nothing to fear (Capablanca-Botwinnik, AVRO, 1938).

(B)  6 Q-Kt3  P-B4!
   7 PxQP

If here 7 PxBP, Q-R4; 8 PxP, Kt-K5; 9 Kt-K2, KtxQP; 10 Q-B4, Kt-K3; Black has a powerful attack, which should at least draw (Capablanca-Flohr, AVRO, 1938.)

   7 . . . .  PxP
   8 PxP  Q-Kt2
   9 B-Kt3  Kt-Kt3
   10 B-B3  B-Kt5

Better than 10 . . . B-B4 which was played in the 13th match game Levenfish-Botwinnik, 1937.

   11 BxB  KtxB
   12 Kt-B3  Kt-B3
   13 P-Q6  PxP

And the chances are about even.

(C)  6 R-B1  P-B4!

This pesty pawn move always ruins White’s hopes.

   7 PxBP  Q-R4
   8 PxP  R-Q1
   9 Q-R4

If 9 Q-Q2?, KtxP!!; 10 B-B7, QxP; 11 KtxKt, RxKt!!; 12 QxR, B-K3 with a winning attack (Tolusch-Botwinnik, Moscow, 1939).

Position from sub-variation

Botwinnik
We turn now to the other major possibility:

4 Q-Kt3

Now this is quite powerful, since Black obviously must not play P-QB4. Against the alternative 6 PxP the simplest is 7 P-Kt4, Kt-K3; 8 B-Kt5, Q-Q2; 9 B-Q5, Kt-K3; 10 Q-B2, B-Kt5; 11 B-Kt3, BxKt; 12 BxKt, P-Kt4!; 13 BxP, BxKt; 14 BxB, Q-KQ2 with perfect equality (Lilienthal-Reshevsky, Leningrad-Moscow, 1939).

6 BxB

If 6 . . . PxP: 7 QxBP, B-K5; 8 Q-Q3, Kt-Kt4; 9 KtxKt, PxKt; 10 Q-K6ch, Q-Q2: 11 P-K3 and White has a slight pull.

Compare Reshevsky-Mikenas, Hastings 1937-'38:

6 P-K3

And Black can equalize. See Modern Chess Openings, Queen's Pawn Game, Col. 136.

A possible strong alternative is 6 Q-K4ch —

Cf. M. C. O., Col. 146, note (b).

6 . . .

7 P-Kt3

Kt-B3

But not 7 . . . B-Kt2; 8 QxP, B-Q2; 9 Q-Kt3, B-QKt1; 10 Q-Q1, B-B4; 11 Q-R4, Q-Q2; 12 P-QR3 and Black has nothing (Euwe-Landa, Hastings, 1938-'39)

7 Q-Q2

Kt-Q2

But 7 . . . P-QB4!; 8 KtxKt, BxKt; 9 P-Kt3. . . ; 10 KtxKt, KtxKt; 11 Q-Kt5ch, BxP; 12 Q-K3 and White has a slight pull.

Better than 8 KtxKt — M. C. O. col. 146.

8 . . .

Kt-Kt5

9 Q-R4

And White maintains a slight pull.

Our conclusion then is that against 4 Q-Kt3, P-B3 should equalize.

With the exception of the solitary variation D in 4 B-B4, Black has an adequate reply in every eventuality. On general principles one is inclined to doubt the cogency of this "refutation," e.g. on 9 Kt-K2, B-B4 appears to be strong, for if 10 Kt-B3, Kt-K3; 11 P-Q5, Q-Q2 and Black's game is adequate.

( NOTE: I must beg the reader's indulgence for the frequent allusions to Modern Chess Openings, but my aim has been to discuss some of the improvements that have appeared since the publication of that work and to indicate where and how masters at present are looking for the best line against the Grunfeld Defense).
Game Studies

Positional characteristics often influence the entire course of a game, particularly a weakness of the pawn structure.

Superficially the weakness may be latent inasmuch as it can be defended as many times as it can be attacked, at which critical stage the game is apparently in equilibrium. The advantage of mobility, nevertheless, accrues to the attacking player.

Generally, this is sufficient to turn the tide in favor of the aggressor. However, the following "no decision" contest is an exception to the rule.

2 P-QB4 P-K3 6 Kt-B3 QKt-Q2
3 Kt-QB3 Kt-KB3 7 B-Q3 PxP
4 B-Kt5 B-K2 8 BxP P-QR3

Simpler is 8 . . . P-Kt3, followed by . . . B-Kt2.

9 P-K4 . . .

An interesting attempt to revive this variation.

9 . . .
10 B-Q3 P-B4
11 P-K5 Kt-Q4
12 BxP QxB

Not 12 . . . KtxKt because of 13 BxPch, when . . . KxB would be met by Q-B2ch!

13 KtxKt PxKt
14 O-O P-B5
15 B-K2 . . .

White's K side P majority, plus the position of his minor pieces, which are poised for action against the adverse K, outweigh Black's Q side advantage.

15 . . .

Attempting to anticipate the attack by forcing open the B file.

16 Q-Q2 B-Kt2
17 QR-K1 PxP
18 PxP Kt-B4
19 Kt-Q4 . . .

In order to fully capitalize on his K side majority, White must first render Black's Q side pawns immobile.

19 . . .
20 Q-K3 P-Kt3
21 P-Kt3 Kt-B4
22 P-KKt3 QR-K1
23 P-KR4 . . .

23 . . .
24 R-B2 Kt-K3
25 P-B4 B-B1
26 B-Q1 Kt-B4
27 KtxKt BxKt

Thus far, Black has enjoyed a measure of success in stemming the advance. But now his QP becomes a target for White's batteries.

28 B-B3 Q-K3
29 Q-Q4 R-Q1

30 P-R5 . . .

Direct concentration on the QP by R-Q1 would prove fruitless after . . . B-Q6.

30 . . .
31 PxB PxB
32 R-KR2 R-KR2
33 RxR KxKt3
34 R-Q1 B-Kt5!

For 34 . . . B-Q6 would be met by the advance 35 P-KKt4.

35 K-B2 BxB
36 KxKt Q-R6

Pointing rather than stalling. A one-piece attack is generally of no consequence.

37 R-K1 Q-K3
38 P-KKt4 K-Kt2
39 R-KR1 R-Q2
40 K-Kt3 R-KB2
41 R-Q1 . . .

By skillful maneuvering, White at last commands tribute. The QP must fall. If 41 . . . R-Q2; 42 R-B5, PxB; 43 PxP, QxP; 44 P-KB3ch!

41 . . .
42 QxQP QxQ
43 RxQ P-B2

Preventing White from consolidating his gains by bringing his K to the center. The advanced BP demands attention.

44 R-Q2 P-B6
45 PxP P-B5
46 R-QB2 R-QB2

Cutting the line of communication between the R and K.

47 P-B5 . . .

Impetuous. First 47 K-B3 and then after . . . K-B2; 48 P-B5 would have gained several tempi.

47 . . .
48 PxP K-R3
49 P-K6 K-Kt2
50 P-K7 K-B3
51 P-B6 R-B1

Black has established a successful blockade.

Book Reviews
MY BEST GAMES OF CHESS
1924-1937

By Dr. Alexander A. Alekhine $3.50

The chess fraternity has been presented a book which can be opened with the same expectant thrill with which the music lover greets Brahms' Violin Concerto, Toscanini conducting the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra with Jascha Heifetz as soloist.

Alekhine has again measured up to the high standard which has come to be expected of his writings. His brilliant and forceful games, lucidly and penetratingly analyzed, are culled from his most important tournament and match games played from 1924 to 1937. Alekhine belongs to that small coterie of grandmasters who regard their games objectively and annotate them conscientiously. Who else would be modest enough to say, as he does of his eleventh match game with Capablanca — "In my opinion this game has been praised too much, the whole world over. It was doubtless very exciting, both for the players—who were continuously short of time—and the public. But its final part  [here he lays bare many lost opportunities by both players]  but for its outstanding importance (it became in fact, the crucial point of the match) I would hardly have included it in this collection."?

Alekhine's first book, "My Best Games of Chess 1908-1923" is widely regarded as the finest book on chess ever written. In the present volume a formidable rival has arisen. The two volumes are vital contributions to chess literature, and should head the cbampion player of the world (and the champion annotator, too)! Its 285 double column pages contain 120 games, with many more games included in notes.

The roster of opponents, a veritable Who's Who of Chess, includes Euwe, Capablanca, Bogolubow, Tartakower, Nimzowitsch, Fine and Reshevsky. It will be found invaluable by the student, analyst and game lover.

—I.C.
Greetings to all friends of the royal game of chess:

Ye editors of The Chess Review have suggested that I write a letter to you each month—at least for a while—and tell you of the United States Chess Federation, its purpose, its plans, and its aspirations. This is a splendid idea which I welcome with enthusiasm. I want you to feel that we are your Federation and that our purpose is to serve you and the thousands of other chess players throughout the land. We ought to have a bond in common: for by that means we become transformed from a host of widely scattered and more or less inarticulate chess players to a mighty organized group. We can do this if we will, and if we can count on your help.

LATE FLASH!

These are days when the U. S. of A. C. F. is facing the sun.

Atop good news of official concordance all-around—good response to financial appeals—another last minute ray of sunlight beams:

Ward M. Parker Mitchell, that ever-present and popular attender of chess tournaments everywhere, whose host of friends within the game range two continents, has accepted a vice-presidency of the United States of America Chess Federation and will guide a campaign aimed at placing 2,000 new members on the rolls of the federation.

We are sure you will assist us. Much as I should like to write each one of you an individual letter, it is obviously impossible. But I can and will write this letter each month with the hope you will consider it just as personal as though a letter from me were delivered at your doorstep by the postman and over my personal signature.

Since writing you last month I am very happy to tell you that Mr. George E. Roosevelt of New York City has consented to be vice-president and treasurer of our Federation. We should all be most grateful to Mr. Roosevelt for accepting this post because our treasury was empty when he took over the fiscal reins. However, thanks to our many good friends who answered my appeal last month, we now have a little money on hand for general purposes of the Federation—not much, to be sure, but nevertheless we have made a good start.

If you want to help and have not already sent in your “mite,” won’t you please be good enough to mail your contribution to George E. Roosevelt, Treasurer, 30 Pine Street, New York.

Now let me give you a little bit of good news. The other day the Wilmington Chess Club of Wilmington, Delaware wrote to our secretary, enrolled as a club member, and sent in individual memberships for every single individual chess player in their club—100% enrollment. What a splendid gesture that was, and how heartening to the officers of the United States Chess Federation! If every club in the country would do that we would certainly “go places.” Won’t you, Mr. Club President, or you, Mr. Club Secretary, follow the example of the officers and members of the Wilmington Chess Club? Won’t you, Mr. Duffer or Mr. Expert, urge your officers to join our Federation as club members and enroll also, yourselves, as individual members? How about you State Associations? For details, please write to our secretary, Mr. Ernest Olfe, 1111 North 10th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Do this please! Don’t put it off! Let’s all put our shoulders to the wheel and push! Let’s follow the example of the Wilmington Chess Club. Here’s to you, Wilmington! We salute you!

Cordially yours,

GEORGE STURGIS
President, United States Chess Federation

HAVANA WINTER CARNIVAL TOURNAMENT

The Winter Sports Carnival which opens in January at Havana, Cuba, will feature a chess tournament lent an international flavor by the presence of Isaac Kashdan. Other entries will be Senorita Maria Teresa Mora, who placed seventh in the women’s world championship tournament at Buenos Aires, all members of the Cuban international team except Capablanca and a selection of other leading Cuban players. The event is announced by President Angel de Albee of the Havana Chess Club.

CALIFORNIA STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Philip Woliston, 19-year old Los Angeles youth, scored a smashing victory in his conquest of the California's State Championship tournament which concluded November 23rd. Losing only one of his eight games, he out-ranked a field which included Harry Borochow, state titlist since 1930, Herman Steiner of the 1931 American international team, and Georges Koltanowski, better known for his exploits sans voir.

Woliston, youngest competitor in the field of nine, and the youngest state champion ever to win El Dorado's crown, has made an auspicious entry in this, his first important tournament.

WHERE TO PUT YOUR PIECES IN THE OPENING

PART II: THE PIECES, ONE BY ONE

Let us warn the student that he should be careful, before proceeding further, to re-read not only the September, October and November "First Steps," especially the parts on pawn play and pawn exchanges.

Part I of the present article on "Where to Put your Pieces in the Opening," was given last month, and dealt with four tests for finding good squares for your pieces. Part II takes the pieces individually, and Part III—probably the most helpful—will give a complete illustrative example.

THE KNIGHTS

The most effective post for a Knight to take on its first move is B3, for there it commands two of the four center squares. In my first article in the September Chess Review, you will find the following very important rule:

Where you don't play P-K4 early, never block your QBP.

So, whenever you are playing a close game, i.e., you have not played P-K4, you must never on any account play Kt-QB3 until you have played P-QB4; and if P-QB4 cannot be safely played for some time—as often happens when you are Black—you may have to content yourself with developing the QKt at Q2. Note that Q2 has this advantage over Kt-B3: that the Knight is nearer the KB-side. This is often useful, whether for defensive or attacking purposes, as both Kings usually castle on the KB-side.

If you always develop the King's Knight at KB3 you will never be far wrong. However, if you have played P-K4, and cannot play P-Q4 for some reason, it is desirable to keep the KBP free—see my first article in The Chess Review for September, 1939—because you should always keep the option of getting two adjacent central pawns abreast on the fourth rank. In this case it is well to develop the KKt at K2.

Example: 1 P-K4, P-QB4; 2 Kt-QB3, Kt-QB3: Here White does well to avoid Kt-KB3, for Black can answer with P-K4!, which prevents White from playing his QP two squares, and White himself has spoiled his chance of advancing his KBP two squares. It is therefore not possible for him to obtain the initiative—since he cannot get two adjacent central pawns out two squares unless he moves his KKt again, which involves loss of time.

Sometimes Kt-KB3 is inadvisable because of an awkward pin.

Example: 1 P-K4, P-K3; 2 P-Q4, P-Q4; 3 PxP, PxP; 4 B-Q3, B-Q3; 5 Kt-QB3, Kt-K2! Here it has been found that 5 Kt-KB3 is somewhat dangerous for Black owing to the pin by 6 B-KKt5, whereas 5 Kt-K2 allows B-KKt5 to be met by P-KB3. The Knight at K2 enables Black to follow up with B-KB4, which challenges White's powerful KB.

Another example is the orthodox attack against Alekhine's Defense: 1 P-K4, Kt-KB3; 2 P-K5, Kt-Q4; 3 P-QB4, Kt-Kt3; 4 P-Q4, P-Q4; 5 PxP, KPxP; 6 B-Q3, Kt-B3; 7 Kt-K2; Clearly, the pin would be obnoxious after 7 Kt-KB3.

Sometimes even Kt-KR3 is best. This occurs when you want to keep the option of playing P-KB3 and P-K4, in order to break up a Stonewall formation.

Example:—Dutch Defense: 1 P-Q4, P-KB4; 2 P-KKt3, P-K3; 3 B-Kt2, P-Q4; 4 Kt-KR3! White wants to keep the option of P-KB3 and P-K4, the only way to break through.

The same move is good for Black against Bird's Opening.

However, these exceptions are subtleties for strong players rather than first-steppers. Remember that KB3 is nearly always at least as good as any other square, and usually far and away the best.

THE BISHOPS

Provided that the long diagonal is reasonably open, a Bishop is most effectively posted at Kt2, for there it bears on two of the four center squares, and sometimes squares in the enemy camp as well.

A fianchetto, however, may involve loss of time in two ways: first, as both center pawns are generally moved at some time—one or two squares—you are losing a tempo by playing P-Kt3; secondly, you may have to play P-KR3 and K-R2 to avoid the exchange of a fianchettoed KB through B-R6. Such an exchange weakens the squares in front of your castled King.

Another drawback to a fianchetto is that the pawn at Kt3 limits the mobility of the other Bishop and virtually debars it from developing at B4 or Kt5, since it cannot retreat to Kt3 if bishoped—very important.

THE CHESS REVIEW
Don't fianchetto unless you know it is good, especially if an avenue is already open to the Bishop.

The KB should usually be developed before the QB, because you want the way clear for K-side castling. Besides, it is nearly always easier to select the KB's square. The explanation—too long to give here—depends on the unsymmetrical nature of original position—inasmuch as the two center files have such very different pieces at their ends.

One effect of this, as we noted last month, was that B-K2 is often a good move, but B-Q2 hardly ever.

When in doubt about the KB, put it at K2. It is safest.

Don't be afraid to develop a Bishop more aggressively if your judgment tells you it is good—see last month's lengthy discussion on this matter.

The only time when you should develop the QB early is when you are White in the Queen's Pawn Game, and wish to develop it in one move before playing P-K3. The same sortie for Black, however, is nearly always inadvisable; see "Biffing the Bishop." As a general rule, develop all the other three minor pieces before the QB.

The Rooks

Develop Rooks on their most effective files as soon as you can, but keep them on the back row as long as the opponent has two or more minor pieces. If brought out, they may only be targets.

If you have advanced a pawn two squares, usually prepared to back it up with a Rook. E.g., after playing P-QR3 and P-QKt4, you generally need your QR to back up this advance, in case a file is opened through it.

The Queen

The Queen has to be moved off the back rank to free the Rooks, but she should usually be moved only one square, as already stated, to the file that is least likely to be opened. It is bad to put a Queen on an open file. It only means the loss of a tempo later when the file is taken by an enemy Rook.

That the Queen will suffer from exposure if brought into mid-board is not an invariable rule. E.g., a gross blunder often made in the Scotch Opening (1 P-K4, P-K4; 2 Kt-KB3, Kt-QB3; 3 P-Q4, PxP; 4 KtxP) is 4 KtxKt?. This loses a clear tempo and therefore gives Black almost a lost game after 5 QxKt. The White Queen is brought into a dominating post. She can be attacked, it is true, by Kt-K2-QB3, but the Black Knight makes two moves, so that no time is gained. Raw beginners often hit away the Queen by 5 P-QB4?? This makes their game absolutely lost, after 6 Q-Q1!, as the QB is left backward, and there is a hole at Q5 on which a White Knight can settle later with devastating effect.

It is surprising, nevertheless, how easy it is to lose the Queen altogether, e.g., 1 P-K4, P-K3; 2 P-Q4, P-Q4; 3 Kt-QB3, PxP; 4 KtxP, Kt-KB3; 5 KtxKtch, QxKt; 6 Kt-Kt3, QKt-Q2; 7 B-Q3, O-O??, (say); 8 B-KKt5, Resigns.

This month's ladder prize goes to G. Plowman, who joins the select "four-star" group and earns our hearty congratulations. A. J. Pink's fine No. 1417 easily wins the quarterly three-mover contest. The San Francisco expert is hard to beat!
My heartiest greetings for Christmas and the New Year to all of you!

As a special Christmas treat we offer twenty-seven originals this month and announce a little contest for the “really tough” solvers. Nos. 1492-1500 are the regular Ladder selections, and a fine bunch they seem, even to these jaded eyes. Nos. 1510-1518 are a picked group, the solutions to which will not be counted on the Ladder; instead, we offer two prizes (of $5 and $2) for the best sets of solutions received before March 1 next. Some of them will probably prove very difficult indeed, but don’t be afraid to send in partial sets of solutions: it’s quite possible that others may not do quite as well as you! In case of ties, the set bearing the prior postmark will win—with allowances of course being made for the relative distances of the solvers and the time it takes the Review to reach them (you might mention when you submit your solutions the exact date on which your copy arrived). Here is a chance to find out who are our champion solvers!

For the record, I might say that Nos. 1510-1518 adhere strictly to ordinary chess rules, without any “Christmas stunts,” such as retracting moves or promoting Pawns to pieces of another color or analyzing the previous play. Apropos of 1517 and 1518 we should explain for those not familiar with that peculiar piece, the Grasshopper, that it jumps over pieces in any direction, to the next adjacent square, unless that square is occupied by a piece of its own color. Thus in No. 1518, the G at b6 could move to e3 or capture the White G at e6; the G at a1 could play to a8 or e1 or capture the Black G at e5; and so on. In a “maxisemilote” Black is obliged to play his longest possible move at each turn, but White is not thus restricted; and White compels Black to mate him in the required number of moves. In a “maxisemilote,” Black has the same handicap, and White stalemates him.

HINTS FOR THE SOLVER. II

The real beginner should not try to tackle a man-size problem at the very start. It will only confuse him. I should suggest that he go over the solutions of our published problems, studying them and carefully acquainting himself with the reasons why the problems are what they are. After he has come to realize that they are not mere masses of pieces placed on the board in an effort to confuse, he can proceed to more serious business. On the principle of learning by progressing from the simple to the complex, he should begin with two-movers, and not bother with longer problems until he feels sure that he can, say, solve a majority of those published each month in the Review. Practice and experience are essential.

In subsequent issues I shall give hints for solving three-move and longer-range problems; space prevents my giving any but a few general rules this month about two-movers. Every solver has his own methods, developed according to his tastes or needs. I offer the following as suggestions for increasing one’s skill. They may not make the road less bumpy for you, as they have done for me, but give them a good try anyway!

First, instead of trying all of White’s moves, concentrate on Black’s play. Virtually all two-movers illustrate some definite theme or set of striking variations, and the number of themes purely involving maneuvers by White is vastly less than on those showing Black strategy. And since the general aspect of Black’s form cannot be very much changed by the keymove, it follows that if you ask yourself at the beginning, “What move or moves can Black make that will allow a pretty mate?”, you will be taking a short cut to finding the composer’s intention. Look for possible pins, selfblocks, crosschecks. When you have found several of these, ask yourself why Black should make such moves; in other words, “Against what possible threat of White would such moves be defenses?” Then find a keymove that will create such a threat. To cite but one example: in No. 1412, by making Black play first, we find that after moves of the Black Knight at e5, there are two selfblocks and four interferences. It is therefore plain that the threat is 2 Qxc5 and that the keymove places a White guard on that square.

This method also has the advantage of detecting quickly whether a two-mover is of the “threat” type, in which the keymove sets up a potential mate to which Black must make defenses, or the “block” type, in which the keymove has no especial threat, but each of Black’s moves allows a White mate. In cases where the block is incomplete before the keymove, this method will spot the unprovided for Black move and lead quickly to the key.
